A GUTTED "CASTLE."

The Police Can no Farther Investigate Holmes's House.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—H. H. Holmes's "castle," at Sixty-third and Wallace streets, which is said to have been the scene of numerous murders by the owner, was discovered to be on fire at 12:30 o'clock this morning. After an hour of hard work the firemen succeeded in getting the flames under control, but not until after they had left the building in a condition to become more of a curiosity than it was while being searched by the police for evidence of murder. The fire had its origin in the restaurant occupied by J. H. Barton, and was caused by the explosion of a lamp. An immense crowd gathered to witness the fire, and during the progress the remarks of those present indicated that the neighborhood was not in the least sorry to be rid of the notorious building.

Some one caused considerable excitement for a time by asking where the Quinlan family was. Pat Quinlan and his wife and Farmer Owen were released by the police on Saturday, but none of them have since been seen about the building. When the fire had eaten its way through the second floor, it began to consume the effects of the Quinlans, and for a time it was thought that some member of the family might be in the apartments. Investigation by the firemen, however, disclosed no sign of life, and it was afterward said that the Quinlans had gone to the farm in Michigan, where their daughter had been staying since their arrest. The household furniture of the Quinlans was wholly destroyed. The total loss, however, will not, it is said, be much over $15,000.

The restaurant in which the fire started is on the ground floor. The flames jumped up through the dummy elevator and burned the abestos off the dead walls in such a manner that the police will be unable to make any further investigation, even if they desired to do so. People remained about the building all night, and the police had hard work to keep them from placing themselves in positions where they were liable to be injured by falling timbers.

IT WAS INCENDIARY.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Discoveries made by the police today lead to the belief that last night's fire in the "castle" of H. H. Holmes was of incendiary origin. Several people living near the burned building saw two men enter the house shortly before the fire broke out, and leave with great haste. A search revealed a half can of gasoline in the secret stairway.

Died While on Sick Leave.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The Indian Bureau has received a dispatch from Glenwood Springs, Colo., announcing the death there of W. S. Davis of Arkansas, chief of the accounts division of the bureau, who has been absent on sick leave.

THE TOWN ABLAZE.

Bingham Utah, Suffers Heavily by a Conflagration.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

SALT LAKE (Utah,) Aug 19.—A special to the Tribune from Bingham, Utah, says that the whole town is ablaze, and the loss is estimated at $200,000. The fire originated at 3:30 o'clock in Butler's livery stable. Roberts's dwelling house, saloon and stable were consumed, then the fire spread to Chinatown and swept everything on the east side of the street.

Among the buildings consumed on the west side of the street were the Griffin House, Quinn's building, postoffice, mining recorder's office, United States Commissioner's office and Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone, Catholic Church and a number of boarding-houses. Many people are homeless.

AT IT AGAIN.

The New York Garment-makers Agitating a Strike.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Two thousand five hundred union vestmakers, including 700 women and girls, are on a strike today for a renewal of their agreement. It is not likely the contractors will make any determined opposition, but some of them are not pressed with orders and it may require a week to stop the strike.

Cloakmakers have a new piecework price, including rates for cloakmaking, from 25 to 50 per cent over present figures. There are 10,000 workers interested who, unless concessions are made, will go on a general strike.

A Catholic Priest Arrested.

ST. JOSEPH (Mo.,) Aug. 19.—Rev. Father Baker, a Catholic priest, was arrested in this city today, charged with assault with intent to commit rape. The warrant on which the arrest was made was issued in Harrison county, Mo. The offense is alleged to have been committed last Thursday. Father Baker denies the charge, and is confident he can clear himself.

An Editor's Death.

WATERTOWN (N. Y.,) Aug. 19.—John Miller Wilcox, editor of the Cleveland Penny Press, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the summer home of his friend, ex-Mayor W. G. Rose, of Cleveland, at Rose Island, St. Lawrence River, aged 52 years. The cause of his death was heart disease, resulting from an attack of grip two years ago.

Sank in the Mississippi.

CAIRO (Ill.,) Aug. 19.—The steamer City of Sheffield, from St. Louis to Tennessee River, struck an obstruction in the Mississippi River back of Cairo tonight and sank. The water barely covers the boiler deck, and the steamer will be raised without trouble. Most of the passengers were asleep and knew nothing of the accident until morning.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The Daily News has a dispatch from Vienna which says that Trieste papers report that an explosion occurred in the artillery barracks at Toula, Russia, and that three hundred men were killed, including many officers.

The barracks were found to be completely undermined today. Many arrests have been made.

DARK KNIGHTS.

Colored Pythians in Session at Chicago—Financial Affairs.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Colored Knights of Pythias are not anticipating much trouble, in spite of the fact that the affairs of the Supreme Lodge have been placed in the hands of a receiver. The eighth biennial session of the Supreme Lodge opened today, the first session being occupied by the Committee on Credentials in checking up the credentials of the delegates. These number 162, and represent twenty-eight States, as well as the West Indies. Each State is entitled to two representatives, and the West Indies has three.

The delegates expressed themselves as satisfied that their legal troubles would be settled in short order, and the affairs of the organization taken out of the courts.

On the Valley Line.

STOCKTON, Aug. 19.—There was much going on in railroad construction matters here today. Grant Bros. started the building of the grade of the Valley road from this city to the Stanislaus River. The city contractors commenced on the last section of their portion of the grade, and Cotton Bros. began work on the first trestle between the city limits and the Stanislaus. Two gangs of men were put to work tracklaying.

Contractor Murphy Offers a Thousand Dollars for Assistance—Gen. Adams Probably Killed—The Engineer's Criminal Carelessness.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

DENVER (Colo.,) Aug. 19.—A portion of the Gumry Hotel, the scene of last night's frightful disaster, is still standing, a gaunt and sinister ruin, constantly threatening to crash down on those delving in the ruins at any moment. The search for victims has been carried on with the utmost energy constantly since the explosion occurred and is being continued tonight with the aid of twenty arc lights.

Flames broke out afresh in the wreckage tonight and the fire engines are again pouring forth water, still further impeding the work of rescue.

The list of dead and missing now numbers twenty-five, making the disaster the worst that has ever occurred in the city. Up to 7:30 o'clock tonight, only seven bodies had been recovered, being those of Manager Greiner and his wife, clasped in each other's arms; George Burt, a Rock Island Railroad conductor; Mrs. George R. Wolfe and daughter, Fred Hubbold and Will Richards, the elevator man.

Among the missing is now included Elmer Pierce, the night engineer, who is said to have entered the hotel just before the explosion occurred. It is to this man's carelessness that the disaster is attributed. The bodies of Peter Gumry and Gen. Adams are still in the ruins. Judge James Glynn, who was at first supposed to have been in his room at the hotel, turns out to be at Holyoke, Colo., where he was spending Sunday with friends.

A vast throng surrounds the building on every side, pressing forward as far as the ropes will allow. The police are constantly guarding against any one stepping through the lines on account of the great danger from the standing walls.

At 10:30 p.m. the body of E. F. McCloskey of Colorado Springs, a wealthy owner of Cripple Creek mines, was taken from the ruins. This, with James Murphy, who died while being taken out, makes eight bodies thus far recovered.

The fire has been almost extinguished and one hundred teams are now making as rapid progress as possible removing the debris, though at best the work is painfully slow.

At 12:30 o'clock three more bodies were uncovered, those of Bela I. Lorah and Frederick French of Central City, Colo., and an unknown. The former have been identified by Lorah's father, who is assisting in removing the debris from the bodies. The third body is burned beyond recognition.

Frederick French, one of those yet missing, came to Colorado from Michigan in 1875, locating in Gilpin county. He had served as Alderman and Mayor of Central City, and two years ago was elected County Treasurer. He was a prominent Mason.

Bela I. Lorah, another victim, hailing from Central City, was 28 years of age and a native of that city. He was one of the best-known assayers in the State. He leaves a widow and young son, who are now visiting in Iowa.

Three Pueblo citizens are among the victims. Of these the body of only one, George Burt, the Rock Island passenger conductor, has thus far been recovered. Shortly before Burt's body was found a white shirt with a diamond stud on its bosom was found. Several employees of the Burlington road at once identified the stone as the property of George Burt. With the belief that Burt's body was near by, the firemen redoubled their efforts, and after a short time a vest and coat were found. Fully ten minutes had elapsed when the charred body of Conductor Burt was exposed, tightly wedged beneath a heavy timber. In a short time the remains were extricated and conveyed to the morgue, where they were identified by a fellow-conductor.

In Burt's vest pocket his gold watch ticked the seconds while its owner's life had ended. Three $100 bills and a number of railroad passes were found in another pocket of the vest. On the third finger of the dead man's left hand a ring, the gift of his wife on their wedding day, four years ago, was found. The body was badly burned about the lower limbs.

At 7 o'clock last evening Burt arrived on his train from Colorado Springs. An associate of the same road accompanied him as far as Lawrence street, when they separated, Burt departing for the hotel. Burt had been an employee of the Rock Island road for the last seven years. He was considered one of the best railroad men in the West, and was recognized as one of the most capable men in the employ of the road. Among his associates he was universally liked.

Mrs. Burt arrived in this city this afternoon. She is heart-broken over her husband's terrible death. The body of Burt was viewed by Coroners Martin and Given and was then removed to the undertaking rooms of Farmer & Hale. The body will be prepared for burial and shipped to Chicago, where the parents of the dead man reside. Burt was a member of the Order of Railway Conductors and carried a heavy insurance on his life in several companies.

W. J. Corson, whose name is on the list of killed at the Gumry disaster, was a coal dealer, 32 years of age, and has lived in Pueblo five or six years. He leaves a widow and two children.

A. L. Blake was the oldest son of the late Charles H. Blake, a Colorado pioneer, for whom Blake street, Denver, was named. He was 30 years old and leaves a widow and two children.

THE HOTEL INMATES.

DENVER, Aug. 19.—At midnight last night the Gumry Hotel was destroyed by an explosion which startled the entire downtown section of the city. In an instant one of the best-known hotels of Denver was reduced to a heap of ruins. The front of the structure remained standing, but the great mass of brick and projecting wooden beams marked the spot which had been occupied by the main portion of the hotel.

To add to the horror, fire began to break forth in different places from the ruins. The groans of human beings in distress came from the smouldering pile, and had it not been for the most strenuous exertions of the fire department, many imprisoned victims would have been burned to death.

The great loss of life—the extent of which it is impossible at present to determine—was entirely unexpected. As soon as the explosion occurred every guest of the hotel was up. When the fire department reached the scene the windows were crowded with human forms pleading for help to escape from their perilous positions. It was not thought at that time, however, that the flames would complete the work of demolition. The guests were naturally very much alarmed at the explosion, but in answer to their appeals they were assured that they were perfectly safe where they were, and indeed it seemed so. Afterward, when the fire broke out, all calculations were upset, and many who might have been saved at once had it been known that the fire was to follow, went to their awful fate.

The fire department was soon on the scene. Ladders were run up to the windows fronting on Lawrence street and men and women were assisted down. The escaping guests found refuge in a neighboring lodging-house. Many of them came away from the hotel in their bare feet, which were badly cut by broken glass in the streets.

While the fire department was bending its energies to the important work of rescue, a report spread through the crowd that the rear of the building had fallen down, carrying many victims. The cry of a babe caused a thrill to sweep through hundreds of men and women who were looking on, and in a few minutes the voice of a woman could be heard from a great mass of brick and mortar that lay piled forty or fifty feet high near the center of the ruins. At another point toward the northeast portion of the ruins the voice of a man was heard. Men started to work with great exertion to clear away the debris and release the unfortunate victims. Nobody could estimate the number of victims in that mass which extended across the alley and as far toward Lawrence street as the front row of rooms in the building.

R. E. Irwin, the night clerk, made the following statement:

"I was standing at my counter talking to Budd and Hawkins, the two bartenders, when suddenly I heard a terrific roar and instantly the roof came crashing down and I was pinned by heavy beams which held me so tightly that I could not move my limbs. The room began to fill with smoke and I was unable to breathe. After about giving up all hope, I heard firemen above me and soon they had removed enough timbers to allow me to drag myself out and from there to the street.

"The engineer is a boy 17 years of age, named Elmer Loescher. He was drunk at the time he went on duty. In fact, he either gets full all the time or is away from the engine-room. I cannot say how many were in the hotel at the time, but I should judge about seventy. There are eleven now in the ruins, including Gen. Adams.

The following names are taken from the hotel register, which was picked up in the debris, as registering at the Gumry Hotel on Saturday:

NON-PARTISAN.

Those Silver People at San Francisco.

A Three-days' Programme of Speech-making.

"Coin" Harvey and Others of the Radicals Forward Their Regrets.

Ex-Senator Butler of South Carolina Suggests Some Propositions to the Executive Committee of Conference of Democrats.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—At noon today the non-partison silver convention called by the American Bimetallic League met in Metropolitan Hall. The object of the convention is to sound California on the silver question. The advocates of the white metal have gathered here before to hear A. J. Warner, the president of the league, and ex-Congressman Joseph C. Sibley discuss the question. These gentlemen, however, merely cleared the way for an expression of popular sentiment for the holding of the convention which commenced today. The convention will continue in session three days. It will hold a noon and afternoon session and all-day sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday. The programme for the first day is an address of welcome and a general statement of the objects of the convention by George W. Baker, chairman of the Executive Committee. Then the business of organization will be commenced by the appointment of committees on organization, selection of officers and the appointment of committees on credentials and resolutions.

The speech-making will follow immediately upon the completion of the business of organization, though an adjournment will probably be taken as soon as the committees have been appointed, so as to give them time to get through their duties.

Letters and telegrams of regret at inability to be present at the convention have already been received from Gen. A. J. Warner, Harvey of "Coin's Financial School," Senator Jones of Arkansas, Senator Blackburn of Kentucky, Senator Peffer of Kansas, Senator Stewart of Nebraska and others.

The principal speakers thus far announced are: Gov. McConnell of Idaho, Hon. R. M. Beatty, R. G. McClellan, Timothy G. Phelps, Justice Bonnifield of the Supreme Court of Nevada, Hon. H. F. Bartine, William Woodburn of Nevada, W. A. Massey of Nevada, Stephen M. White, Thomas V. Cator, M. M. Estee, Hon. C. M. Fox, Frederick Adams, A. R. Cotton, F. Waite and A. W. Thompson. It is expected that Miss Phobe Cozins will deliver her lecture on "The Great Silver Conspiracy and the Worship of the Golden Calf."

Out of this convention is to come the formation of a local bimetallic league, and copies of the form of constitution prepared by the American Bimetallic League have been sent broadcast all over the State.

Senator G. C. Perkins has written a long letter to the league, explaining his views in detail on the silver question. He concludes, however, with the statement that he feels bound by the free-coinage plank of the Sacramento convention.

LATER:—The convention called by the American Bimetallic League held its opening session this afternoon. Of the 800 who are members of the convention over six hundred are present. The business of organization occupied the attention of the convention today. After an opening address by Chairman G. W. Baker, in which he welcomed the workingmen present, but lamented the absence of bankers and bondholders, the usual committees were appointed.

C. C. Powning, a Reno editor, was introduced as the old warhorse of silver, and made an address, in which he said that Nevada would never support an anti-silver candidate for President. After completing the work of organization the convention adjourned until tomorrow morning.

EX-SENATOR BUTLER'S PROGRAMME.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Ex-Senator Butler of South Carolina called today on Senators Jones and Harris, members of the Executive Committee appointed by the recent Democratic Silver Conference, and suggested the following propositions to be advocated by the silver Democrats:

First, repeal the tax on State bank circulation; second, admit silver to coinage at an equality with gold at the ratio of 16 to 1; third, retire all greenbacks and coin certificates; fourth, require national banks to surrender their charters and permit them to take out State charters under national supervision; fifth, take the government entirely out of the banking business; sixth, stop the issuance of long-time bonds by the government. The revenues should be enough to support the government. But if it is necessary to issue bonds they should be of small denomination in order that the American people can invest their savings in them.

NOT TRAVELING IN SUCH COMPANY.

COLUMBUS (O.,) Aug. 19.—James Kilborn today in a letter forbids the use of his name in the Democratic State Convention as a candidate for Governor.

DELEGATES AT SPRINGFIELD.

SPRINGFIELD (O.,) Aug. 19.—Many delegates are here tonight although the Democratic State Convention does not assemble until Wednesday. The fight between the free-silver and the Brice men will occur tomorrow evening, when the members of the Committee on Resolutions and other committees in the organization are selected. There are 808 delegates. The silver men classify them 343 for free silver, 328 for gold and 137 doubtful. The Brice men claim there are 465 for "honest money" and of the 343 claimed by the Thurman men for silver some are doubtful. It is generally believed since the last counties selected delegates today that the Brice men will control all the organization and will have 14 out of the 21 members of the Committee on Resolutions.

Senator Brice, Ex-Gov. Campbell and other leaders arrive tomorrow morning and are to dine with John M. Thomas, the free-silver leader. This fact is recognized as assuring a compromise before the district meetings are held at 5 o'clock. It is believed that there will be some agreement at the Thomas dinner as to who will be nominated for Governor. If Campbell will not run, then John H. Thomas or James Kilbourne may be nominated. Both are free-silver men. The real issue pending is as to what concessions will be made to the free-silver men and yet make the financial record for the party that which is desired for Senator Brice. One may get the platform and the other the nominee. There are some bitter contests to be settled while Senator Brice is presiding as temporary chairman, and there may be trouble at the opening of the convention if all the silver contestants are unseated.

POINTERS FOR MORRISON.

MEMPHIS (Tenn.,) Aug. 19.—Hon. W. E. Carmack, editor of the Commercial-Appeal, one of the delegates from Tennessee to the recent Democratic silver conference at Washington, has returned. In an interview today he said:

"The talk of Hon. R. W. Morrison for the Presidency by certain zealous silver men must be taken as tentative. Col. Morrison has a record of unbroken loyalty to the cause of silver remonetization, but so had a number of other statesmen. You cannot depend on records as we once could, and no more can you pin your faith to men's loyalty to party platforms. Col. Morrison can get the votes of free-silver Democrats only on condition that he climbs upon the housetops and makes a few unequivocal and well-understood remarks to the American people. The country's faith in human nature has had some pretty severe shocks of late, and the people will not go it blind for the next campaign. Every candidate that seeks Democratic votes must be running down on the counter, and no exception can be made in favor of Col. William R. Morrison."

NO COMPROMISE.

CLEVELAND (O.,) Aug. 19.—The Brice and anti-Brice delegation from Cuyahoga county to the convention held meetings tonight and formed separate organizations. The anti-Brice delegation decided to accept no compromise, but to make a fight for fifty-nine seats in the convention. If refused, they will leave the convention hall in a body. Both delegations are prepared for a hard struggle.

EX-JUSTICE STRONG.

HIS DEATH OCCURS AT LAKE MINNEWASKA.

The Stroke of Paralysis with the Recurring Catarrhal Fever Prove to be Too Much for His Weak System—Sketch of His Life.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

LAKE MINNEWASKA (N. Y.,) Aug. 19.—Ex-Associate Justice Strong of the United States Supreme Court died here at 10 o'clock this afternoon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Justice O'Brien in the Supreme Court today signed an order denying the application for an injunction restraining the reorganization Committee of the Distilling and Cattle-feeding Company, the Whisky Trust, from using the funds on deposit with the Mercantile Trust Company for the purchase of the property of the Whisky Trust under the reorganization scheme.

Ex-Justice Strong was brought to Lake Minnewaska several weeks ago, suffering from a catarrhal affection of long standing. His system was also greatly weakened by the fall down a flight of stairs at his home in Washington about two months ago. Since his arrival here Judge Strong has lain in a semi-comatose state, from which he rallied only at intervals. Yesterday he had a stroke of paralysis, which affected the left side. He also suffered a recurrence of the catarrhal fever and again became unconscious until death ensued this afternoon. He was about 87 years of age.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

Justice William Strong has been off the Supreme bench since December, 1880, when he retired under a law granting to justices of this court the privilege of retiring with full pay, after reaching the age of 70 years and after having served for ten years.

He was born in Somers, Ct., in 1808. He was the son of a clergyman, and was graduated from Yale in 1828, teaching school part of the time between this year and 1832, when he entered on the practice of law at Reading, Pa. He rose rapidly in his profession, and in 1846 was elected to Congress as a Democrat, and was re-elected two years later. He then declined a renomination and retired from active politics. He was elected Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in 1857, and served eleven years, resigning to resume his legal practice in Philadelphia. In 1870 he was appointed an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, and took high rank on that tribunal, gaining a reputation for sound judgment, keen discrimination and legal knowledge. He was one of the Supreme Court members on the famous Electoral Commission. He was probably the most prominent layman in the Presbyterian Church. For years he has been president of the American Tract Society and of the Sunday-school Union. He was the senior elder of the fashionable Church of the Covenant in this city, and a member of the board of trustees.

Justice Strong delivered many public addresses and lectures, and frequently contributed to magazines and reviews. In 1867 he received the degree of LL.D. from La Fayette College, and in 1870 Princeton and Yale conferred upon him the same honor. He had lived here ever since his retirement from the bench, but occasionally acted as counsel on legal matters and appeared at public functions with the active members of the Supreme Bench. He left here July 4 quite ill from a shock resulting from a fall down stairs.

NOT LEGAL OFFICERS.

Cases Similar to Minister Ransom's Are Coming to Light.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The recent decision of the acting Attorney-General that Ransom's appointment as Minister to Mexico was unconstitutional, because he was appointed while serving as Senator in the Congress which raised the salary of the American Minister, has started reports that various other officals are illegally holding office for the same reason.

Among the cases mentioned is that of Judge McKenna, who, while serving as a member of the Fifty-second Congress, was appointed Circuit Judge of Northern California. But as the nine additional circuit judges were created by the preceding Congress (although Mr. McKenna was a member of that Congress) the Constitutional inhibition, it is said, does not apply against him.

HER BOGUS HUSBAND

A LIEUTENANT'S WIFE AND A RAILROAD PASS.

Mrs. Arthur P. Osborn Travels In Company with a "Dummy" to Save Expenses.

A Hard-hearted Conductor "Spots" Her on the Sandy Wastes of the Mojave Desert.

She is Compelled to Pawn Her Jewelry to Pay Her Fare to Albuquerque—Prosecutions and Disgrace to Follow.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—(Special Dispatch.) The wife of Lieut. Arthur P. Osborn of the Navy, now stationed at Mare Island, met with an adventure while journeying eastward, a few days ago, which has caused a lively scandal in naval circles. Mrs. Osborn traveled as the wife of a strange gentleman on a pass made out for herself and husband, and the indiscreet attempt to get something for nothing out of the railroad company led to the confiscation of the pass and the pawning of her own jewelry to try to pay her transportation to Chicago.

Lieut. Osborn was recently transferred from the recruiting ship Franklin at Norfolk Navy-yard to a vessel now stationed at Mare Island and he traveled westward with his wife, this side of Chicago, on a pass over the Santa Fe. After the arrival here it was decided that Mrs. Osborn should return East, and, as the unused portion of the pass over the Santa Fe from Mojave to Chicago was made out in the names of "A. P. Osborn and wife," the frugal lieutenant and his wife saw a means of reducing her traveling expenses by providing a person to impersonate her husband.

A Market-street ticket scalper agreed to provide Mrs. Osborn with a pseudo husband for the return trip, the consideration being the price of meals and of Pullman accommodations. Lieut. Osborn is a large man, and his thirty years of service in the navy have left his pompadour hair flecked with gray. The ticket scalper, with a limited amount of material from which to select, was not as successful in duplicating the lieutenant as he might have been under more favorable circumstances. However, he finally found a big man to fill the position, but his resemblance to the naval officer was limited to his height. Even that resemblance was faulty, for the lieutenant is tall, while his substitute was merely fat. The lady's accommodating husband also had another kind of profile, and wore hair as black as night. It was thought that the description would go unnoticed, and the wife of the naval officer, accompanied by the man who did not resemble him, started on their journey last Monday evening.

It happened that C. H. Speers, assistant general passenger agent of the Atlantic and Pacific became aware of the indiscreet substitution here. Conductors were warned and the lieutenant's wife and her counterfeit husband were "spotted" the instant the train passed Mojave. As soon as the train got out on the sandy wastes of the Mojave desert the pass was confiscated, and the lieutenant's wife and her temporary husband were placed in a predicament too sad to describe in detail.

The wife of the naval officer won no sympathy from the conductor by her tears, and she found herself compelled to sacrifice some jewelry to pay her passage to Albuquerque. The man who impersonated her husband put up forty hard dollars for his fare to Albuquerque, and as he had but $2 left when he arrived at that point, was compelled to leave the train. At last accounts he was still stranded at Albuquerque. Mrs. Osborn pawned the rest of her jewelry at Albuquerque and bought a ticket to Chicago.

The ticket scalper who devised this scheme will be prosecuted, and the lieutenant may hear from the Navy Department for his share in the fraud.

TRUNK LINE PRESIDENTS.

The Proposed Agreement is Partly Set Forth.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Another report has reached here concerning the proposed agreement of the trunk-line presidents. It is to the effect that the rate-making and rate-maintaining powers of the roads are to be placed in the hands of a board of governors, consisting of nine persons. This board is to have absolute power to examine books, vouchers and accounts of any road in the association suspected of rate-cutting. If the suspicion should be supported by the records, the officials responsible for the cutting, be they high or low, are to be instantly discharged.

There are eight roads in the association, so that provision has been made for a representation of a majority of them on the governing board.

The pooling idea has been abandoned until it can be carried out legally and until a pooling agreement can be enforced in the courts. The idea of joint agencies has also been abandoned, and each road is to be allowed to work as hard as it pleases for the business and take all it can get, as long as it does not cut rates. It is believed that the strict enforcement of the provision calling for the discharge of officials who cut rates will be effective in maintaining tariff rates.

It was reported today on what appeared to be excellent authority, that negotiations are now pending for the consolidation of the Pullman and Wagner sleeping-car companies. The overtures for the consolidation are said to have come from the Wagner Company. George M. Pullman denied that there was anything in the story, as far as he knows, but by some of the railroad men the denial is regarded as a diplomatic one, they claiming that neither party to the alleged consolidation will admit it until it has been carried through.

The Union Pacific having agreed to the arrangements made by the western roads for the harvest excursions, they will be run on the plan previously announced.

The rate will be one fare going, with a certificate attached to the return ticket, entitling the purchaser to a return ticket on the payment of $2. The going dates will be August 29, September 10 and 24, and the returning dates will be September 13, 20 and 27 and October 4 and 11.

A Setback for Alfaro.

COLON, Aug. 19.—Word has been received here that at Ambato, Ecuador, the government forces defeated Alfaro's followers after a five-hours' fight. Ambato is about thirty miles north of Rio Bamba, and is on the direct line of retreat from Rio Bamba to Quito. The checking of Alfaro's advance is the first set-back the revolutionary forces have received for a long time.

A LABOR QUARREL.

Factionalism May Spoil a Gen ral Parade at Chicago.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Bitter strife between the Trade and Labor Assembly and the Chicago Labor Congress, two rival bodies, composed of delegates from local unions, promises to make a disgraceful comedy of the labor-day celebration. Each of these central bodies are arranging for a parade and picnic on Labor Day, and all efforts toward conciliation and one general parade, which would fittingly represent organized labor in Chicago, has proved futile. Members of many of the local unions are thoroughly disgusted with the unseemly wrangling between the central bodies. The American Boot and Shoe-makers' Union, which has 1300 members in the labor parade last year and won second prize, decided at its regular meeting, Thursday evening, not to take part in Labor-day parades hereafter, until the difficulties between the central bodies have been amicably adjusted.

The bricklayers and carpenters and painters have taken similar action. Many other unions have already declared emphatically that they will not take part in either of the two parades, not wishing to lend their presence to the pitiable spectacle of sons of toil, who should be one in purpose, split into warring factions and howling execrations at one another. So serious has the feeling grown between the two factions that Chief of Police Badenoch has insisted on laying out the line of march to be followed by the two hostile camps, for the obvious motive of keeping them from coming in collision on Labor Day.

NO INVESTIGATIONS.

CHINA NOT GIVEN TO THAT SORT OF THING.

The Consular Commission is Refused Permission to Inquire into the Circumstances of the Recent Massacre.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

SHANGHAI, Aug. 19.—(By Asiatic Cable.) A dispatch to the Mercury from Foo Chow says that it is reported on good authority there that the Chinese government has refused to allow the American and British consuls, J. C. Hixson and R. T. Mansfield, who accompanied the commission appointed to investigate the recent massacres of missionaries and their families at Ku-Chang, to make any investigation into the circumstances of the massacre.

INCENDIARY TALK.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Times has a dispatch from Hongkong confirming the Shanghai dispatch containing the report that the Chinese government has refused to allow American and British consuls to make any investigation into the Ku-Chang massacre. The Times' dispatch adds that the soldiers who are engaged in plundering the place feel that the foreigners are the cause of their sufferings and therefore the latter should be destroyed. Further incendiary placards have been posted at Canton.

The prefect sent with the commission to Ku-Chang, together with the Chinese officials at Ku-Chang, have refused to allow the presence of consuls during the examination of the prisoners. The matter has been referred to the Viceroy. Serious trouble is feared.

NO EPIDEMIC AT SHANGHAI.

WASHINGTON, August 19.—Consul General Jernigan at Shanghai cables the State Department that cholera is not epidemic at that place.

GOOD WORK IN JAPAN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Rt. Rev. John McKim, bishop of Japan, who is in Chicago, preached yesterday morning in Grace Episcopal Church and in the evening at Trinity Church. Bishop McKim was sent to Japan from the Chicago diocese in 1880. Speaking of his work last night he said:

"It is our aim to develop a self-supporting Japanese church and our efforts are being rewarded. Seven years ago there was a 'boom' in our work. Everything that was western was grasped by the better class of natives. Then there came a reaction and everything that was foreign became unpopular. In that year or two, however, all the missions in Japan were particularly successful. The war has given an additional impulse to the Christian missions in Japan. There were six native Christian ministers who received commissions from the government as chaplains in the army and Shinto priests asking the same privileges were refused. The Japanese Minister of War gave permission to every missionary to visit the garrisons, preach and distribute tracts. This, we believe to be the result of impression made by the Christian soldiers in the Japanese army.

The Roman Catholic missionaries are the strongest and most influential in that field, and the Russian-Greek church has great strength also. The Methodists and Episcopalians are about equally strong. The Presbyterians in six different bodies have about an equal number of converts to their credit. The American Episcopal mission has twenty-six schools for the education of poor children; six industrial schools, four orphan schools, two large boarding-schools for boys, two for girls and two institutions for the education of Japanese women of the higher classes. We have also two hospitals and four dispensaries with four thousand Christians connected with the missions."

Bishop McKim's diocese is seven hundred miles long and two hundred miles wide, with a population of sixteen millions. One hundred thousand of these, he says, are converts.

THE SITUATION SERIOUS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Cable advices to the World corroborate the Chinese news of the Associated Press. The World dispatch is as follows:

"FOO-CHOW, Aug. 19.—The Chinese officials at Ku-Chang have positively refused to allow the American Consul, J. C. Hixson, and the British Consul, R. W. Mansfield, opportunity to investigate the massacre of missionaries there. They will not be permitted to attend the trial of the criminals before the local authorities. Many people here who deprecate the massacres are desirous of a full investigation. They talk in a threatening manner. The situation is serious."

THE GLASS-WORKERS.

Fifty Thousand Men Interested in Settlements to be Made.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 19.—The final settlement of the wage scale in the lines of glass trade which have not yet been adjusted are to be considered at the conferences arranged for this week in Pittsburgh. Thousands of workers will be affected by the settlements if they are made, and prospects at all the factories now idle are unusually bright. Fires for the coming year will be lighted in the different union factories of the country on September 1.

The wages committees of the window-glass manufacturers and of the platers will confer on next Friday, and make another effort to arrange a scale for the next year that will affect at least ten thousand men. In all these three branches of the glass trade fully fifty thousand workers will be interested.

The London Sun Comments on Dwyer—Washington Park Suffers for Lack of Gambling—Coming Race.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19.—The international bout between Stanton Abbott, champion lightweight of England, and Owen Ziegler of Philadelphia, who fought Jack McAuliffe to a draw, occurred tonight at the Eureka Athletic Club in the presence of 1500 spectators.

Preliminary to the main event, Mike Boden and Abe Uhlman engaged in a ten-round battle, resulting in a victory for Uhlman.

Abbott and Ziegler entered the ring at 10 o'clock. Abbott weighed 133 pounds, while Ziegler weighed 137½. Abbott looked a trifle thin and overtrained, while Ziegler's muscles stood out in bunches and he looked to be in the best of condition. Jake Kilrain and Frank Earle were in the Englishman's corner and "Turkey" Smith and D. L. Bailey assisted Ziegler. George Maats of Baltimore acted as referee.

First round—Ziegler landed on the face and then on the breast. The Englishmen got in a face blow. He was very cool, while Ziegler danced around the ring and lunged viciously.

Second round—Ziegler got in two light face-blows and a rib-roaster. Abbott fell to his knees and as he rose Ziegler gave him a terrible right under the left eye, nearly closing it. Abbott looked distressed as the round closed.

Third round—Ziegler forced the fighting, and, after getting in a face-blow, Abbott slipped and fell against the ropes.

In the fourth and fifth rounds Ziegler pounded at Abbott's stomach. Abbott responded with light blows, but his reach was short. The Englishman came to the front in the sixth round and got two strong blows in on Ziegler's face. Abbott ducked cleverly and kept Ziegler working hard.

The fighting was sharp, but uneventful until the eighth, when the American was fought to the ropes. The Englishman seemed to be fresh. He was slow, however, and when the eleventh round opened the American delivered what was nearly a knockout blow before Abbott got his hands up.

In the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth rounds Ziegler hammered Abbott unmercifully.

The sixteenth was a hot round and all in Ziegler's favor, closing with the Englishman against the ropes amid showers of blows. Ziegler had the best of the eighteenth and nineteenth.

The twentieth and last round was a savage one. The American fought the Englishman against the ropes. As the gong sounded the referee declared Ziegler the winner. He will be matched against Young Griffo.

THE TRIAL RACES.

Details for Contests Which Will Begin Today.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The committee who have charge of the trial races to select the defender of the America's cup against the Valkyrie III, with James D. Smith chairman, have arranged the details of the races tomorrow. The first race will be ten miles to the windward or leeward and return, as the wind serves. The committee reserves the right to send the yachts over the course a second time.

The second race will be over a triangular course eight miles to a leg, and the committee at the end of the race will decide as to the necessity of sailing a third race on Saturday.

The preparatory gun tomorrow will be fired promptly at 11 o'clock. Ten minutes later a second gun will be fired and the yachts will be given only two minutes to cross the line. In case the wind is from the west tomorrow, the start will be from the Scotland lightship, ten miles to leeward, which will take them down off Long Branch.

Weather Forecaster Dunn says there will be a strong breeze tomorrow, and he also thinks there will be a stiff gale in the eastward by the coming of Thursday.

AN OBJECT OF INTEREST.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Valkyrie III, the America's cup challenger, lies at anchor today near Bedloe's Island, where she is the object of much interest to yachtsmen and people generally, who, in crossing the bay, come within view of the British yacht. Capt. Cranfield admitted no one to the boat's deck today. He said that he did not know when the yacht was to be docked, but was making ready for the work as fast as possible. No arrangements have yet been made to take the Valkyrie III out to the Erie Basin, but it is thought she may be docked tomorrow or Wednesday.

A FROST ON IT.

Washington Park Misses the Gambling Element.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—There was good sport but a poor attendance at the racing today at Washington Park. Scarcly one thousand people were on the grounds. The directors feel discouraged at the attempt to conduct a meeting wihtout betting of any kind, although it is thought that the loss during the meeting will not be great.

The 2:19 trot (unfinished from Saturday) purse $1000: Maj. Ewing won the fifth, sixth and seventh heats and race in 2:16¼, 2:16¾, 2:13¼. Axtelold won the third and fourth heats; time 2:13½, 2:16¼. Josephine won the first and second in 2:18¾, 2:16. Margaret C. and Glenmore also started.

Juvenile stake, for two-year-olds, purse $1500: Wiggins won the first and second heats in 2:23½, 2:20½. Caid, Silver Lake and four others also started.

Clipper stake, 2:15 pace, purse $3000: Phenol won first, third and fifth heats; time 2:11¾, 2:11¾, 2:18¾. Nellie M. won the second and fourth in 2:12¾ and 2:14¾. Choral and four others also started.

The 2:12 trot, purse $1000: Miss Nelson won in straight heats. Time 2:12¾, 2:14¾, 2:13½. Robbie P., Baronet and three others also started.

THE COLOGNE CONTESTS.

Close of the World's Championship Races—Banker's Protest.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

COLOGNE, Aug. 19.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The World's Championship and International Cycling Congress was concluded here today.

In the kilometer handicap for amateurs, Langewild of Holland was the winner, Watson and Cherry of England being second and third.

In the kilometer race for tandems Peterson of Denmark and Watson of England won.

In the kilometer professional handicap, Apel of Frankfort was the winner; time 1:21.

In the 100-kilometer amateur world's championship twelve started. Cordalg of Holland was the winner, Witteven of Holland second and Zeni of Norway third; time 2:33:45 1-5.

The committee took up the protest of Banker against Protein's victory on Saturday. It was claimed that Protein had no right to ride in the final, as he was only third in his heat. The committee declared that the race was void, and it will be run again at Paris in September without fresh trials.

THE WIND FELL OFF.

Good Sport is Spoiled in the Royal Yacht Club Races.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(By Atlantic Cable.) South Sea, Inyoni, Niagara, Audrey, Luna and Venetia started in a yacht race for twenty-raters, under the auspices of the Royal Yacht Club, the prize being a twenty-guinea cup. The Audrey and Venetia collided at the start, but neither was damaged, and both proceeded. The Britannia and Caress, the forty-raters Isolde, Ailsa and Corsica started in the order named in the race for the Albert cup. This is the Ailsa's last contest this season.

The wind fell off, and the race for forty-raters was stopped on their return from Nab lightship. The Britannia was declared the winner. The times of the yachts were: Britannia, 2h. 57m.; Ailsa, 2h. 28m. 26s.; Caress, 3h. 26m. 10s.; Isolde, 3h. 33m. 55s.

The yachts in the twenty-raters' race finished in the following time: Inyoni, 3h. 30m. 10s.; Niagara, 3h. 32m. 37s.; Audray, 3h. 43m. 48s.; Venetia, 3h. 57m. 50s. The Luna did not finish.

LOST THEIR TEMPERS.

George Dixon and Mike Leonard Arrested at New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—"Parson" Davies of Chicago and Tom O'Rourke of Boston brought off an athletic exhibition at the Academy of Music here tonight. George Dixon of Boston, the champion featherweight, and Mike Leonard of Brooklyn began a bout of five rounds at catchweights. The men lost their tempers, and the referee was unable to separate them in the second round, whereupon the police jumped into the ring and arrested the pugilists and O'Rourke and Davies.

In the bag-punching contest, George Dixon, George Elms, Harry Pigeon, Bob Armstrong and Tommy Ryan participated. The last-named was given first prize.

JOHNSON BEATS YOUNG.

Three Thousand People Witness the Match Race at Toronto.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

TORONTO (Ont.,) August 19.—The match race between John S. Johnson and Fred Young, who challenged him, took place before 3000 people tonight on the Ferry Company's track. Johnson put in his own pacemakers in the first heat and won easily in 2:17 2-5.

In the second heat the pacemakers were supplied by Young, and, after a rattling close finish, Johnson again won in 2:07 3-5.

A half-mile professional open was won by Pat O'Connor in 1:10 3-5, with A. E. Weinig second and H. R. Stevenson third.

A mile handicap professional was won by Stevenson in 2:26 1-5, with O'Connor second and Weinig third.

One mile and a quarter: Candelabra won, Caracas second, Cass third; time 2:11.

Somethnig About Mr. Dwyer.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The Sun today devoted a column to scathing comment on the alleged utterances of M. F. A Shallow Mockery.

TORONTO (Ont.,) Aug. 19.—The race between Gaudaur and Durnan, this afternoon was the poorest kind of an exhibition. It was raced in such shallow water that the boats almost scraped along the bottom. Gaudaur could do anything he pleased with Durnan, and won by only one length, simply because he did not want to win by fifty.

Captured the Rebels' Stronghold.

ZANZIBAR, Aug. 19.—An expedition consisting of 400 British sailors, Soudanese and Askaris, with a couple of Maxim rapid-firing guns and a seven-pounder, which started on Monday for Mombassa to punish revolting tribes near there, stormed and captured the rebels' stronghold on Saturday. Two native soldiers were killed and seven Europeans and four natives were wounded on the British side. The loss of the rebels was not stated. Admiral Rawson and Gen. Matthews accompanied the expedition.

INCIDENTS OF THE DISASTER.

DENVER, Aug. 19.—It is impossible yet to give a full list of the dead or even an approximate of those killed in the Gumry Hotel. Out of forty or more people in the hotel when the explosion occurred, a score were gotten out safely. Three were rescued with more or less serious injuries and others are unquestionably lying dead beneath a mass of bricks and shattered beams and twisted iron in the ruined building. The death-list will include the owner of the hotel, Peter Gumry, Manager Robert C. Greiner and his wife, who acted as day clerk. Before the fire added to the horrors of the explosion the firemen were appealed to piteously by men and women and babes whose lives were being crushed out in the ruins. Then the fire broke out and that ended it. Joe Munal of Cairo, Ill., was rescued at 2:30 o'clock, after hours of work and it seems certain that no more victims can be alive.

A. W. Irwin, the night clerk, who, with Barkeeper William Rubbe, had a miraculous escape, went over the register for the last few days this morning and endeavored to call to mind the occupants of the different rooms. He says that there were between fifty and fifty-five people registered and sixteen were occupying back rooms, where it was more difficult to escape.

The whole rear half of the hotel was blown to atoms. The front portions are merely shattered and burned fragments of the house. The force of the explosion was so great for two blocks on Lawrence street and for some distance on Larimer street that every window in business blocks were shattered in pieces upon the pvaements. The dust had cleared when the firemen reached the place and there was no fire to be seen then.

The explosion awoke the guests in the front of the house and by the time the firemen had reached the scene they were ready to be taken from the windows. Firemen with torch and lantern entered into all parts of the hotel. The first to demand the attention of the ambulance corps was Michael C. Burges, who was walking along Lawrence street on the opposite side from the hotel when the explosion occurred. Flying glass cut him about the head and face in a frightful manner. His injuries are very serious, though not necessarily fatal. He is a painter from Custer City, S. D. Bud Hopkins, the bartender at the Gumry, was found on the ground near the hotel unconscious, bleeding from many cuts. Joe Munal was found in the basement, dressed only in undergarments and completely covered with ashes and dirt.

When revived, Munal said: "I am a cigar-maker from Cairo, Ill. I was upstairs in bed when, I heard an awful crash. I did not know what it was and got out of bed and hurried out and, on going downstairs, I must have lost my way, for when I got down on what I thought was the ground floor I fell down into the basement." His injuries, though severe, are not thought to be fatal. These three are the only injured persons taken to the County Hospital up to 6 o'clock this morning.

W. A. Logan, editor of the Buena Vista (Colo.) Republican, was in his room, but had not retired when the explosion occurred. He said: "I was sitting on the side of the bed, when I felt the bed move upward with a violent jerk. Before the bed righted itself a heavy quantity of plaster fell from the ceiling, completely covering myself and bed clothing. When I could see anything, I saw that the walls of my room were torn asunder for several feet, and that I was fastened in tightly, except for the window. I was not hurt, but lost no time in getting out of the building." Many others had similar experiences.

The hotel was divided about in the center of a court running to the top of the building. The building had been split in two at this point, and the entire five stories back of the rotunda were thrown into a shapeless mass in the alley. Out of the pile of brick and wood and iron below came feeble moans and piteous cries for help. The firemen devoted their efforts to the work of rescue until suddenly the flames broke out and the workers were driven away.

At times the cries of babes and the moans of men and women could be heard, but the flames and smoke increased, and the voices were silent. At 4:30 o'clock a large force of men and teams began hauling away the mountains of debris from the place where the hotel stood. At daylight three bodies were already in sight, two men and a woman, but it was impossible to uncover them sufficiently to identify them, the fire still being dangerous.

There is no doubt that the disaster was caused by a boiler explosion. Frank Loescher, the engineer, it is said, was intoxicated, and after turning a large quantity of cold water into the hot boilers, left the building ten minutes before the explosion occurred. The police are looking for him. R. E. Irwin, the night clerk, says that Loescher, who was only 17 years old, was drunk when he went on duty, and was in the habit of neglecting his work. The Gumry was a five-story building, valued at $30,000. It had been used as a hotel since 1888, when it was rebuilt, after a fire, in which one life was lost.

Gen. Charles Adams, whose body is believed to be in the ruins, had been a resident of the State since early days, and formerly took a prominent part in politics as a Republican. In 1878, at the time of the Ute troubles, he was Indian agent at Ouray reservation. Following the expiration of that appointment, he was sent to Chile as United States Consul, and served a number of years. Of late years he was engaged in mining and various other enterprises at Creede and Cripple Creek. He was also interested in the Manitou Bottling Works, and had been acting as general agent of the company in this city. Gen. Adams was a full brother of ex-State Auditor Louis Schwanbeck. The name of Adams was given him by an act of Legislature.

Peter Gumry, owner of the hotel, was one of the old-time citizens of Denver. He was about 60 years of age and a widower, his daughter being the wife of R. C. Greiner, all three of whom perished in the explosion. By trade Gumry was a contractor and builder, and in this branch of business made a good deal of money. He superintended the construction of the Chamber of Commerce, the courthouse, and more recently the capitol. He was a Scotchman.

Gen. Charles Adams of Manitou, Colo., occupied room 11, in the rear of the hotel, and was over the boilers, the section in which the havoc of the explosion was hardest. If he was in his room he is undoubtedly dead. A. L. Blake of Florence, Colo., was sleeping directly over the boiler, and the clerk places him also among the dead. Myron E. Hawley, clerk in the freight department of the Union Pacific office, roomed in the rear end. He had gone to bed early, and is counted among the lost. James Murphy, a contractor, was a regular boarder, and also roomed in the destroyed portion. The clerk says that he was in his room, and must also be among the dead.

At 11 o'clock one body, which was not identified, had been removed from the ruins, and several more were in sight. The number of killed will not exceed twenty. The following is the list of dead, injured and missing, as far as ascertained:

PETER GUMRY, owner of the hotel.
R. C. GREINER, manager of the hotel, son-in-law of Peter Gumry.
MRS. R. C. GREINER, clerk of the hotel, daughter of Peter Gumry.
GEN. CHARLES ADAMS of Manitou, Colo.
A. L. BLAKE of Pueblo, Colo.
MYRON E. HAWLEY, Union Pacific Railway clerk, Denver.
JAMES MURPHY, a contractor, Denver.
GEORGE BURT, passenger conductor of the Rock Island Railway, Colorado Springs.
MRS. R. G. WOLF and daughter of Lincoln, Neb.
The two chambermaids, names unknown.
One bell-boy, name unknown.
MRS. GREINER'S baby.
E. W. EDWARDS, butcher, Denver.
FRED CUBBOLD, or HAUSER, of Elizabeth, Iowa.
The missing are:
—. GREINER, father of R. C. Greiner.
BUD BARNES of Colorado Springs.
W. J. CARSON of Pueblo, Colo.
P. FRENCH.
BERT I. LARSCH of Central City, Colo.
E. F. M'CLOSKEY of Canyon City, Colo.
JUDGE FLYNN of Leadville, Colo.
J. L. KIRKE, Omaha.
J. A. BROWN, Omaha.
ELMER PIERCE, engineer of the Gumry hotel.
The injured are:
JOSEPH MUNAL, cigar maker, of Cairo, Ill., face and head terribly cut, body bruised, internal injuries.
MICHAEL C. BURGESS, severely cut about the face.
A. E. IRWIN, night clerk, cut and bruised.
J. H. LETSON, tramway conductor, body badly bruised and internal injuries. Letson was discovered alive in the ruins about 7 o'clock; he was jammed between the ice-box and timbers in such shape that it was impossible to remove him for several hours. Meantime he begged piteously to be saved. About 10 o'clock he was rescued and was removed at once to the hospital. One of his arms was crushed and he may have suffered internal injuries, but recovery is confidently expected.

Among the guests who escaped uninjured are:
PETER ROSS and daughter of Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. R. M'CORMICK, traveling salesman of Chicago.
RAY HELME of Ogden, Utah.
MR. AND MRS. W. C. M'CLAINE and baby of Huron, Kan.
MR. AND MRS. HENRY SHAW of Huron, Kan.
HERMAN LEUDERS of Manitou, Colo.
MR. AND MRS. ROBERTS of Colorado Springs.

LATER: At 1 p.m. five bodies had been recovered, two of which have been identified as the remains of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Greiner. The others are unidentified. Judge James Glynn had a room at the hotel, but it is not positively known that he occupied the room last night. He was a prominent Populist and served one term as district judge of the Thirteenth judicial district, being defeated for re-election last fall. He removed from Holyoke, Colo., to Leadville, where he engaged in the practice of law.

The scene surrounding the death of James Murphy, the contractor, was heartrending. The firemen engaged at the rear of the building heard the agonizing cries from the man that he was burning and to continue to play the water. After fifteen minutes of heroic work the firemen reached him. His two lower limbs were pinioned by two heavy joists. After almost herculean efforts, with the dense smoke blinding the firemen's eyes, Murphy's left leg was released. At this moment a sheet of flame compelled the men to withdraw. Murphy then offered his rescuers $1000 to get him out and piteously begged for them to chop his leg off. A second later the west wall collapsed and covered poor Murphy with tons of ruins. Murphy came to Denver from Omaha six years ago.

Mrs. George R. Wolfe from Lincoln, Neb., visiting Mrs. Schmittel, was a victim of the catastrophe. She was accompanied by her 5-year-old daughter. Mrs. Wolfe's husband is a tobacco man of Lincoln. He left the hotel for a tour of Colorado yesterday.

J. A. Brown and J. L. Kirk of Omaha are among the missing. They registered at the Gumry Sunday afternoon and have not been seen since the explosion. Mrs. Brown telegraphed an inquiry from Omaha and Chief Goulding answered that there were little hopes of her husband being alive. A suit of clothes was found in the ruins of the hotel, in the pockets of which was a thousand-mile railroad-book, bearing the name of A. Stuckey, and a letter addressed to Miss Hattie Laylon of Belvidere, Ill.

J. E. Calkins, wife and baby, who were thought for a time to have been victims of the casualty, have been located at Highlands. Calkins is a newspaper man from Davenport, Iowa, and city editor of the Gazette. They registered at the Gumry on their arrival here, but later went to stay with friends. M. E. Letzon, a dairyman of this city, was in the ruins twelve hours before he was rescued. His injuries are a crushed arm, several contusions and the shock to his nerves.

Letzon said: "I was more encased than pinioned, as only my left leg, there where you see the bandages, and my right arm were held down by any weights. You cannot have the faintest ideas of my feelings as I lay there in the bottom of the basement, with all the ruins on top and around me, hearing the excruciating cries of those dying and in agony, and being almost overcome by the shock and smoke, soaked with water and almost drowned and fearing that the next moment I would be buried alive."

The total loss caused by the explosion and fire is about $75,000. The Gumry Hotel was worth about $25,000, and had $8000 worth of furniture. It is a total wreck, but was insured for $25,000.

The McMann Block, which stands next to the Gumry, was also heavily damaged. It is owned by Col. E. F. Bishop, and was built in 1890. It is a four-story, pressed-brick front, and is occupied throughout by the A. Lilliblade Furniture Company. The whole rear end of this block was ruined. The loss on the building is about $25,000, as the building will have to be torn down. This block is insured for $15,000. The stock of Lilliblade, valued at $30,000, is only partly lost.

HAWLEY KNOWN AT OMAHA.

OMAHA, Aug. 19.—M. E. Hawley, whose name appears in the death list of the Denver hotel wreck, until last year was connected with the Union Pacific at Omaha for many years. He went to Denver last year. His wife lives here.

FLASHES FROM THE WIRES.

Leonard W. Polk, a noted sculptor, died suddenly at Osceola, Wis., Sunday. He was 67 years old.

The Emperor of Austria has summoned Count Badour, Governor of Galicia, in connection with the formation of a permanent ministry.

Alex C. Sherwood, member of the State Democratic Executive Committee from the Thirteenth District, died early yesterday at St. Louis, from the effects of a fall in the Jockey Club house at the fair grounds.

A Grand Haven, Mich., dispatch says that George Chesboro, the seventeen-year-old youth convicted of murdering his grandmother, Mrs. Levi Pierce, on July 8 last, was sentenced to life imprisonment at Jackson penitentiary.

A Birmingham, Ala., despatch says that twenty people were thrown into Five Mile Creek at Brookside yesterday by the collapse of a bridge. Alfred McPherson, aged 10, will probably die. All the others were more or less injured.

A West Superior dispatch says that the coal-handlers' strike was settled yesterday, and the men are fast returning to work. About seven hundred men were out, but many of them went west to work in the harvest fields and to the mines on the range.

A New York dispatch says that the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen met yesterday and prepared the report of the tax rate for the year, fixing it at 1.2—an increase of 13 points over the rate of last year. The total amount required for the year is $38,746,000.

A Cincinnati dispatch says that the Lawrenceburg and Aurora accommodation train left the track yesterday. The engine and three coaches rolled down a twenty-foot embankment. Engineer Harry Becker of Indianapolis was killed and several passengers were slightly bruised.

No reports have been received at either the State or Navy Department concerning the troubles between Bolivia and Peru. At present the United States has no warship in the waters of either of these countries, but in case of hostilities both the Alert at Panama and the Ranger at Guayaquil are available to look after American interests.

The stockholders of the Commercial Bank at Milwaukee have decided to close the bank and go into liquidation. The bank failed two years ago, then resumed, but was not flourishing. The old depositors who took stock in the new bank will get about 50 cents on the dollar. New depositors will be paid in full.

A cablegram from Queenstown says that James Weir Hardy, member of Parliament for the south division of West Hampshire and president of the Independent Labor party, and who classes himself as a Democrat and Socialist, is a passenger on board the Cunard liner Campania, which left on Sunday for New York. Hardie is bound on a lecturing tour.

A cablegram from London says that the International Co-operative Congress met yesterday in the hall of the Society of Arts. There was a large attendance. Earl Gray, who presided, in his speech of welcome to the delegates, alluded pleasantly to the presence of the American representatives to the Congress. The Earl then introduced a question looking to the constitution of an international alliance.

A special to the Salt Lake Tribune from Helena, Mont., says that a deed of assignment was made yesterday by I. L. Israel & Co. E. J. Goodkin is named as assignee. Israel is one of the oldest Jewish merchants in town. He is a brother-in-law of Louis Auerbach of California, and was regarded as one of the best-fixed business men in Helena. He conducted a wholesale and retail liquor store and a large clothing house known as the "Boston." The liabilities foot over $100,000. The preferred creditors are L. Auerbach and other relatives.

A dispatch from Montreal says that the Austrian government, which had been heretofore strenuously opposed to emigration, is now looking to Canada for a field to send its surplus population. With this object in view Prof. Oleskow, who holds the chair of Agriculture in the University of Lemburg, with representative practical farmers, has left for Winnipeg to make a tour of Manitoba and the Northwest. They will go as far West as the Pacific Coast if possible, but will spend most of their time in Manitoba and the territories.

[COAST RECORD.]

BUDD IS VERY SICK.

BUT HIS CONDITION IS NOT CONSIDERED DANGEROUS.

The Governor's Private Secretary is Now Running the Affairs of State.

The National Guard Aspirants Must Control Their Impatience for Several Weeks.

A Y. M. C. A. Secretary Denounces Dancing—Puget Sound Has a Sea-serpent—Good Weather for Crops—Other News.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Edward McCabe, private secretary of Gov. Budd, says:

"The Governor is a very sick man, but there is no danger of fatality. His physicians will keep him confined to the house for another week, after which, if he is able to take the trip, he will probably go to some springs for recuperation. It will doubtless be at least six weeks before he will attempt to attend to business. No one is now allowed to disturb him. We do not even send him the correspondence of the office. Any papers requiring his signature are sent him, but in accordance with the directions of his physicians he is not harassed by details.

"All fear of spinal meningitis has disappeared, but the Governor is yet very weak. He is not able to move from his bed to the lounge without assistance. What he needs is absolute rest, without being disturbed in the slightest degree. Fortunately he is in general good physical condition so that there is no danger from the nervous prostration from which he is suffering. He has been subjected to a very severe strain for a year past and his illness is merely the natural result of overwork. Until he has absolutely recovered he will not attempt to give any attention to the affairs of his office."

Among the men who are most anxious for the rapid recovery of the Governor are the National Guard officers interested in the appointment of the brigadier generals for the first and third brigades. C. F. A. Last, a wholesale liquor dealer of Los Angeles, is the prominent candidate for the command of the First Brigade and Gen. Muller of Fresno is thought to be the choice for the other position. Last is a son-in-law of Stewart Menzies. He formerly lived in this city and served as an officer of the Second Artillery Regiment. His candidacy has been opposed by the Prohibitionists because he is a liquor dealer, but as he is a prominent business man, personally popular and qualified for the place, his chances are considered good.

Gen. Muller of Fresno was consolidated out of his late command by the new districting of the State into brigades. He has been in the service for many years and is the only person whose name seems to have been considered favorably at Sacramento for the appointment to the command of the Third Brigade.

Upon his recovery the Governor will also be required to devote considerable attention to the various public institutions of the State. In many of these vacancies in the boards of directors have occurred or will soon occur and it will be necessary to select men to fill these places. The insane asylums will receive particular notice. There are many applicants for the positions as directors of public institutions, and when the Governor returns to his office from the springs some time in October the stacks of applications and recommendations that will confront him may be sufficiently appalling to cause his relapse.

ACCEPTABLE WEATHER.

Drying of Fruit and Growing of the Crops Advancing Rapidly.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 19.—The following crop summary was issued by the State Agricultural Society, in co-operation with the United States Weather Bureau, James A. Barwick, director: "The average temperature for the week ending Monday, August 19, was: For Fresno, 82 deg.; Independence, 78; Los Angeles, 70; Red Bluff, 82; Sacramento, 73; San Francisco, 56; San Luis Obispo, 68, and San Diego, 68.

"As compared with the normal temperatures, there was a heat deficiency reported at Los Angeles of 3 deg.; Sacramento, 1; San Francisco, 4, and San Diego, 2. An excess of heat was reported from Fresno and Red Bluff of 1 deg. each.

"The weather during the week has been all that could be desired for the drying of fruit and the curing of the raisin grape, and for the rapid advancement of the growth of beans, which are being cut in Ventura county. What little corn there is raised in this State is reported in excellent condition. The honey crop is reported as being very much better than was at first expected earlier in the season. Hop-picking will begin during the coming week. It is reported that some yards will not be gathered on account of the very low price prevailing not being enough to pay for picking and baling.

THAT SEA-SERPENT.

Reputable Citizens of Puget Sound Have Seen It.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

TACOMA (Wash.,) Aug. 19.—Puget Sound has a sea-serpent with reputable citizens and an affidavit to attest its genuineness. The monster is fifty feet long and was last seen in Bellingham Bay by L. U. Stenger, Collector of Customs at that point; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gourley and C. A. Forburg, the latter a Y.M.C.A. man, all residents of New Whatcom, and all of whom agree as to the color and proportions of the monster.

Under oath Stenger testifies that he saw a "monster of the deep, sometimes called a sea-serpent," between New Whatcom and Fairhaven in Bellingham Bay at a point near the old Bellingham sawmill. A year ago Forburg, then secretary and athletic instructor of the New Whatcom Y.M.C.A., saw the monster near the same point. The Gourleys and Stenger were out in a steam launch last week when Stenger, who was sitting near the stern of the little steamer, suddenly noticed a huge, slimy, dark-brown body twisting about in the water at the rear of the vessel. It resembled a huge snake and its head was under water within two or three feet from the wheel of the launch, while the thick part of the body rose within six feet of the stern of the boat. The body was cylindrical, about fourteen inches in diameter in the thickest part and tapered to about two inches in diameter near the point of the tail. The end of the tail was represented by a cup-like knob, light-colored in the hollow and very much resembling the suckers on a devil-fish's arms.

The monster was evidently about fifty feet long, thirty feet of the body being visible above the surface of the water. The snake followed the launch about fifty feet and then suddenly dived forward, going directly under the boat, its massive proportions writhing and splashing the water very startlingly. Stenger has always held that the sea-serpent yarns published in the newspapers were myths, but he is thoroughly convinced that what he saw Thursday evening is nothing more or less than a great sea-fish in the form of a huge snake. It had a white or flesh-colored stripe across the thickest part of the body, as if it had been struck by an oar or propeller, cutting a deep gash, that had not quite healed over.

OFF THE RESERVE.

Troops Sent to Investigate the Conduct of Renegades.

WILLCOX (Ariz.,) Aug. 19.—The people of this section of Arizona remember the Indian rumors about three months ago, or on May 12, when the report was brought to town to the effect that renegade Indians were seen at the then new Pierce find, also in the Buckhorn Basin country. A troop finally reached here from Fort Bayard, traveling slowly and in a roundabout way, and from here returning to their station without having seen an Indian, due probably to the fact that they were several weeks behind time, and also to the fact that they never reached the place where the Indians were reported closer than about twenty-two miles.

The report was soon forgotten and, with the usual haste, came the denial from the agency at San Cahlos that any Indians were missing, but that all were present there and peaceable. The sequel came on Sunday when it was known that a lone squaw, who had ridden far and fast, had passed through town going toward Fort Grant. A courier was sent after her and had her returned here, and a Mexican woman, who has some knowledge of the language of the San Carlos Apaches, was called on to act as interpreter, and from the scared squaw the following story was drawn out.

The squaw says the report of May was true, that the party of renegades numbered twelve people, four bucks, under the leadership of the well-known renegade Massa, the balance of the party consisting of squaws and papooses. Just when leaving the reservation the party came across the witness, with her papoose and mother, and their first murderous act was to kill the mother in cold blood, and the witness and papoose were forced to accompany the band as prisoners, with hands tied.

After committing numerous depredations along the way, they escaped into the Chiricahua Mountains, where they have since been, notwithstanding the conflicting reports from San Carlos. The witness, being compelled to remain a member of the band against her will, only waited an opportunity to escape, which was given her last week, when all hands went on a hunting expedition, leaving her in camp. As soon as the coast was clear, abandoning her offspring, and securing the fleetest pony in the camp, she left for the north, traveling night and day by the guidance of the sun and stars. This story was quickly made known to the military authorities at Fort Grant, and as quickly as possible Troop H of the First Cavalry, under the command of Capt. Hoyle and Lieut, Hatman, with Dr. G. M. Wells, two Indian scouts, a pack-train and a thirty-days' supply of rations, were all en route to Willcox, arriving late in the night.

On arriving the squaw, who was detained here, was sought out and by means of a scout interpreter her story was again told, which was made known to Col. Sumner at Fort Grant. The reply was soon wired for the troop guided by the squaw to go to the camp of the party with instructions to carefully scout for and capture or exterminate the band. The command moved at 9:30 o'clock this morning with the intention of making forced marches.

The squaw informer had no means of knowing, but was of the belief that the camp she deserted was this side of the Mexican line, but from her description of the distance traveled the officers believe it to be to the south of it; in which case it is very doubtful if their journey will be a success. United States troops are forbidden to go on Mexican soil unless on a hot trail, and then they dare only go into the interior for a distance of ten miles without first reporting to and getting permission from the Mexican War Department, and which red tape measure serves to completely handicap our troops.

JACKS' SENSATION.

A Young Men's Christian Association Secretary Denounces Dancing.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Noel H. Jacks, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, has created something of a sensation by denouncing dancing. Jacks is giving a series of Sunday-afternoon talks at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, on "Popular Amusements." Last Sunday he took exception to the theater, and yesterday he declared that the dance has sent thousands of people to ruin.

"I desire to again repeat my position on these questions," said Jacks. "My position is that theater-going, dancing and card-playing have the tendency of leading men and women into evil, a tendency compensated by no possible good, and it is destructive of spiritual life among Christians. Now, as to the dance. Among the different amusements offered society today there is none which reaches more or has as great an influence as the dance. I believe all honest persons will agree with me that there is no amusement which has done so much to lower the standard of thought, conversation, action and living as the modern dance.

"I am against it, as a Christian man, because it leads, first, to impure thought; second, to improper conversation; third, to immodesty of action, and last, to immorality of living. Most members of police departments almost universally agree that three-fourths of the women and girls led into lives of sin took their first step downward through the public dance, and yet, in the face of this testimony, Christian parents, praying for the souls and lives of their sons and daughters, send them to the dancing-school to be taught manners (?) and gracefulness, and that they may be able to appear well in society. Give to me for my children the careful Christian training of a good home, rather than the mannerisms of so-called society life, taught in a dancing-school."

INDIAN HOP-PICKERS.

Nevada Redskins Under Contract in Sacramento Yards.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 19.—A great crowd of Indians arrived in Sacramento yesterday from Nevada under contract to pick hops in the fields near this city. Today fifty Indian women were taken into the country to pick hops for one grower.

On Saturday last 300 Chinese were taken out to pick for another grower. It is understood that the Chinese will be paid at the rate of 75 cents a hundred pounds, and that the Piutes and Japanese will work at a smaller figure. Next Saturday the hop-growers of this vicinity and many from Yolo county will meet in Sacramento for the purpose of discussing the prices offered for hops and agreeing upon a uniform price to pay the pickers.

GIVEN A PILL.

The Ante-mortem Statements of Mrs. Jennie Matthews.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—The trial of O. W. Winthrop, charged with the murder of Mrs. Jennie Matthews, was resumed this morning. Henry S. Matthews, husband of deceased, said that his wife had said Winthrop had given her a pill. The six-year-old daughter of the deceased was not allowed to take the stand, being incompetent to act as a witness.

Dr. Griffiths, who attended Mrs. Matthews before her death, said that the deceased had told him that a man with gray whiskers had given her a pill at the cemetery. The defense wanted his testimony stricken out, and Judge Bahrs reserved his ruling.

WIFE-MURDERER CAUGHT.

A Bad Man From Arizona is Located in Oklahoma.

PHOENIX (Ariz.,) Aug. 19.—Gov. Hughes has issued requisition papers to the Governor of Oklahoma for John M. See, who in May, 1892, murdered his wife at Gann's ranch in Gila county by shooting her with a double-barreled shotgun.

See was located by J. H. Thompson, Sheriff of Gila county, who had papers forwarded to him at Higgins, Tex., a little town on the border. See was in a stage-robbery with King Ussery a month before the murder when, at Riverside, Ariz., Wells-Fargo was robbed of $600 in silver bullion.

Her Cross in Life.

WOODLAND, Aug. 19.—A woman named Lee Goodin was found in an unoccupied building on North College street this evening, where she had swallowed an ounce of carbolic acid with suicidal intent. She left home about 6 o'clock this morning, and her husband supposed she had gone to school. He says he knows of no reason why she should have attempted to take her life. She wrote a statement to the effect that her mother-in-law was the cause of all her trouble. The woman will probably recover.

The New Hello Enterprise.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 19.—The Capital Telephone and Telegraph Company has begun business in Sacramento, and now has 300 phones in operation in this city. The territorial lines will be completed in about ten days. The places connected with Sacramento are Folsom, Clarksville, Shingle Springs, Big Canyon, Eldorado, Diamond Springs, Placerville, Church Mine, Nashville, Plymouth, Dry Town, Amador, Sutter Creek, Jackson and Ione. The outside line will be gradually extended until the whole State is taken in.

Judge Murphy Ill.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Superior Judge Murphy was too ill today to proceed with the trial of Theodore Durrant. A recess was declared until Thursday. It is said that counsel for the defense are preparing affidavits in support of a new motion for a change of venue on the ground of the impracticability of securing an impartial jury in San Francisco. If the motion is granted it is said that they will endeavor to have Santa Rosa selected as the scene of the trial.

Parole of Prisoners.

TUCSON (Ariz.,) Aug. 19.—Four prisoners at Yuma were paroled yesterday by the Board of Control under the act passed by the late Legislature. The parole is equivalent to semi-freedom. The prisoners will be employed at various other Territorial institutions for a time, and if good conduct is maintained and they abstain from intoxicating liquors unconditional pardons will be granted them. Three of them will receive small remuneration for their services.

An Impetuous Contractor.

STOCKTON, Aug. 19.—Michael Gibbons, a laborer on the Valley Railroad grade, went to the office of R. R. Thornton, one of the contractors, this evening to get a time check. It was refused him, and when he insisted on having it, Thornton pulled a pistol from a drawer and fired at him. The bullet glanced from Gibbons's cheek and went through his hat. Witnesses say that Gibbons was sitting in a chair at the time the shot was fired. Thornton was arrested.

Ehrenberg's Startling Experience.

NAPA, Aug. 19.—The residence of M. T. Ehrenberg, a large wine manufacturer, was partly burned this morning. Ehrenberg was awakened by a sensation as if some one were choking him, and on arising discovered his sleeping apartment to be full of smoke. Awakening his two children he escaped from the house and turned in an alarm of fire. After a hard struggle the flames were extinguished. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

Resigned His Pastorate.

OAKLAND, Aug. 19.—Rev. Charles W. Wendte, pastor of the First Unitarian Church of Oakland and superintendent of the American Unitarian Association of the Pacific Coast, has resigned his pastorate because the rich men of his church will not give him proper financial support. Wendte has accepted a call from a Boston Unitarian church.

The Bank of Tacoma Assigns.

TACOMA (Wash.,) Aug. 19.—The Bank of Tacoma, formerly the Tacoma Trust and Savings Company, this morning made an assignment to its creditors. Its statement shows the cash on hand to be $444.18; loans, $279,072.50; total liabilities, $378,916.64, of which $228,664.77 is city money. The bank has long been regarded as insecure.

A Sailboat Upset.

PORTLAND (Or.,) Aug. 19.—The steamer Ocean Wave, on her way from Astoria to this city, collided with a sailboat containing five persons, near Stella, Wash., about 1 o'clock this morning. The sailboat upset and two of the occupants, John Weatherwax and Ed Wagner, were drowned. The other three were rescued.

Burned at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—News was received here today to the effect that the Italian bark Peppe had been burned at sea. The vessel was loaded with coal and was bound from Andrason for San Francisco. All hands were saved and succeeded in landing at Montevideo.

Thirty Years for Rape.

SUSANVILLE, Aug. 19.—Ed Hilder, proprietor of the Hotel Milford, was arrested on August 15 for criminally assaulting his fourteen-year-old stepdaughter. He was arraigned on the 17th, tried in the Superior Court and was today sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment at Folsom.

A Bullet-hole in His Head.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 19.—The body of an unknown tramp was found this morning at the foot of the levee, with a bullet hole in his head. He had evidently been murdered. There is no clew to his identity.

SEVERE ENGAGEMENT.

Cuban Insurgents Lose Fifty Men at Arillao.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

HAVANA, Aug. 19.—A severe engagement has been fought at Arillao, department of Santa Clara. The insurgents are said to have lost fifty killed, and on the government side eight soldiers were killed or wounded.

A PROCLAMATION BY GOMEZ.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The report from Havana that Gen. Gomez had died of consumption on July 31 is scoffed at by those best posted in Cuban affairs. A proclamation issued by Gen. Gomez, a copy of which was in his own handwriting, was received by the United Brotherhood of this city today. The proclamation bears date of August 1.

A TERRIFIC STORM.

THE WORST ONE IN YEARS AT PITTSBURGH.

Three Lives Are Lost and a Score of People More or Less Are Injured.

Property to the Amount of One Hundred Thousand Dollars is also Damaged.

A Steamer with Four Hundred Passengers Swept Down River by Swollen Waters—Other Vessels Overturned.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

PITTSBURGH (Pa., Aug. 19.—Last night's storm was the most terrific and destructive that has visited this city in many years. It came without warning, at a time when the parks were filled with people and river boats crowded with excursionists. As far as known, two lives were lost, a score of persons injured, two fatally, and property was damaged to the extent of $100,000. The dead are:

MILLIE LINBAUGH, cook on the steamer.

LUD KEEFER, drowned.

An unknown woman was blown from Point bridge. The men probably fatally injured are:

PATRICK SHEA, a fireman, Westend Electric-railway power-house.

JOHN ADAMS, conductor on the Second-avenue traction line.

The storm struck the city at about 10 o'clock and was over in half an hour. The rain came down in torrents, accompanied by vivid lightning and terrific wind. Houses were unroofed, trees blown down and fences and outhouses demolished. So tremendous was the force of the tornado that the steamers Lud Keefer, Little Bill and Arlington were overturned, and many barges, coalboats and small craft were torn from their moorings and sent adrift. The passenger barge Dakota was forced against the Smithfield-street bridge and had a side crushed in. She sank in several feet of water.

When the storm struck the Keefer, Capt. Keefer, Maye Miller, Millie Lindbaugh, the cook, and two colored chambermaids were on board, but all reached shore in safety, except Millie Lindbaugh, who became exhausted and was drowned. The steamer Courier, with 400 passengers on board, was swept along with the water, and the passengers became panic-stricken, but Capt. Kline succeeded in making a landing at Painter's Mills, and all were discharged from the boat in safety. While the wind was at its height, an unknown woman attempted to cross the Point bridge. She was caught in a whirlwind and blown into the river and drowned. Thousands of people were at Schenley Park. When the storm came on there was a rush for shelter. The wind prostrated the electric-light wires, and several women were seriously shocked by coming in contact with them. On Second avenue a feed wire was broken, and, in attempting to repair it, Conductor Adams was fatally shocked.

On the south side, the large grain elevator of Henderson & Johnson, in course of construction, was almost completely demolished. Heavy iron girders fell on a row of tenements and crushed them, but fortunately the occupants were away from home. Two freight cars on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie road were blown into the Monongahela River. Portions of Monongaleha and Castle Shannon inclines were carried away by the wind. On the north side of the Allegheny great damage was done to small buildings and many trees were uprooted in the parks, but, as far as reported, no persons were injured. On Arch street in this city a new brick building was blown over, crushing the double frame dwelling adjoining that occupied by Mrs. Daly, burying her with one child and Mrs. Prior with three. They were dug out and are unhurt.

LATER:—Archibald Scoble was blown into the river. This increases the list of dead to three.

THROUGH A FURNACE.

Thrilling Experience of Passengers Stalled Amid Forest Fires.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

DENVER, Aug. 19.—A special to the News from Spokane, Wash., says that passengers on the west-bound Great Northern train had a narrow escape from death last night. The train had passed through a fiery furnace of burning forests for a distance of ten miles and when it reached the Little Spokane River, about twenty miles east of this city, a huge tree fell across the track from the mountain above just as the train was passing. The engine struck it, causing the train to stop so suddenly as to throw the passengers violently from their seats. The burning tree was dragged partially underneath the cars and for a moment the train toppled to one side until it almost went into a 150-foot chasm on the other side.

So intense was the heat from the forest fires that the coaches blistered and almost took fire. The passengers for a time were panic-stricken and but for the coolness of the train crew they would have rushed out into certain death. The burning tree set fire to the mail and baggage cars, but the flames were extinguished with water from the stream. With axes the track was cleared and the train succeeded in reaching here badly damaged.

The forest fires have now reached south along the line of the Great Northern and continue with unabated vigor. Millions of feet of timber have already been destroyed. In the section where the fires are now burning are several small sttlements and a good many settlers are scattered throughout the timber, and grave fears are entertained that many have perished. In the northern panhandle of Idaho, a wild and uninhabited wilderness, the fire is rapidly licking up the vast herbitage of timber. Never before in the history of the Northwest have the forest fires caused so much havoc.

W. McCreary, superintendent of bridges for the Northern Pacific, arrived from the Coeur d'Alenes tonight. He reported the death of four men. They were bridge-carpenters and had gone out on a long bridge to extinguish the fire and, failing to do so, they sought to return, only to find their retreat cut off by the flames. They were compelled to stay on the burning bridge until the flames reached them, when they leaped into the chasm 136 feet below and were dashed to death.

THEY WERE NOT THERE.

PORTLAND (Or.,) Aug. 19.—A special to the Oregonian from Spokane, Wash., says that the report that four men were burned to death on a railroad bridge in the Coeur d'Alenes is the work of the fertile imagination of a sensational reporter. No such accident has occurred.

Rioting at Mulheim.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—Serious disturbances have broken out at Mulheim, consequent on the Cologne and Mulheim Steam Navigation Company reducing fares between those places in order to ruin a rival company. The police are unable to prevent riots. Many have been wounded on both sides. The military have been summoned, but the rioting continues, and the police are using their revolvers.

NOT BRITISHERS.

A Reply in Parliament as to Men Arrested in Honolulu.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(By Atlantic Cable.) In the House of Commons today Rt. Hon. George N. Curzon, Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, replying to a question put by James F. Hogan, member from Tipperary, regarding the arbitrary arrest of British subjects in Honolulu for alleged complicity in plots to restore the Queen, said that some of the complainants were not British subjects and that the British commissioner was still engaged in investigating the cases of others who had complained.

Baron Castletown has given notice of his intention to move a resolution in the House of Lords early next session to abolish the office of Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and in lieu thereof to appoint a Chief Under Secretary for Ireland and to pray the Queen to establish a royal residence in that country.

The House of Commons agreed to the address in reply to the royal speech by a vote of 217 to 63.

The House then agreed to the address under a closure, moved by Balfour amidst angry clamor by the Radicals and the church members, who were desirous of adjourning the debate, and who moved obstructive motions against the House going into committee on supply. All these were rejected by overwhelming majorities, the House finally adjourning at 2:20 o'clock in the morning.

ON THE TEMPELHOFF.

GERMANS REJOICE IN FORMER ACHIEVEMENTS.

Emperor William Makes a Little Speech Exhorting the Veterans to Work for God and the Fatherland.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The Veterans' Association of Berlin assembled on Tempelhoff field today to the number of about forty thousand, this being the big memorial celebration of the victories of the Germans over the French in 1870. It was also the anniversary of the severe bombardment of Strasburg by the Germans, and the retreat of the French army under McMahon before the advance of the Prussians. The veterans were received by the Emperor on a field profusely decorated with flags and banners.

The weather was perfect and the center of attraction was the grand stand, before which was a choir and an altar, surmounted by a crucifix, surrounded by tapers.

His Majesty arrived on the field at 10 o'clock and was received by the festival column, which included among its members many generals and high officials. After the choral service the Emperor made a speech to the veterans, during the course of which he said:

"Comrades: I am glad to see assembled here my grandfather's comrades who achieved brilliant deeds and splendid success under his leadership. May the present day be the starting point for respect of the law, the fostering of religion and the loyalty to the King. Your homage is not intended for me, but for the Fatherland. Following the exhortations which the army chaplains addressed to you, work with devotion for God and the Fatherland and oppose all revolutionary tendency."

THE DAY AT COLUMBUS.

COLUMBUS (O.,) Aug. 19.—About six thousand people are here to attend the twenty-fifth anniversary of the battles around Metz, as celebrated by the Kriegerbund, an organization of ex-German soldiers, similar to the G.A.R. In the parade at 8 o'clock were organizations from Akron, Pitsburgh, Allegheny, Cleveland, Toledo, McKeesport, Newark, St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago, Terre Haute, Peoria, Aurora and Elgin.

HESSE'S THANKS.

DARMSTADT, Aug. 19.—The Grand Duke of Hesse yesterday issued the following order to a division of the army:

"Following the ancient custom of my house, I take over, in addition, to the colonelcy of my First Infantry Regiment, that of the First Dragons and field artillery, and I choose this day to express to the whole division my acknowledgment and undying gratitude for the devotion and gallantry with which, under the renowned leadership of my father, they fought in the glorious campaign of 1870-71, especially on the battlefields of Gravelotte and St. Privat, for their country and for the whole German fatherland."

At a banquet yesterday the Grand Duke, addressing the veterans, said: "Today, twenty-five years ago you, commanded by my father, stood shoulder to shoulder with the other German races in a fierce conflict, lasting many hours, and gained imperishable fame. Those who themselves so fought for the unity of Germany will always come forward to maintain what has been won and bring up their sons in loyalty to their Prince and fatherland and submissive obedience to the Emperor, the commander of the army."

ARMENIANS FIGHT.

Several Persons Injured at a Meeting While Choosing Officers.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—A meeting of Armenians held last night broke up in a riot, in which a number of persons were injured.

Even before the alarm was given people were hurrying to North Clark street and Michigan street, attracted by the uproar that came from the open windows of the hall where the Armenian National Union was holding a meeting. In a few moments the street was blocked. From the hall came the sound of terrific battle—flying chairs and furious voices. Then suddenly the noise was hushed, and down the stairs came nearly a hundred men. Some of them were blood-stained. One, with his head bound in a handkerchief, appeared to be insensible, and had to be carried away by his friends. There was scarcely a man without a black eye or some mark of conflict about him.

The trouble seems to have arisen over the election of officers. The riot had subsided when the police arrived, but they could not find the leaders, and no arrests were made. None of those injured were thought to be fatally hurt.

Fire at Johns Hopkins.

BALTIMORE (Md.,) Aug. 19.—At 3:20 o'clock the Fire Department responded to an alarm at Johns Hopkins University. A dense volume of smoke was pouring from the upper story of the laboratory from the upper story of the the laboratory and part of the buildings would be destroyed at last accounts.

Seventeen Persons Drowned.

HAMBURG, Aug. 19.—A boat containing twenty-five passengers was run down and sunk today by steamer Concordia from Stade. Seventeen persons were drowned.

Sharp tricksters—these peddlers selling powders of which they say—"same as Pearline"—"good as Pearline." Keep a keen edge on your wits against such. PEARLINE has no equal.

CIRCULATION.

Sworn Weekly Statement of the Circulation of the Los Angeles Times.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES, SS.

Personally appeared before me, H. G. Otis, president and general manager of the Times-Mirror Company, who, being duly sworn, deposes and says that the daily circulation records and daily pressroom reports of the office show that the bona fide editions of The Times for each day of the week ended August 17, 1895, were as follows:

Sunday,	August 11.*	20,100
Monday,	" 12.	13,910
Tuesday,	" 13.	13,850
Wednesday,	" 14.	14,000
Thursday,	" 15.	38,000
Friday,	" 16.	13,925
Saturday,	" 17.	14,000
Total		127,885
Gross daily average		18,269

(Signed) H. G. OTIS.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 17th day of August, 1895.

(Seal) J. C. OLIVER,
Notary Public in and for Los Angeles County, State of California

NOTE.—The large circulation of the Midsummer Number has swelled the above figures much above the average.

NOTE.—THE TIMES is a seven-day paper. The above aggregate, viz., 127,885 copies, issued by us during the seven days of the past week, would, if apportioned on the basis of a six-day evening paper, give a daily average circulation for each week-day of 21,314 copies.

THE TIMES is the only Los Angeles paper which has regularly published sworn statements of its circulation, both gross and net, weekly, monthly and yearly, during the past several years. Advertisers have the right to know the NET CIRCULATION of the medium which seeks their business, and this THE TIMES gives them correctly, from time to time.

Animals Understand Hygiene.

(London Spectator:) Enough is now known of the nature of animal materia to excite interest and curiosity. There is abundant evidence that many species know and constantly make use of simple remedies for definite disorders, and at the same time observe rules of health to which only the highest civilization or the sanction of religious prescription compels man to conform.

It has been noted that the general condition of animal health, especially in the case of the herbivorous creatures, corresponds not inexactly with that of such tribes as the Somalis, men feeding almost solely on grain, milk, dates and water, living constantly in the open air, moderate in all things, and cleanly, because their religion enjoins constant ablutions. Like them, wild animals have no induced diseases; the greatest number do not eat to excess; they take regular exercise in seeking their food, and drink only at fixed hours. Many of them secure change of climate, one of the greatest factors in health, by migration.

This is not confined to birds and beasts, for the salmon enters the soft water partly to get rid of sea parasites, and returns to the sea to recruit after spawning. With change of climate, change of diet, and perfectly healthy habits, their list of disorders is short, though they readily fall victims to contagious disease, just as recently numbers of the Hamran Arabs of the Soudan, as healthy livers and good Mussulmans as the Somalis themselves, friends and fellow-hunters with Sir Samuel Baker, perished of contagious fever on the banks of the Nile tributaries.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
Los Angeles, Aug. 19.

BANK CLEARANCES. The bank clearances for today, as reported to The Times by the Los Angeles Clearing-house, are: Exchanges, $179,427.69; balances, $19,864.70.

CURRENCY IN CIRCULATION. The regular monthly statement issued shows that on August 1 the actual circulation of currency in the United States was $1,614,533,786, against $1,657,574,239 on the same date last year. The per capita circulation was $23.06.

DAYS OF GRACE. A few days ago The Times published a statement in this column concerning a movement on the part of certain States to do away with what is known as the "three days of grace" on promissory notes. Since then it is learned through the Financial and Commercial Chronicle of New York that Illinois has fallen into line and that that State recently passed a law repealing the provision allowing the days of grace. The act, however, provides that a prommissory note or other commercial or negotiable instrument falling due on a Sunday or legal holiday shall not be considered due and payable until the day following such Sunday or legal holiday, and that when two or more of such days come together or in immediate succession, then the note or instrument of indebtedness shall be deemed as due only and as having matured on the day following the last of such days.

COMMERCIAL.

DRIED FRUITS. The trade in all kinds of dried fruits continues quiet. With the exception of a single car now and then no shipments to the East are being made. Prices for prunes remain unchanged, 3¾ cents a pound being the highest offered in Southern California. For Santa Clara prunes 4 cents is the highest offered for the four sizes and even at this price most of the shipments being made are on consignment.

For dried peaches 4½ cents is the highest offering, but even at these figures, shippers say, nothing is being done. Just as the new crop of dried peaches came in this season some few purchases were made at 5¼ cents and one carload was bought at 5¾ cents, but the results, as stated by the shippers, were so unsatisfactory that these prices have not since been duplicated.

The general belief among shipping firms in Los Angeles is that the great bulk of the dried fruit from both Southern California and the northern districts will go forward this season under consignment, the condition of the eastern markets being, they say, so uncertain as to prevent their entering into any hard and fast contracts. The one and great danger in this to growers is that too much dried fruit may be dumped on the eastern markets at the same time, resulting in congestion and as a consequence lower prices. Those growers having any considerable quantity of dried fruits on hand would do well to inform themselves as to the condition of the eastern markets before shipping.

WALNUTS. The latest eastern advices quote foreign Grenoble walnuts on the New York and other Atlantic Coast markets at from 8 to 8½ cents a pound. For Southern California walnuts no price has yet been fixed. Contracts have been entered into, but the price to be paid by the purchaser has been left blank, the stipulation being that the price to be fixed shall be governed by the state of the eastern markets at the time the walnuts from Southern California are ready for shipment. If the foreign article does not advance over present quotations it will leave, other things being equal, but a fraction over 7 cents a pound to the Southern California grower, freight being $1.40 a hundred to Atlantic seaboard points.

A meeting of the walnut-growers of Southern California is to take place tomorrow in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, when various matters connected with walnut growing and selling will come up for discussion.

GOLD SHIPMENT. A dispatch today to The Times from New York says that Handy & Harman will ship $50,000 tomorrow to Europe.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

PRICES OF PETROLEUM. It is a matter of interest to compare the ruling prices of crude petroleum in the East with present prices of the same in Los Angeles. In 1000 barrel lots the price of eastern petroleum on the New York market last week was $1.26 a barrel. Here in Los Angeles crude petroleum was selling at 60 cents a barrel, or less than one-half of what it was selling for East. It must not be supposed that the eastern quotation here given was for the refined article. It was not; it was for the crude article, similar in every respect to Los Angeles petroleum, with the exception that the eastern product is better adapted to refining. For fuel purposes, however, it is no better—it is not even so good as Los Angeles petroleum. When, therefore, it is asserted that Los Angeles has the cheapest furnace fuel in the United States without a single exception it is no idle boast. Rather is it an important fact susceptible of verification at any moment. The fact is too important a one for manufacturers and those seeking the establishment of industries on the Pacific Coast to overlook.

THE WOOL MARKET. The speculation in wool on eastern markets has in a large measure subsided. The latest quotations show that during the last half of July and the early part of the present month sales had markedly decreased, and prices were nearer to actual requirements. At the present time prices are firm. Woolen goods, however, show signs of weakness. Dun's review, speaking of the situation, says there is much complaint of foreign competition and undervaluations, especially in medium and lower qualities.

IRON AND STEEL. Higher prices East for iron and steel products show that the supply has not yet exceeded the demand, nor does there appear to be any signs of a reaction. Several of the big railway companies have placed large orders, and orders for structural iron continue heavy. Reports state that the Carnegie works at Homestead broke all previous records by turning out last month—July—43,000 tons of steel, of which 17,150 were of beams.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Wholesale Quotations Revised Daily.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19, 1895.

Butter opened firmer today and some houses which were not up to the top figure quoted an advance. The end of the boom in eggs is not yet and, unless the cold-storage warehouses unload heavily, prices may go even higher than at present. There is no marked movements in vegetables and fruit.

(The following quotations are for average grades of the products mentioned. For an extra choice article a somewhat better price than the highest quoted can usually be obtained, while for a product of decidedly inferior quality the seller will probably have to accept less than the lowest published quotation.)

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Shares and Money.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Speculation on the Stock Exchange in the stock of American Tobacco dominated today, the bear attacks being continued. When the attack on the Tobacco trust began reports were circulated that independent tobacco manufacturers in the West and South were combining against it with the purpose of creating general liquidation of the company's stock. At the opening of the campaign ten days ago the stock stood at 114¼. Saturday it closed at 104¼. Today, under increased pressure, it opened at from 103¾ to 101, and the last sale was made at 92. Charges have been made that insiders, after creating a market for the shares, have been unloading them upon the public. The preferred stock of the company broke 4 per cent. to 108. General speculation opened firm. Chicago Gas was notably strong, advancing 1¾ per cent., and Manhattan was in brisk demand on purchases by insiders. The break in Tobacco caused most of the other shares to recede, notably Sugar, 2½ per cent. The railway list did not participate in the downward movement to any extent, but Oregon Improvement declined 2 per cent. In the afternoon Sugar recovered 1¼ per cent. In the final dealings there was a renewal of the depression and the market closed heavy, with the net changes mostly in the fractions. The foreign trading was very light. Bonds were strong, with sales of $1,159,000.

New York Money.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Money on call, easy at 1 per cent.; prime mercantile paper, 3½@4½ per cent.; sterling exchange, firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.89½@4.89½ for demand, and 4.89¼@4.89½ for 60 days; posted rates, 4.90@4.91; commercial bills, 4.90@4.91 and 4.88½; silver certificates, 67½@68; government bonds, steady; State bonds, dull; railroad bonds, strong.

Gold and Bonds.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The question of this week's gold shipments was discussed in the street today. In view of the fact that it is expected that a considerable amount of the yellow metal will have to go forward in payment for new government 4 per cent. bonds, returned from Europe, Hoskier, Woods & Co. are, it is said, endeavoring to secure exchange to the amount of $3,000,000 to pay for bonds received by them from London. If they cannot obtain this amount or any part of it on terms satisfactory to them, they will be obliged to ship that amount of gold, but as yet are unable to say positively. It is understood that other large amounts of bonds have been or will be soon received, but it is believed that a majority of them have been either already paid for or exchange has been procured to pay for them.

London Financial Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Evening Post's London cablegram says that cloudless weather emptied the stock markets today. Kaffirs were the only speculative interest. American securities were neglected. The money market was a trifle harder, owing to the remittance of the indemnity fund to the Bank of England. About £3000 have already gone through.

The Visible Supply.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The visible supply of grain on Saturday, August 17, as compiled by the Produce Exchange, is as follows: Wheat, 36,893,000 bushels, a decrease of 947,000 bushels; corn, 4,393,000 bushels, a decrease of 320,000 bushels; oats, 3,631,500 bushels, a decrease of 294,000 bushels; rye, 304,000 bushels, an increase of 90,000 bushels; barley, 220,000 bushels, an increase of 74,000 bushels.

Gold Shipments.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Oelrichs & Co. will ship $100,000 gold to Europe per steamship Spree tomorrow.

Hoskir, Wood & Co. state that they will ship from $750,000 to $1,000,000 gold on Wednesday's steamer.

Fruit at New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Earl Fruit Company sold today Bartlett pears at 2.30@2.60; prunes, Gros, 85@1.30; Hungarian, 95@1.10; egg plums, 75@1.05; Kelsey Japan, 2.86; Columbia, 65; Muscat grapes, 1.05@1.10.

Petroleum.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Petroleum was dull. United closed at 1.26 bid.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKETS.

Grain and Produce.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Wheat ruled dull and weak. There was no special reason for the early advance, except perhaps the firmness in September corn, and selling was so free and the cables so colorless that the price was soon off le easily. Another factor of weakness was found in the increased shipments of Russian and Argentine wheat last week. The deliveries in the Northwest are also increasing. All holders were uneasy and there was generous liquidation. At the close September was 1¼c lower than Saturday. Corn started higher, and for a time September held strong on the big cash demand, while May was tending downward on reports of cooler weather and rain where hot winds and drought have been reported. But there was such free selling of September at the advance that it finally turned and followed May on the downward track. September sold early at 39½ and closed at 38½. May lost ⅝c for the day. Oats were easy, following corn. September lost ½c. Provisions were firmer and closed a trifle higher. At the close September deliveries for pork, lard and ribs were respectively higher for the day by 20c, 2½c and 15c, while for January the changes were confined to 2½c rise in lard.

The leading futures ranged as follows:

THE MIDSUMMER TIMES—40 PAGES.

By far the most valuable paper ever issued from this office.

By mail, postage paid: Single copies, 8 cents; 2 copies, 15 cents; 4 copies, 30 cents; 6 copies, 45 cents; 10 copies, 75 cents; 14 copies, $1.

Without postage: Single copies, at the counter or news-stand, 5 cents; 10 copies, 50 cents; 20 copies, $1.

Postage: The postage on the Midsummer Number—40 pages—to all parts of the United States, Mexico and Canada is three (3) cents, and to all countries within the Universal Postal Union is five (5) cents. Plainly written lists of names and addresses may be sent us with the money, and the papers will be mailed, postpaid, to any point desired.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

City subscribers to The Times visiting the country or seaside resorts during the summer can have the daily mailed to them, for a week or longer, by ordering and prepaying for the same at the publication office, or they can have it delivered in any of the seaside towns by ordering from the local agent, and paying in advance.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—Do not depend upon the return of rejected manuscripts, but retain copies if you wish to preserve your contributions. Articles should be typewritten and MSS. sent flat. Practice brevity and write plainly.

LAW IS SUPREME.

The Rev. John Shelford, a Catholic priest of Brooklyn, delivered a sermon at Plattsburg, N. M., on Sunday, on the occasion of the closing of the Catholic summer school at that place. He is quoted in the dispatches as expressing, among other sentiments, the following:

"The true church must make its members good citizens. The Catholic church is the friend of every legitimate government, but is independent of any. The church cannot interfere with the state, but she can say that a law is unjust and that it may not be obeyed."

It is possible, or probable, that the dispatches have not reported the exact language of the reverend gentleman. It is to be hoped that such is the case, for no good citizen would hold or express the opinion that any church has power to say that a law passed by the people "is unjust and that it may not be obeyed." If this principle were admitted, it would virtually place the power of the church above that of the state. It would set up a species of religious censorship which would be repugnant to every principle upon which this government is founded.

There is no power in this nation high enough to declare authoritatively that this law or that law passed by the people, through their representatives, shall not be obeyed. Even the Supreme Court of the United States—the highest judicial tribunal on earth—has no such power. It can only review the laws, as passed, and determine whether they are in conflict with the Constitution. If a statutory law conflicts with the fundamental or organic law it is nugatory because the organic law, or Constitution, is the supreme law of the land. The Supreme Court has no power to set aside a law on any other ground than its unconstitutionality. To assume that any church or other organization has power or authority, as regards the laws of the land, higher than that of the Supreme Court, is manifestly untenable, to use no severer term.

The ultimate source of all authority in the affairs of this government is the people. Only the people can make laws, and only the people can unmake them. No man nor any class of men can have the right to disobey laws so long as those laws remain unrepealed. No authority exists anywhere to declare what laws shall or shall not be obeyed; for the passage of a law carries with it the mandate of the people that it shall be obeyed. Whoever disputes the supreme authority of the people, as embodied in their laws, is guilty of disloyalty to our form of government.

It is probable that the Rev. Mr. Shelford's language has been misquoted; or, at all events, that if he used the precise words attributed to him, he did so without a full realization of their logical purport. The Times, at least, prefers to take this charitable view of the matter.

There are occasional shipments of quite large amounts of gold to Europe, but these do not disturb the equanimity of the administration; for is not the national treasury under the especial guardianship and protection of the Wall street syndicate?

And now Pittsburgh, Pa., has had a [illegible], which resulted in several fatalities and great loss of property. She will be compelled to resort to [illegible] caves in the Eastern and Middle States if this sort of thing keeps on.

CONFISCATION.

The free-coinage advocates are very fluent in expatiating on the "advantages" which would accrue to the debtor by reason of legislation enabling him to cancel his debts by "paying" them at the rate of 50 cents on every dollar; but they are not so eloquent in describing the other side of the shield—the side which presents itself to the creditor. With singular perversity they overlook or ignore the fact that the creditor to whom a certain number of dollars is due is entitled to payment in dollars of full value, and that any curtailment by law of the value of those dollars is virtual confiscation.

The largest creditor class in the country is the wage-earning class. These men are entitled to payment for their labor in dollars of full value—dollars as good as any that come from the mints. Yet, if the theories of the free-coinage advocates could be put into operation, every wage-earner in the land would be paid in depreciated currency, worth but little more than 50 cents on the dollar, and having relatively about that purchasing power. This would be a gross injustice to the wage-earners of the land which can be justified from no standpoint. In this connection the Chicago Tribune pertinently says:

"The silver extremists avoid all allusion to the self-evident fact that the amount available for the conduct of business and the payment of wages would similarly be cut down one-half by destroying 50 per cent. of the money power at the command of business men and employers of labor. In the course of the recent debate Mr. Horr showed conclusively that the change proposed and advocated by Harvey would work vast injury to 17,000,000 of people in the United States who work for wages, and that the injury would extend to all pensioners, savings and other bank depositors, and the holders of insurance policies, aggregating twelve millions of people, and to every person in the United States who has any money in his possession except gold coin. Harvey said not one word to disprove these statements. He was as mute as the grave on these important points, for he knew well that to admit them would virtually amount to 'a throwing of his case out of court,' and he could not deny it. So, of course, Harvey could not be induced to suggest any plan for making good the several billions of dollars of loss which would fall on the many millions of American citizens in consequence of cutting down the present standard of value of the dollar one-half, which he practically admitted would benefit no one except the silver-mine owners and the debtors. It was a pitiable position for Harvey to occupy, one of which any honest man would be thoroughly ashamed.

It is quite evident, from the following paragraph, clipped from the New York Tribune, that the police authorities of that city have some duties to perform other than the closing of Sunday saloons:

"Fagin has turned up in this city again, this time in the person of a girl of 15, whose home is in Eldridge street. Two of her girl pupils were caught picking pockets in Central Park on Saturday, and one of them confessed that she had picked fifteen pockets in three days. She gave the name and address of her instructor, and said that the latter had a class of twenty boys and girls on the East Side, to whom she was giving lessons in the light-fingered art. The two girls arrested were 12 and 6 years of age, respectively, from which is appears that infants, barely out of the cradle, are being brought up to steal in this Christian and civilized community. It is not work by the police alone that is needed in dealing with cases of this kind. They come within the purview of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, if not of other philanthropic societies."

A pamphlet containing many valuable facts concerning the Nicaragua Canal has just been published at San Francisco, under the joint auspices of the chambers of commerce of San Francisco, Portland and San Diego, and the Board of Trade of San Francisco. The total distance from ocean to ocean, the quantity of earth to be excavated, the elevation and length of the summit level, the number and dimensions of locks to be built, the depth, length and width of the canal are treated of in detail. Much other valuable information relative to the great project is also found in the pages of this timely work. It should be, and undoubtedly will be, placed in the hands of every member of the next Congress. The work is invaluable for all persons who desire to be accurately informed as to the scope and value of this highly important undertaking.

An eastern paper is authority for the statement that Nicola Tesla, the celebrated electrician and inventor, is at work on the idea that it is possible to produce in our atmosphere vibrations similar to those which cause the sunlight, and thus obtain an artificial light as intense as that which comes from the sun, but with no danger of obstruction from the clouds. He says that sunlight is produced by five hundred millions of millions of vibrations per second in our atmosphere, and in order to produce the same kind of light it will be necessary to induce, by machinery, an equal number of vibrations. He does not give an intimation of the way in which this is to be done, and probably does not know it himself yet. But he says he has succeeded up to a certain point, and is still at work on the task.

A Washington correspondent says that ex-Senator Conger of Michigan, who fifteen years ago was one of the leaders of the Republican party, is now a poor man, living in Washington. Two years ago Mrs. Conger died, leaving the aged ex-Senator an annuity of $100 a month. The executors of the estate, it seems, however, have not paid the annuity for almost a year. The other day he won his suit, and the courts ordered the executors to pay the money due or go to jail. Mr. Conger is now 74 years old. One of the greatest speeches he ever delivered was at the Chicago convention in 1880.

Some of the leading eastern papers are advocating the recognition of the Cuban insurgents as belligerents by the United States government. The time for such recognition has not yet arrived, but at the rate affairs are progressing in Cuba it will not be many weeks before it will become the manifest duty of our government to take the step referred to. The Cuban patriots are making a brave fight for independence. With such a struggle every true-born American has a natural sympathy. The recognition of the insurgents by our government at the proper time would be both expedient and popular.

The wrecking of the Gumry Hotel at Denver, by an explosion, as is supposed, of the steam boilers in the basement, was one of the most appalling of the calamities of the present year. The number of lives lost is not at this writing definitely known, but will certainly be large, as the hotel was filled with guests. That any should have escaped from that part of the building which was wrecked is indeed miraculous. The cause of the explosion will probably never be certainly known, though some light may be thrown on the subject when the debris has been removed.

A newspaper correspondent, writing from the City of Mexico, describes President Diaz as "purely Aztec in appearance. His color is almost that of an Indian. His hair is black and straight, and falls a little over his temples. His strength lies in his chin as clearly as Samson's strength lay in his hair." It is a rather dubious compliment to say that "his strength lies in his chin." It is plainly an intimation that President Diaz has decided leanings toward Populism and anarchism. This is probably doing the gentleman a great injustice.

The savings banks of California, as shown by the latest report to the Bank Commissioners, contain total deposits of $126,830,512. This is not a bad showing for these piping times of "tariff reform;" but the deposits are not likely to increase to any great extent while the experimentation of the tariff-reform administration continues.

A New York paper of Monday, August 12, says: "Yesterday was one of the days when multitudes fly from the city in search of cool breezes and more abundant oxygen than metropolitan streets can supply." "More abundant oxygen" is a very clever euphemism, in view of the zealous efforts of the authorities to enforce the Sunday saloon-closing law in Gotham.

Col. Henri Watterson recently remarked that "this is one of Democratic party's off years." Col. Henri is right. It is a decidedly "off" year for the Democracy.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

ORPHEUM. Vaudeville continues its drawing capacity, as was evidenced by the usual big audience at the Orpheum last night. The bill is full of bright features, and the show opens with those strong favorites, Gilbert and Goldie, who seem to have an inexhaustible store of witticisms with which to while away the moments. They have an entirely different string of jokes this week, most of them new, and all of them fired off with so much snap that they sound new, even though familiar. The Martinettis do a double turn, first their wonderful feats of acrobatics, on the stage, accomplished with the most captivating neatness and dexterity, and then a turn in the Roman rings that is clean-cut and brilliant. George Catlin simulates the "Chinee" brother with a faithfulness to the original John that is most engaging. The specialty is full of novelty and drollery. Nevada Farton, who was programmed, failed to appear on account of illness, her place being taken on short notice by Minnie Gilbert, who caught the fancy of the house with her up-to-date ditties and was generously encored. Horwitz and Bowers are newcomers and decidedly clever in their way. Their imitations of famous actors are realistic and interesting to a degree. Johnnie Carroll sang a number of new songs, the one about "Clancy's Trotter" being especially well done. His great song about nothing being too good for the Irish, interspersed with bits of character acting, brought down the house.

The same bill will go all the week, and it is hoped that it may be still further augmented by Miss Farrington's work in her burlesque songs.

BURBANK THEATER.—"The Froth of Society," in which Ethel Brandon is appearing this week, has met with decided favor at the Burbank, and the star has achieved a decided triumph in the role of Mrs. Eastlake Chapel. Rose Stillman, as Mrs. Ernestine Echo, also comes in for much commendatory notice. Carl Berch has a congenial role, and is emphasizing his previous successes at this house. The piece is handsomely staged and dressed, and the bright society drama appears to be in for a big week's run.

COMING ATTRACTION.—"Too Much Johnson," William Gillette's latest and most successful comedy, will be given its first presentation at the Los Angeles Theater on Thursday evening.

During the last three months Ada county, Idaho, has paid bounties on 84,612 rabbits killed in the county, amounting to $2520.36.

MIDSUMMER NUMBER.

"Interesting and Decorative."

(San Francisco Examiner:) The Midsummer Number of the Los Angeles Times, issued on August 15, is both interesting and decorative. The pictorial illustration and the excellent articles upon Southern California constitute a handsome and readable exposition of the charms of the summerland at the height of its season.

"Jam Full of Good Things."

(Bakersfield Californian:) Here comes the Los Angeles Times with a forty-page Midsummer Number, crammed jam full of good things about Southern California. If there is any institution that knows how to get out an attractive issue it is that same Times. One cannot glance over more than half a dozen pages of the edition in question without feeling an overpowering desire to cast in his lot with Southern California.

"Always a Credit."

(Fresno Republican:) The Los Angeles Times has issued another of the special editions which are always a credit to that excellent newspaper. This Midsummer edition comprises forty pages, is extensively illustrated and contains enough valuable information about the beautiful southern country to fill a book. The Times is one of the papers which wins success by deserving it.

"A Most Excellent Paper."

(Santa Ana Blade:) The Midsummer Number of the Los Angeles Times issued today is a most excellent paper and is undoubtedly a credit to the office of publication. The Blade will, as opportunity offers, make copious extracts from the forty-page edition of The Times.

"The Land of the Blest."

(San Bernardino Saturday Review:) The Los Angeles Times Midsummer edition is one of the most readable and instructive special numbers ever issued by a newspaper in this State. Every phase of life in Southern California in the summer months, the attractions of our mountain and coast resorts, the charms of our climate even at this time of the year, are all pictured in strong word-coloring that makes a resident more fully realize that he is indeed in the land of the blest. A number of valuable articles are published on the industrial and horticultural development of this part of the State. The number is in all respects an excellent one.

"A Worthy Index."

(Venturian:) The Midsummer edition of forty pages of the Los Angeles Times is a worthy index of the greatness of The Times and of Southern California.

"A Valuable Number."

(Ventura Free Press:) The Midsummer edition of the Los Angeles Times was issued this week. It is devoted to the Southern California counties, giving a description of each, their main products, points of interest and future prospects. It is a valuable number, and will prove of great benefit to this part of the State.

"A Beauty."

(Ventura Democrat:) The Midsummer edition of the Los Angeles Times is a beauty, and has about a column upon the advantages of Ventura county as a place for settlers to locate, as well as its delightful summer climate. The Times is a great newspaper.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

The Oil Industry.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—(To the Editor of The Times:) It is said that there are 250 oil wells in this city in a field of less than as many acres, which produce in the aggregate 3000 barrels of oil per day. Some of this oil, where reliable time contracts can be made, commands $1 per barrel; some on shorter contracts, 50 cents to 90 cents per barrel; some is sacrificed at 20 cents to 35 cents, while a large percentage goes to waste.

Now, to a "man up a tree," it seems as though there was a remedy for this unsatisfactory condition of the oil industry. If oil had been found anywhere outside of the city, where the holdings in realty would average forty acres or more, there would have been possibly twenty-five wells put down instead of 250, and the great question of supply and demand would have been settled in the interest of the producer. I wonder if it has never occurred to these oil producers that there is only just so much oil in these deposits and that 250 wells will exhaust the field about ten times as soon as twenty-five wells, and that unless the field is phenomenal in its extent it will be very soon exhausted, at the rate it is now being worked. Of course every one owning a lot in that interesting district must put down a well in self-defense, but if a combination could be formed which would limit the supply to a legitimate demand the oil would ultimately all be brought to the surface and marketed at remunerative prices. Otherwise the oil will soon be gone and the profits to the producer will be "nil," and the benefits to Los Angeles the same. If the output was restricted so that a given amount could be assured for a reasonable length of time there would be more users at the higher price. Permanency of supply and stability of price are what manufacturers will demand before locating here. At least so it appears to a

"MAN UP A TREE."

Why We Marry.

(August Scribner's:) A young man runs two chances of marrying the wrong woman. He marries her because she is beautiful, and because he persuades himself that every other lovable attribute must be associated with such beauty, or because she is in love with him. If this latter is the case, she gives certain values to what he thinks and to what he says, which no other woman gives, and so he observes to himself, "This is the woman who best understands me."

You can reverse this and say that young women run the same risks, but as men are seldom beautiful, the first danger is eliminated. Women still marry men, however, because they are loved by them, and in time the woman grows to depend upon this love and to need it, and is not content without it, and so she consents to marry the man for no other reason than because he cares for her.

"Of course, the chief objection to marriage," Stuart said, "is the old one, that you can't tell anything about it until you are committed to it forever. It is a very silly thing to discuss, even, because there is no way of bringing it about, but there really should be some sort of a preliminary trial. Men go gayly off and get married, and make the most awful promises, and alter their whole order of life and risk the happiness of some lovely creature on trust, as it were, knowing absolutely nothing of the new conditions and responsibilities of the life before them. Even a river pilot has to serve an apprenticeship before he gets a license, and yet we are allowed to take just as great risks, and only because we want to take them. It's awful, and it's all wrong.

PITH OF THE COAST PRESS.

(San Francisco Post:) An exchange says that "bloomers should be frowned down." We hope not.

(San Francisco Call:) The next Republican National Convention should stop at no half-way house, but come to San Francisco and take in the continent.

(San Andreas Citizen:) The discovery of oil in Los Angeles will not surprise the world much. That always was a pretty oily town, anyway.

(San Jose Mercury:) The title of the State Board of Equalization is a misnomer. It has never equalized anything. The sole object of its existence is to keep down the taxes of the railroad corporations.

(Oregon City Courier:) Prunes are not booming. A ranch man near Portland last week offered a street peddler a crop of nearly twenty-five thousand pounds of Petites and Italians for $25, but the offer was rejected.

(San Jose News:) It is encouraging to note that since California wines have been placed on the steamers plying between New York and European ports, the tales of sea serpents are not as vivid or numerous.

(Santa Rosa Republican:) Rowing is the great fad among the San Diego young ladies. When they are told the ladies of Northern California prefer the "bike," they utter a laugh that has just a little tone of pity in it.

(Stockton Record:) The worst feature of the bloomer is that a fellow has to look very close before he decides whether he should tip his hat or just nod.

(San Jose Mercury:) "Gentleman Jim" is rapidly becoming worthy of his fame as a pugilist. His drunken fight with Fitzsimmons in a barroom recently will serve as a good advertisement for him amongst his own class, which comprises all the disreputable "toughs" in the country.

(Merced Express:) The decision of Judge Ross upon the constitutionality of the Wright Irrigation Act will not likely be sustained by the United States Supreme Court. But if it is the State of California will have to make some provision for redeeming $50,000,000 in irrigation district bonds, which are in the hands of capitalists.

(San Jose News:) The Mayors of Stockton, Oakland and San Jose will soon have a conference and discuss a proposition to encourage capitalists to invest their money in the three cities named. It is hoped that the deliberations of the three Mayors may not be punctuated by the statement so common when the Governors of North and South Carolina hold a conference.

(Santa Cruz Sentinel:) Anna Shaw will now have a chance to squawk with great glee, Judge Smith of Utah having decided that women may vote, in that land of female surplusage on the new constitution question. What is the difference, any way, between man's sufferings and woman suffrage? "O! Shaw," is the response.

(Sacramento Bee:) Some more missionaries have been murdered in China. Why do they not remain away from where they are not wanted? They have been told over, and, over, and over again, by the Chinese people and government that their presence is obnoxious. Why will they insist upon trying to force a religion upon China which China does not want? The Christianization of China is an impossibility, and we are very glad that it is so. A Christian Chinaman usually becomes a bigger hypocrite and thief than he was as a heathen.

(Redlands Citrograph:) With the new process of electric smelting there is a big future for this county. There is a perfect mountain of bessemer ore of great purity in this county, and it is within less than twenty miles of railroad facilities. Just why it is allowed to remain idle and unworked is one of the mysteries. No such deposit of iron exists within the State, so far as we knew, and cheap electricity ought to make that locality a scene of industry instead of a barren waste, as it now is.

(Oakland Times:) The fathers of this republic, in framing its Constitution and policy, and knowing the evil effects of the law of primogeniture in the old country, forever prohibited any such law in this free republic. But the policy is being circumvented through the trust system, tying up wealthy estates, instead of distributing them as was intended by the framers of our form of government. It is the duty of courts in all cases to rule against trusts, as not only inimical to the policy of this government, but pernicious, in that it ties up estates which the law contemplates shall be distributed at death.

(San Jose Mercury:) During the last two days large quantities of melons and several lots of pears and plums have been dumped into the bay at San Francisco because the market was temporarily glutted. Yet there are thousands of people in that city who would have been glad to buy the fruit at a price that would have paid for handling it, had they been notified. By telegraph and by telephone every charitable society in San Francisco could have been notified within a half hour of the situation. But that would not have been "business." It is the same outrageous method that was adopted years ago by the fishermen and fish dealers, who, when an abundance brings down the price, dump their stock into the bay. It is time that a strict law placed its hand upon this kind of "business." What a crying shame it is that food is deliberately destroyed when there are thousands of people who are in actual want!

MEN.

ALASKA.

ABOUT THE LAND OF THE MIDNIGHT SUN.

Was Secretary Seward's Purchase a Bargain—The First Cost and the Income—An Immense Domain—Some Statistics—The Potlatch.

(From a Special Contributor to The Times.)

Whether or not Uncle Sam secured a bargain when he gave 7,200,000 of his good dollars to Russia for the lordship over Alaska is yet, and probably will for some time remain, a matter for discussion. There are two ways of looking at the transaction, which, taking the same facts, arrive at widely differing conclusions.

One of them is embodied in the report of a special agent of the Treasury Department, who in 1870 gave to Congress the following estimate: The price paid for the territory will in twenty-five years, with interest at 6 per cent., amount to $30,901,792.14. To this must be added half a million dollars yearly required for the military and naval establishments or $12,500,000 for the same period, making the total cost of a quarter century's possession of Alaska $43,401,792.24. The return for this expenditure will consist of from $75,000 to $100,000 yearly from the seal fisheries, and from five to ten thousand dollars from customs, or about $2,500,000 in all; less than a seventeenth of the former sum.

On the other hand, the census of 1890 reports that in the twenty-two years preceding that date the exports of Alaska had reached a total value of over seventy-five millions of dollars. Not a bad return to the nation surely, for an expenditure not one-tenth so great.

But wisely or not, Alaska remains no inconsiderable part of the land over which floats the Stars and Stripes. One-sixth of the national domain is embraced in that supposed land of mountains and glaciers, which is not after all so destitute of interesting features.

To get an idea of its size and physical condition, let it be supposed that all the States north of Tennessee and east of the Mississippi were pushed toward the pole until New England and New York fell within the Arctic Circle, and let it be imagined that these numerous States were destitute of a single railroad, wagon road, or even vehicle or horse to draw it; let it further be supposed that their present teeming population of thirty-two millions were replaced by as many thousands, as widely scattered over the area, the population of an average county, or city ward, filling an empire's expanse; and that is Alaska.

Many astounding but truthful statements may be made of this vast aggregation of square miles. It furnishes abundant material wherewith the statistical crank may put to confusion the average man. For instance, it may be said of the United States as well as of Great Britain, that upon its empire the sun never sets, if Alaska be taken into account. Before the last shades of twilight have faded from the island of Attu, the extreme western limit of the Aleutian group, it is already morning on the coast of Maine. Again, the geographical center of American territory is not, as is commonly supposed in the State of Kansas, but it lies in reality so far as longitude is concerned, out in the Pacific Ocean west of San Francisco, which is the true central city of the republic. Alaska extends 2200 miles from east to west, as far as from New York to California, and the eastern limit of its territory is west of the latter State. It is as far from the northern to the southern limit of this arctic colossus as from Maine to Florida, or more than 1400 miles. It has two and a half times more sea coast than all the rest of the United States, or 25,000 miles, just enough to belt the globe. Its chief river, the Yukon, two thousand miles long, is navigable for half this distance; and is not to be ranked lower than third or fourth in magnitude among those possessed by this country. Several of its mountain peaks are higher than any found in the States, although it has recently been discovered that Mt. St. Elias, the loftiest mountain in North America, is not in Alaska at all, but just over the border in British territory.

Vitus Bering, a Russian naval officer, was the first white man who ever looked upon this region. Like many another explorer, he sacrificed his life upon the shores of the land he had discovered, and the uninhabited island off the Alaskan coast upon which he perished still bears his name, as do the well-known strait and sea.

By this right of discovery Russia held Alaska as a colony for more than a hundred and fifty years. During all this time affairs moved along at a sleepy rate. There was little comunication with the outside world. Almost the only vicissitudes which the colony experienced were those arising from the periodical exhaustion of the seal fisheries, and the consequent forbidding of all killing for a time, that nature might replenish the stock. The first permanent settlements were made on Kodiak Island in 1784, but the most lasting impress of the Russian occupation was that made by the clergy of the Greek church, who carried on vigorous and successful missionary labors among the natives. One-third of them still remain loyal to that faith, although in recent times there have been many converts to other forms of the Christian religion. One-half of the population still remains heathen.

Of the thirty-two thousand Alaskans, about four thousand belong to the European races, Americans and Russians predominating; two thousand are Chinese and Japanese; as many more are classed as mixed, being mainly the issue of Russian fathers and native mothers; and twenty-four thousand are of the native races. The English language is spoken by some seven thousand people, and has almost driven out the Russian which was once supreme among the white population.

It is doubtful whether or not the natives of Alaska are to be classed as Indians. Five principal stocks are recognized, among which the Eskimos are considerably the most numerous. Next in numbers, and probably chief in importance are the Thlingits, who embrace nearly all the coast natives, and those with whom the whites have been thrown most in contact. These people readily adopt civilized customs, are willing to labor for their own support, and seem in general most likely of all the Alaskans to survive the civilizing process. All these races have similar customs and superstitions, many of them being very curious. Their extreme development of totemism is well known, and almost every one has seen representations of their curious totem pole.

The "potlatch" is perhaps an even more curious custom, and one not so well known to the outside world. This is nothing less than a grand orgy given by some chief or principal man, who, during its progress gives away to his friends every particle of property that he owns, or can secure on credit for the occasion.

Such an entertainment Tekike, chief of the Hanega tribe, gave at Klawak, beginning on the Fourth of July, a few years ago. It was distinguished for its completeness. All who hear of a potlatch may consider themselves invited, and for weeks before, all the natives of that part of the country having heard that such an affair was contemplated, labored under such excitement that all ordinary occupations were practically suspended. The great day was ushered in by a procession to Tekike's house, consisting of some four hundred natives, painted and wonderfully adorned with fantastic combinations, of savage and civilized finery. After as many as could be crowded into the great room of his dwelling had taken their places, the chief arose and delivered the welcoming address, which quite naturally under the circumstances, was received with unbounded enthusiasm. Many members of the tribe interrupted him to chant the praises of their chief, and the excitement grew apace. At this point half a dozen natives entered laden with blankets, bolts of sheeting and calico. These they unwound and heaped in endless confusion around Tekike until he was completely buried under hundreds of yards of many colored cloths. Finally, he emerged from this dry goods bath, and tearing off piece after piece called out the names of those for whom they were intended. To some would be given whole bolts of cloth, while again valuable blankets would be torn into strips and presented in this condition. All the while the spectators were singing, pounding upon boxes which served for drums, and dancing with such violent contortions that finally their eyes would roll in their heads, and their bodies become livid with excitement. Four days and nights these festivities lasted, during which time Tekike distributed several hundred dollars' worth of all kinds of dry goods, groceries, clothing, dried fish, train oil, clock, knives and other things dear to the Alaskan heart. The process left him the poorest of the tribe. The next day he came into a trader's store, and exchanged a couple of pelts for 65 cents worth of groceries.

Yet Tekike's sacrifices had not been in vain. Henceforth he held a position of unassailable popularity in the tribe, and acquired a "pull" with its influential men which no unpotlatched individual could ever hope to equal, making his position as chief absolutely secure. Potlatches are generally given for such obvious reasons as these, when waning popularity warns a chief that something must soon be done to patch up his dilapidated political fences.

The custom is not without some features to recommend its more general adoption. Thus might the decadent politician again rally his deserting henchmen around him, the clergyman of waning popularity win back the affections of a wandering flock, or, in general, the citizen of tarnished reputation manage to ride again on the waves of public favor. The fact is, there is a good deal of civilized potlatching being done all the time, but it is not commonly called by that name.

Take it all in all, Alaska is a land of great and undeveloped resources, of grand and striking natural scenery, and of possible future strategic importance, as well as of magnificent distances and strange customs. Already its fisheries have become great industries, its mines are being developed, and it is fast becoming popular as a goal of summer excursionists. No doubt the future will fully vindicate the wisdom of its purchase by the United States.

Inspired by the success with which the Tavary Grand Opera Company was received throughout the United States last season Manager Charles H. Pratt will, during the coming season, attempt the production of grand opera in a more pretentious manner than has ever been known outside of New York city. The repertoire of operas to be interpreted are such that cannot fail but insure success. The artists engaged for the coming tour, it is announced, comprise only the most celebrated European singers, there being acquisitions from Convent Garden, London, the La Scala in Milan and other homes of the higher art. Both chorus and orchestra will be greatly strengthened and the tour will embrace every city of importance on the North American continent.

The Times

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Anaheim is one of the busiest places in all Orange county just now during the beet-shipping season. Already about twelve thousand tons of sugar beets have been shipped out of Orange county and the greater portion of them came from the vicinity of Anaheim.

Whether the Defender or the Valkyrie III wins the international yacht race, the Pacific Coast will have the honor of supplying the masts that carry the successful boat onward to victory. These great masts are of Oregon pine, which is considered the best wood that grows for this purpose.

If various Councilmen who ought to know are to be believed, the office of Police Commissioner will soon be as difficult to fill as the position of chief money-raiser at a missionary meeting, where it's all work and no emoluments. In view of the seeming paucity of potential commissioners, it may not be out of place to suggest that a "small want ad" might be found useful in this hour of need. This great religious daily stands ready to receive propositions on the basis of "one cent per word."

The City Ministerial Union, so far from being afflicted with the inertia supposed to attend the present state of weather, affirmed its existence yesterday in a pleasant communication addressed to the City Council, anent the "fence" proposition on Alameda street. The Council will doubtless appreciate the delicate insinuation contained in the closing words of the communication, where the "sincerity" of the Councilmen is dwelt upon lovingly and tenderly.

The old saw, "All the world loves a lover," is as utterly false as most old saws. Would that the man who wrote it were obliged to go on a Sunday excursion and watch the "spoons" who hunt in couples for the most secluded spots! If they only succeeded in finding the secluded spots, the general effect would not be so nauseating to the casual observer, but seclusion is a scarce commodity at a seaside resort, and lovesick couples are thicker than sand-fleas.

The Redlands Citrograph pays the following compliment to our Chamber of Commerce, and advises the Redlands Chamber of Commerce to imitate its example:

"The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is the best organization of the kind on the Coast. It has been in existence seven years, and has done a world of good for all Southern California. In fact, it is a South California, rather than a Los Angeles, organization. The membership numbers over eight hundred and the receipts for dues bring in that many dollars every month. The expenses are about $1000 a month, the apparent deficit being made up from other sources. The exhibit in their rooms is the finest and most artistically arranged of any in the State.

The Russ Lumber Company has just shipped from San Diego to Redlands an enormous redwood flagstaff. The single stick is ninety feet long and eighteen inches in diameter at the butt. It will have a topmast, making the height of the staff 130 feet. The patriotic people of Redlands may well be proud of such a stick on which Old Glory will wave in the breezes. The maintenance of a public flagstaff or "Liberty-pole" is not continued in many towns. It is a custom that should be encouraged. Reverence for the Stars and Stripes should be thoroughly inculcated in the breasts of all young Americans, and the national banner waving from the public staff on proper occasions is a soul-inspiring object-lesson.

One evil which should be eradicated from the face of nature by the club of the nuisance-slayer is the fresh and audible youth who insists upon making life a burden to other people by his ear-splitting and discorant vocalization of the thread-bare popular songs. Los Angeles is singularly blest in her immunity from hand-organs and like instruments of torture, but the fresh young man does his best to supply their place, and at all times and in the most crowded places, rends the ears of the hapless bystanders with the wails of a voice like a consumptive bassoon or a whistle like that of a steam-tug in distress.

In the absence of proof to the contrary it would be safe to say that there is at least one man of the present generation who has earned for himself an eternal reward. The individual in question is he who, as reported, has, at his own personal expense, placed a small water trough at the doorway of all the principal grocery shops in England and which will be kept constantly filled with fresh running water. These water troughs are for dogs, pure, straight, four-footed dogs. The only dogs debarred access thereto are those claiming kindred with humanity. These troughs are the gift of a soap manufacturer, who has provided twenty-five thousand of them, nor does the fact that he inscribes across the front of them the name of his particular manufacture of soap lessen the value of the gift to man's truest and most faithful companion.

FROM CATALINA

AVALON (Catalina Island,) Aug. 19.—(Special to The Times by Homing-pigeon Little Bess of the Catalina Carrier-pigeon Service; time 1h. 24m.) Sunday was as perfect a day as ever dawned on the celestial isle. There was sufficient breeze to make capital sailing and the bay was dotted with white-winged yachts loaded with happy sailors. Down at the bath-house there was an animated scene from 10 a.m. till the Hermosa sailed away at 4 p.m., bearing on her decks a throng of over-Sunday visitors. The band concert in the afternoon was especially good. The steamer arrived promptly at noon with a hundred or more passengers on board, all of whom put in their time to the best possible advantage. This morning the bay is again literally black with skiffs in the vicinity of Sugar Loaf where the anglers are getting in their work on the mackerel; a good many yellowtail are also being caught.

FROM HOTEL REGISTERS.

Mrs. M. Randolph of San Francisco is the guest of Mrs. M. S. Tyler in one of the cosy Eddy tents.

Mrs. J. W. Gass and L. A. Gass of San Jose, Charles Weinshenk of San Francisco represent the northern visitors who registered at the Grand View yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hanley, Newton M. Bell of San Francisco arrived at the Metropole by the last steamer.

Alice E. Brown of Bakersfield, H. W. Decker of Sacramento, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Miller, William Blaisdell of San Francisco are new arrivals at the Island Villa.

Miss Belle Smith, M. E. Smith, Anna E. Hackett, H. V. VanDusen, B. C. Holmes, E. D. Boone are among the Angelenos who lunched at the Metropole yesterday.

John S. Cox, Mayor of Pasadena, is at the Metropole for a short stay.

J. A. Chanslor, O. C. Mueller, E. A. Beck, C. T. Fenner and wife, A. H. Holmes, D. V. Carlton, F. W. Stein, Jr., are Angelenos who have recently arrived at the Grand View.

Over ninety of the Sunday crowd lunched at the Island Villa yesterday.

AT CAMP BANNING.

Rev. J. W. Campbell spoke to the Whittier boys at Camp Banning yesterday afternoon on invitation of Maj. Renaud. The boys return to the Industrial school at Whittier this morning and the 85 girls of the institution will arrive tomorrow to take their outing. Mrs. J. E. Coffin, wife of the superintendent, will be in charge, with a corps of competent assistants. Visitors will not be admitted to the camp each afternoon as formerly.

SOCIAL FESTIVITIES.

Misses Lulu and Gertie Huber gave a candy pull at Camp Seaview the other evening previous to the ball at the pavilion, whither the gay party adjourned at 9:30. The guests were: Misses Pooley, Rosson, Folsom, Powell, Bosler, Burkhart, Potter, Mosher, Messrs. Conway, Folsom, Fleet, Copps, Rynning, Campbell, Street, Bosler, Wolfe, Leonard, Marr and Salter.

DEPARTURES.

Miss Braden of San Diego, who has been spending a month at the Metropole, left this morning for Los Angeles, where she will spend a week visiting her uncle, Maj. J. A. Donnell and family, who also returned home this morning.

Mrs. E. W. Pratt of Grey Gables returned to Long Beach to rejoin her mother this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Sale, after passing a delightful week at the Metropole, leave tomorrow for home and in a week or ten days will go to San Diego and Coronado for a short stay.

MORNING COTILLION.

The swellest event of the season was a german at the pavilion this morning. The belles and beaux looked stunning in their outing costumes. The patronesses were Mrs. W. G. Cochran, Mrs. H. M. Sale and Mrs. J. W. Corson. The walls were decorated with shells, sea moss, flowers and maidenhair ferns, while the full Catalina Marine Band was, in full uniform, stationed on the stage with "Pinafore" stage settings as a background. Refreshments were served after the german was over.

S. M. Cloud did himself great credit as a leader of ability, originating all the pretty figures. The favors were very pretty and appropriate. Those participating were: The Misses Olga and Genevieve Marix, Marie and Theo Burnett, Jennie Hurlbut, Florence and Anna Reid, May Corson, Cora and Sallie Goodrich, Miss Groff, Eleanor and Miss Tuttle, Gwendolin Overton, Miss Strong, Whittier; Fannie Layng, Misses McCrea, Jane Snowden Woodburn, Bessie Bryan, Miss Smith, Alice Cowan of Stanford, Misses Patterson, Maud Newel, Banning, Hattie Chapman, May Newton, Shorb, Millie Kurtz; Messrs. W. M. Garland, Capt. Banning, W. Wilson, George and Fred Stamm, J. A. Jevne, Cloud of University of Virginia, D. Burnett, H. C. Turner of Stanford, George Y. Ridenbaugh, Herbert Tenney and Frank H. Hereford of Tucson, Ariz.; M. Guy Cochran, Waller Chanslor, J. Fred Blake, Zombro, E. R. Kellam, Charles Swain, Bruce, Roscoe Howard, Spangler, Phil Lyons, A. W. Schumacher, Princeton, John Schumacher, Glen Edmonds, Frank L. Sargent, San Diego, and H. C. Ballard. Among the spectators were Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hurlbut of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Modini-Wood, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. Harry Veazie, and Mr. Edmonds.

Charles W. Chase, the attorney, is at the Grand View with his mother.

IDENTIFYING REMAINS.

Not Difficult to Discern Between Chinese and Whites.

Since the Chinese have been removing the remains of their countrymen from the old city cemetery the question has been raised as to whether they could discern between the remains of Mongolians and those of other races. The method of identification was explained yesterday by Chan Kin Sing, the Chinese interpreter.

The queue, he says, and the shoes, the buttons of the jacket and the customary ornaments are sufficient to prove the nationality. The queue remains intact for many years; the metal buttons, bracelets and ear ornaments are indestructible; and the shoes last for a surprising length of time. In this way no mistake is made by the men at work excavating, notwithstanding the report that bodies of whites have been removed. It seems, however, that a grave, evidently that of a Mexican, was opened, but the remains were not disturbed and were covered again as before. The sexton insisted that the grave was that of a Chinaman, but it was considered safe to trust to the keen observation of a Mongolian in such matters, and the sexton was overruled. Health Officer Steddom is watching the removal of the remains and says that it is going on satisfactorily.

THE POLICE COURT.

Seventeen Drunks Sentenced—Several Felony Cases.

The flowing bowl was hit so hard Saturday night and Sunday that Justice Morrison had to pass sentence on seventeen drunks yesterday afternoon. The customary tres pesos or three days was administered in most cases, while a few of the more complicated jags came as high as $5.

B. F. Sitles, who was arrested by Officer Shand for beating a Cyprian on Commercial street Saturday night, was given a sentence of $15 or fifteen days.

Richard Woodward, the young man who hit a crib woman on the head with a coupling-pin Saturday night, was arraigned for assault to murder. His examination was set for August 23 at 3 p.m.

C. D. Platt, the nitric-acid slinger, was arraigned for malicious mischief. His bail was fixed at $200 and his trial set for today at 10 a.m. His sureties in the case pending against him in the United States Court have withdrawn from his bond.

Louis Knell, the violin "soaker," was arraigned for embezzlement, and had his examination set for August 22 at 3 p.m.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

ANOTHER POLICE COMMISSIONER HAS RESIGNED.

The Document Filed by Henry Glass Was Tabled by the Council—No New Appointees.

W. H. Huffman, the Horse-thief, Was Taken Back to Visalia for His Trial.

An Arabian Auction on the Courthouse Steps—Possible Libel Suit Against an Evening Paper—Supervisors in Session.

The Council yesterday received the resignation of Police Commissioner Glass, adopting a motion to lay the same on the table. No commissioners were elected to fill the two vacancies which now exist on the Board of Police Commissioners. The question of erecting a fence or two fences in the rear of the City Hall was referred to the Finance Committee. Humane Officer Hutchins was declared by the Council to be incompetent to hold office, and the recommendation of the Finance Committee that no more demands for his salary be approved was adopted by the Council.

The deadly dullness still continues at the Courthouse, and attorneys chase around the corridors in a vain hunt for Judges. Even the clerk's office is stagnating, and the Supervisors' room is generally empty.

A session of the latter body was held yesterday, and one or two little matters came up in the Township Court, but otherwise all was wrapped in slumber.

AT THE CITY HALL.

CITY COUNCIL.

A Picket Fence Recommended by Councilman Snyder.

The City Council met in regular session yesterday, Councilman Stockwell acting as president of the body.

Councilman Snyder offered a motion that the custodian of the City Hall be instructed to have a picket fence constructed along the north line of the City Hall lot, and a six-foot board fence along the east line of the same lot, from the Los Angeles Theater building to the natatorium. The reason for the construction of these fences was not given, but the Councilmen understood the why and wherefore of the motion, it being a notorious fact that a resort for lewd women on Spring street uses the City Hall grounds as a private pasage-way to its rooms. The motion of Councilman Snyder was referred to the Finance Committee, and will doubtless receive a favorable recommendation from the committee.

The clerk brought the matter of the opening of Santee street, from Seventh to Eighth streets, to the attention of the Council, explaining that, through an error in the advertisement of the proceedings, a new ordinance of intention would have to be adopted. His report in the matter was filed. The protest against the opening of Wall street, from Eighth to Ninth streets, was denied. The question of opening Flower street, from Washington to Twentieth streets, evoked considerable discussion, a large number of property-owners appearing before the Council to protest against the proceedings. It appearing that the protestants represented a majority of the frontage affected, the proceedings were ordered abandoned.

The report of the City Clerk, asking instruction from the Council with reference to the disposition of certain checks in his possession, was read, the clerk being instructed to return the check of J. E. White, for $98.50, and to deposit the check of Mr. Small, for $337, and that of Mr. Robb, for $1300, in the city treasury. A bid of $100 for an electric-railway franchise on Bush, Hoover and Forrester streets, from W. S. Hook, was referred to the Board of Public Works. City Assessor Hull was granted leave of absence for ten days from the city. P. Darcy was granted an extension of sixty days' time upon his work in the third sewer district.

The report of the Finance Committee was received and adopted. A slight change was made in the section relating to Humane Officer Hutchins, in which it was recommended that no more demands for his salary be allowed, an amendment being added stating that the cause for the committee's recommendation is found in the fact that Mr. Hutchins is not eligible to hold office in the city. Mr. Hutchins was present, and it was in response to his request of the Council that the clause was added. Mr. Hutchins in his speech intimated that William Niles, whom he had recently prosecuted for cruelty to animals, was instigating the attempts that were being made to oust him from his position. Mr. Niles, who stood in the lobby of the Council chamber, resented the insinuation, and replied to the charge in a rather fiery speech, which answered no purpose other than to waste the valuable time of his auditors.

Motions were made as follows by the Councilman specified:

By Councilman Blanchard, that the Street Superintendent be instructed to raise Twentieth street, between State and Cummings streets, to the proper grade. Referred to the Board of Public Works.

By Councilman Kingery, that the Street Superintendent be requested to put in shape the first manhole south of Pico street on Grand avenue, the same being above grade, making the street dangerous for vehicles to pass. Adopted.

By Councilman Munson, that the Health Officer be instructed to notify parties owning the land at the southwest corner of Sixth and Lake View avenue, to fill the hole at that point where a pool of stagnant water now stands, causing a nuisance. Adopted.

By Councilman Pessell, that the superintendent of street sprinkling be requested to remove the sprinkling hydrant at the corner of Maple avenue and Eleventh street. Referred to the Board of Public Works.

By Councilman Munson, that the City Engineer present plans and estimate of cost for new stairs on Third street, between Olive and Clay streets. Adopted.

By Councilman Ashman, that the City Water Company be notified to repair the fire hydrant on the corner of Fifth and San Pedro streets. Adopted.

By Councilman Snyder, that the Health Officer be instructed to notify parties who are allowing water to run from their drain pipes on Temple street, west of Bunker Hill avenue, to stop the same, as it becomes stagnant and unhealthy. Adopted.

Also that the Street Superintendent be instructed to repair the bridge across the sanja on Elysian avenue.

Also that the City Engineer be instructed to present an ordinance for constructing a sewer on Court street, from Grand avenue to connect with the sewer on Hope street. Adopted.

By Councilman Pessell that the street-car company who operate upon Santa Fe avenue be notified to repair Ninth street where their line crosses Sand street. Adopted.

By Councilman Munson that the City Water Company be instructed to place fire-hydrants on Ocean View avenue from Quebec to Burlington avenue and on Burlington avenue from First to Arnold and on Bonnie Brae street from First to Maryland street as the people on these streets are complaining about the supply of water. Adopted.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Resignation of Police Commissioner Glass Tabled.

When the Council assembled in the afternoon the clerk proceeded to read the resignation of Henry Glass, the new Police Commissioner, which was filed during the noon recess. The resignation was worded as follows:

"To the Honorable Council of the City of Los Angeles—Gentlemen: It is with sincere regret that I tender you my resignation as Police Commissioner to take effect at once. I feel that some explanation is due you and the public for this action of mine. I am engaged as you probably know, in the business of book-binding and blank book manufacturing, with the firm of Glass & Long. Our firm has heretofore enjoyed a very considerable amount of business with the city, and we are at present engaged in some contracts with different departments. At the time of my acceptance of the honor tendered me by you, I did not realize that it would prohibit any future business relations with the city, or any of the departments thereof. I find, however, that I cannot retain the office of Police Commissioner without severing all business relations with the city and every department thereof, and therefore in justice to my firm and myself feel that I must tender this resignation. I assure you that I thoroughly appreciate the honor you have bestowed upon me, and sincerely regret that I am compelled to take this action."

Councilman Pessell, at the conclusion of the reading of the resignation of Mr. Glass, moved that the same be tabled. This motion prevailed, and the question of new police commissioners was not mentioned again during the day.

The Council received a communication from Chief of Police Glass reading as follows:

"I hereby respectfully recommend and request your honorable body to pass an ordinance prohibiting the hawking or crying of goods in the streets and in front of business houses in this city. Hawkers or cryers have been employed quite extensively of late by some houses in this city, but I do not consider this a legitimate way of advertising, and the hawkers are a great annoyance to business men whose houses are located near by, for when one of these fellows is loudly howling but little else can be heard in his neighborhood, and they thus interfere with the business of others. Besides, this practice looks bad to our Eastern visitors, as no such hawking is allowed in Eastern cities."

The communication from the Chief was referred to the Board of Public Works.

MINISTERIAL UNION ON DECK.

J. B. Irvine, a member of the city Ministerial Union, presented the following resolution to the Council, the same having been adopted at the last meeting of the union:

"At the regular session of the City Ministerial Union held in Y.M.C.A. pariors on Monday morning, August 19, 1895, the following resolution was adopted and ordered forwarded to your honorable body:

"'Resolved, that the Ministerial Union urge the City Council to maintain its dignity and authority by appointng police commissioners who will carry out the orders of the Council with regard to the removal of the houses of ill-fame from their conspicuous positions on Alameda street, which order the Council has reaffirmed with explicit sincerity.'"

The communication was order filed.

A communication from the Board of Fire Commissioners, calling the attention of the Council to the need of stand pipes being constructed on various buildings in the city, was referred to the City Attorney, with instructions to draft an ordinance covering the points involved.

The reports of the Sewer Committee, Land Committee, Supply Committee and of the Board of Public Works, all of which have been published in full, were received and adopted by the Council.

CITY ENGINEER'S REPORT.

The report of the City Engineer was received and acted upon as follows:

"In the matter of the petition No. 812, F. Baumgartner et al., asking for a sewer on Eighth street, near Moore street, referred to me for practicability, I have to report that the same is practicable, but will have to conect with sewer district No. 3 (Darcey's), which of itself has no outlet at present." Referred to the Sewer Committee.

"Ordinance of intention to construct sewers in the Downey-avenue sewer district No. 4, being the district south of Downey avenue between Sichel street on the west and Thomas street on the east." Adopted.

"Ordinance of intention to grade, gravel and construct a redwood curb on Cummings street from First street to Michigan avenue." Adopted.

"Final ordinance establishing the grade of Oak street from Washington to Twenty-first street." Adopted.

"Final ordinance changing and establishing the grade of the west side of Grand avenue from First street to Second street." Adopted.

"Ordinance of intention to construct a cement walk on Sixth street from Main to San Pedro street." Adopted.

"I have made a plan and profile showing the present improvements, as also the established grade on Courthouse street between Grand avenue and Flower street and find that it will be impracticable to change said grade." Referred to the Board of Public Works.

"In the matter of the culverts placed under the car line at the intersection of Main and Third street, Spring and Third street and Third street and Broadway, I have the following to report:

"Upon investigation I find that said culverts are properly located as to line, but owing to the depth of the rails used by this car line, the culverts have to be put below the proper grade, in order to have top of culvert clear the bottom of the rail. The proper remedy to carry off the drainage water is to extend the culvert at the various places to opposite the property lines on the east and west streets and lower the gutters as follows:

"On the west side of Main street from Third street for a distance of 50 feet south, on Spring street from Third street for a distance of 75 feet south, and on Broadway from Third street for a distance of 40 feet south." Company notified to repair gutters.

"I herewith submit comparative estimates for the replanking and paving with bituminous lime-rock the different bridges across the Los Angeles River. The estimate for comparison is made to cover a period of ten years. The estimates of the Downey avenue and First-street viaducts are made without considering the space occupied by the Cable Railway Company, as I am ignorant as to their liability for repairs and maintenance, and would suggest that it be referred to the City Attorney to ascertain their liability. With these two exceptions the estimates are considerably in favor of the pavement for a period of ten years and would be still more for fifteen years. While the pavement slightly increased the dead load the bridges would have to carry, it would still be the means of materially increasing their length of life. The planking of a bridge wears unevenly, subjecting it to irregular and unnecessary strains caused by sudden impact when the wheels of a heavily loaded vehicle drops suddenly into the worn places, this would be avoided on a properly constructed pavement. I would recommend to your honorable body that the bridges as rapidly as they need a new roadway be paved with a wooden base, a gravel cushion and a bituminous lime-rock surface. I have not presented specifications for the replanking of Buena Vista-street and Seventh-street bridges, awaiting further instructions from you, thinking you might want to adopt a different method for replacing the roadway of these bridges." Referred to the Bridge Committee.

"Ordinace of intention to establish the grade of Third street from Boyle avenue to Gertrude street." Adopted.

"Ordinance of intention to establish the grade of Gertrude street from Third to Fourth streets." Adopted.

"Ordinance to establish the grade of the alley between Third and Fourth streets from Gertrude to Cummings street." Adopted.

A TELEPHONE SQUEEZE.

The following document was received by the Council and read by the clerk as follows:

"To the honorable Common Council of the city of Los Angeles: Being representative of one of the largest taxpayers in this city, I deem it my duty to call your attention to the discriminate and gross injustice demanded from residents in my neighborhood by the Sunset Telephone Company. Living in East Los Angeles, and within three blocks distant from the nearest telephone, I was informed by the division superintendent that it would cost me $60 per year for mileage, in addition to their regular monthly charge, making in all about $90 per annum. I then asked the superintendent as to their method of arriving at this charge of $60 per annum. He said: 'Our regular charge to every one is $7.50 for each circle, after the first circle, from central station, and there being eight quarter circles, would cost you eight times $7.50, or $60.' But I said: 'I can build a connecting line from your nearest telephone for about $20, which would last for years; then, why charge me $60 a year?' 'Well, these are our terms, and I cannot better them.' I said: 'How is it that parties living one-half to a mile further from your central station than I do receive the use of the telephone service at regular monthly rates, without this extra charge of mileage?' 'Oh, for those we have another station from which we figure our mileage.' I replied that this was but a subterfuge and a base discrimination against other portions of this city not equally favored. It seems to me, in the light of these facts, it is high time to know whether extortions of this kind are to be permitted without restraint or correction."

The communication was referred to the Board of Public Works.

A SUSPECTED SENEGAMBIAN.

The water overseer presented the following report, which was referred to the Zanja Committee:

"Allow me to call your attention to a condition that exists at the Crystal Springs, and its effect on the water supply of the Los Angeles River at our points of diversion below. As you know, the Crystal Springs Company has two lines of cement pipes laid beneath the surface of the ground with loose joints, each having a common starting point in the gate house. One of these lines consisting of two 24-inch pipes, having many manholes, extends about 3600 feet northeasterly, passing under the Los Angeles River. To feed these pipes a large body of water turned out of the river is kept constantly flowing over them, much of which is wasted in the loose sand. The other line consists of two 14-inch pipes extending about 1600 feet northerly. Directly over these is a canal about thirty feet wide carrying a continuous stream of water varying from one inch to three feet in depth from the river. This line has numerous manholes, two of which at the northerly end are always open, receiving a large amount of water. But here again is a large waste by filtration through the porous soil; indeed, so much enters the soil that alfalfa fields are being drowned hundreds of feet away.

"This office enters its earnest protest against this useless waste of water while we are unable to supply the demand. If you will permit me to suggest a remedy, I would suggest that the company be required to connect their pipes directly with the river if they need this water and have the right to use it. I need not call your attention to the Senegambian that is at the bottom of this scheme of feeding to overflowing the Crystal Springs just at this time."

CITY ATTORNEY'S REPORT.

The report of the City Attorney was received and acted upon as follows:

"As directed by you, I have prepared and herewith present an ordinance appointing another commissioner for the opening of Tenth street, in place of Mr. Lovell, who has declined to serve." Adopted, D. Felix being appointed as commissioner.

"Also an ordinance granting permission to improve Ninth street under private contract." Adopted.

"Also an ordinance granting a franchise for street railway to E. P. Clark, in accordance with advertisement." Adopted.

"Also an ordinance granting permission to improve Bush street under private contract." Adopted.

"As directed I have prepared and herewith present draft of a lease with William Bracken for portion of city land in East Los Angeles." Approved.

"B. N. Kessler and others have brought suit against the city to quiet the title to lot 21 of block E, of the Thomas tract. I have examined the title to this property and would recommend that the city file a disclaimer in this action." Approved.

"As ordered by you I have prepared and herewith present an ordinance providing for the holding of a special election for the purpose of submitting the proposition of annexing certain territory on the south and west to the city." Adopted, with October 3 appointed as the day of election.

"Also an ordinance providing for the holding of a special election for the annexation of certain territory on the north boundary of the city." Adopted, and October 4 appointed as the day of election.

"I have prepared draft of contract with E. Bowen for building a band stand at West Lake Park and delivered the same to Mr. Bowen." Approved.

"As instructed by you I have prepared and herewith present an ordinance to forfeit all the unused street railway tracks and rights of way over those portions of streets where cars are not now being operated. The list of the same having been furnished me by the Street Superintendent under your directions, I would suggest that the only prompt and efficient way to get rid of these tracks would be, after the passage of this ordinance, to order the Street Superintendent to remove the tracks from the streets. At the same time I think it best to call your attention to the fact that in some cases the tracks by this ordinance declared forfeited are located on streets which are paved and on such streets it would be attended with considerable expense to remove these tracks. It would be cheaper, of course, in such cases to simply remove the rails and have the places paved from which they are taken." Referred to the Board of Public Works.

"In the matter of the contract for street sweeping, I am of the opinion that you have the power to forfeit this contract. Should you determine to forfeit the same forthwith I would advise that you do so by resolution and notify the contractor thereof at once. I would suggest, however, that it is advisable that you have complete evidence of the unfaithfulness and neglect of the contractor in the execution of his contract. I am informed that the members of your Board of Public Works are thoroughly cognizant of the facts necessary to establish the contractor's failure to perform his contract. If said board has the details of this evidence, that would, in my opinion, be sufficient." Referred to the Board of Public Works.

The Council then adjourned to meet on Friday at 2 o'clock.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

THE COURTS.

An Arabian Auction at the Courthouse Yesterday.

Another auction took place on the steps of the Courthouse yesterday. It was coppery rather than golden in hue, but the interests represented, although not quite as large as those concerned in the late transfer of the street railway, covered a lawsuit quite as bitterly fought and of much longer duration than the brief contest over the late lamented injunction.

On June 11, Joseph Saba, a wholesale dealer in the pinchbeck "notions" so dear to the heart of the Oriental peddler, sold $46 worth of his wares to Solomon Obad, one of the peddlers aforesaid. Solomon neglected to pay for the assortment of vendibles, and Joseph promptly sued him. The wrangle trailed through the Police Court and Township Court, wearing out two attorneys and involving in its meshes the greater part of the Arabian population. The goods were attached by Saba, and Obad sued for their return to his fostering care. The courts have had siege after siege with the case, and the upshot of the matter was, that yesterday the goods were auctioned off by Constable Yonkin, and brought $23 under the hammer.

A. H. Abnoder bought most of the outfit; the defendant lost the goods, and the plaintiff came out a sadder and wiser man, his litigation having cost him considerably more than the stuff was worth in the first place.

Huffman Taken Home.

Sheriff A. P. Merritt of Visalia came to Los Angeles yesterday and returned on the 2 p.m. train with W. H. Huffman in charge.

Huffman is the young man who stole five horses from J. C. Kennedy at Visalia, and came south with his booty. Kennedy had allowed Huffman to take the horses for hauling grain, and when the teamster had disposed of his load, he struck across country, taking the horses with him.

One of the animals Huffman traded off in Bakersfield, receiving in its place another horse. The same game was repeated here, for another of the stolen horses was traded for a horse belonging to a blacksmith named Cook, who lives on New High street.

The span thus obtained were put with the other two, and the four, together with three sets of harness, were sold to "Dutch Charlie" for $120.

Charlie, in turn, sold the two Visalia horses, with their harness, to a contractor named Palmer, out in Boyle Heights. The third was sold to a peddler of fruit and fish who plies between Los Angeles and Redondo, and the fourth was just about to be sold in "Dutch Charlie's" yard when Deputy Sheriff White strolled in and arrested the proceedings—and the man.

Huffman will stand his trial at Visalia and the horses will become a bone of contention down here, as Palmer absolutely refuses to surrender his purchase unless replevined.

Possible Libel Suit.

Mrs. Browning, a very indignant woman, who accuses the Evening Record of slandering her, visited the District Attorney's office yesterday to get a complaint against that paper, on the charge of criminal libel.

The article Mrs. Browning objected to appeared in Saturday's paper, and was construed to insinuate that the complainant made an attempt to burn the residence of James Jaynes, at No. 556 Wall street. Mrs. Browning denounces the charge as a falsehood, actuated by personal enmity, and intends, if possible, to bring a suit for criminal libel. The District Attorney will look further into the matter before deciding whether or not to issue the complaint.

A Woman on the Warpath.

Mrs. Fanny Halliday is out on the war-path, and is gunning for Edward F. Halliday, who yesterday sought refuge in the justice court, where he filed a complaint against the fair lady, charging her with the utterance of certain lurid threats to shoot, stab and kill the said E. F. Halliday, and his family, to say nothing of burning, cutting, destroying and otherwise injuring the furniture and personal property of the objects of her wrath.

As the complaint further stated that the doughty Amazon was perambulating over the face of nature armed with an arsenal of revolvers, knives and daggers, to assist in the accomplishment of her full designs, Constable Yonkin hastily seized his hat and started out on a hunting trip, which resulted in her being lodged in the County Jail yesterday evening. Mrs. Halliday is a young and handsome widow, and is E. F. Halliday's sister-in-law.

New Suits.

F. Chevalier & Co. filed a suit yesterday against S. Bisbee to recover $1184 due on a debt for merchandise.

Marianne Blancan has filed an application for divorce from her husband, Jean Blancan, on the ground of desertion.

Board of Supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors convened in regular session yesterday, and looked as dignified and business-like as their sun-burned noses and general air of summer lassitude and retrospective enjoyment would permit. They were chiefly occupied in auditing the formidable piles of accounts which adorned the long table, but the proceedings were occasionally stayed to permit a bit of outside business to be taken up.

Upon motion of Supervisor Hay, all the bids for erecting additonal buildings at the County Farm were rejected, and the checks returned. The clerk was ordered to advertise for more bids for the period of sixty days, the said bids to be opened October 31.

Transportation to Yuma was granted to one Francis Rader—not the Mayor of Los Angeles, but an indigent.

Ordered Deported, but Appeals.

The case of Chung See, the Chinese woman charged with being unlawfully in the country, came up before Commissioner Van Dyke on proceedings for deportation yesterday. The woman was ordered deported, and notice of appeal to the United States District Court was given.

Continued to Today.

The case of C. D. Willard and three others charged on indictment with using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes was called for arraignment and pleading yesterday in the United States District Court. On account of the inability of the United States District Attorney to be present the case was continued till today.

Admitted to Practice.

On motion of M. E. C. Munday Esq., Theodore S. Shaw was yesterday admitted to practice in the United States Court.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A Special Session Which Accomplished Very Little.

The Board of Education met in special session last evening, the object of the meeting being to consider sites for new school buildings offered in the Fifth Ward, and to listen to suggestions announced to come from Prof. Housh of the High School. A large delegation of prominent citizens from the Fifth Ward was present in the lobby, representing the various contending interests in that ward with reference to school sites proposed. Upon the invitation of President Hale, several members of the delegation addressed the board upon the subject, without saying anything of peculiar or unusual interest. Dr. Wills put a damper on the proceedings by explaining that all the talk which might be indulged in by the gentlemen present would be a mere waste of lung power, as the City Council is the body upon which pressure should be brought to bear in this matter. The question was finally disposed up by a resolution offered by Director Simonton and adopted by the board, the resolution reading as follows:

"Whereas, in the matter of a school building site in the Fifth ward, there being none in just the right location, and as there are protests against the acceptance of any of the sites offered, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the selection of sites for the new school buildings be referred to the City Council without recommendation."

Prof. Housh of the High school, was present, but when called upon to address the Board upon the subject of new and improved measures in the High school, requested that more time be allowed him in which to prepare a written report upon the subject. His request was granted by the Board, with the understanding that the professor is to confer with the committee upon the High school course of study in preparing his report. The following communication was received and referred by the Board to the Committee on the Course of Study in the High school:

"To the Honorable Board of Education of the City of Los Angeles—Gentlemen: Having learned that your honorable Board has under consideration a change in the text books used in the High school, and believing that the books now in use were selected with great care and intelligence, and are in every way satisfactory, and feeling that the expense of the change at this time would be an unnecessary hardship to many patrons of the High school, we respectfully petition that your honorable body continue the present books in use at least another year."

ACCIDENTS COMPLICATED.

One Small Railroad Smash-up Leads on to Another.

Two accidents connected in a peculiar manner occurred on Alameda street and at the San Fernando-street railroad yards yesterday afternoon. Locomotive No. 1170 had come into the Arcade depot with a train and was dispatched to the yards for coal and water preparatory to sending it out with the Monrovia train.

The engine was going backward, and at the point on Alameda street where the El Paso line of the Southern Pacific branches to the east it met the incoming overland train from the north. At this point a truck belonging to the Citizens' Transfer Company was for some reason driven across the track, and the engine struck it in such a way as to smash things generally.

The truck, which was empty, was upset and broken into numerous pieces. One of the horses was so much injured that it had to be killed, and its misery was ended by a bullet from Officer McGraw's revolver. The other horse was badly hurt, but was led away. The driver as far as could be learned escaped without serious injuries.

The locomotive was damaged so much as to be temporarily disabled, and another engine was ordered to take out the Monrovia train. Engine No. 1351 was dispatched from the yards and was going backward when it struck the rear end of a truck of the Pioneer Truck Company, which at the time was crossing the track at a point near the southerly end of the cable viaduct.

One of the rear wheels of the truck was "dished" to such an extent as to render the truck temporarily useless. The point where the latter accident occurred is on the middle of a curve from which the view of the track in either direction is mostly obscured. Nobody was reported injured by either of the accidents.

FOUND GUILTY.

Editor Ugo Paladini is Convicted of Criminal Libel.

The sealed verdict brought in by the jury in the Paladini criminal libel case Sunday morning was opened by Justice Morrison yesterday, and the reading thereof afforded Signor James Castruccio, the complaining witness, much joy, and the defendant, Ugo Paladini, editor of L'Eco della Colonia, a corresponding degree of disappointment. The jury found the defendant guilty as charged, but recommended him to the mercy of the court.

Attorney J. L. Murphy, for the defense, stated that it was evidently a compromise verdict, and asked that the jury be given fresh instructions and the case resubmitted. The court declined to grant this request, but gave the defense until August 31 to prepare a motion for a new trial, if it was thought advisable.

He Found It.

Police Sergeant W. P. Jeffries has returned from his ten-day vacation, which he spent in visiting various places in Southern California. It is told of him that in the course of his trip he went to Riverside. He formerly owned a large tract of land there, but had not been to the place in twelve years. He wanted to see the land, and so, when he left the train, started to hunt for it. New buildings, strange trees, and unexpected streets lay about him in such bewildering form that when he looked for the land it did not appear to be there. It would not do for a trained Los Angeles police official to be unable to find anything, and so the more he became confused as to the location of the land the more persistently he kept hunting for it. It is reported that he finally found the land, but whether he did so with the aid of somebody's real estate map is not stated.

Must Prepay Postage.

Postmaster Van Dusen says that, notwithstanding the numerous printed and other notices to the effect that the postage on the midsummer number of The Times is 3 cents, hundreds of copies of that edition are being mailed without sufficient postage. In such cases papers cannot be forwarded until the postage is fully prepaid. An official note is sent to the addressee in each instance, and if the amount due on the paper is not sent within a certain time the paper must be destroyed. There are at present in the postoffice about three hundred copies of the Midsummer Times thus held for deficient postage.

Trouble at the Park.

Park Commissioner Meserve exercised his prerogative as a minion of the law yesterday afternoon by arresting E. Knapp for obstructing the sidewalk and M. J. Phipps for disturbing the peace at Central Park. Mr. Meserve has decided to put a stop to the hoodlumism practiced at this park from time to time, if he has to arrest everybody in sight. Knapp was released on depositing $5 bail, but Phipps had to put up $10.

STATUS OF STARTERS.

English and American Ideas Placed in Contrast.

Fault is found frequently with the starting of races by James Rowe. He is the professional starter employed by the Jockey Club. Every manner of criticism has been hurled at his inoffensive head, and the daily press and the public have not seldom impugned his motives. Mr. Rowe should be exonerated of any blame for lack of ability. His integrity, too, is equal to that of Caesar's wife. His errors are not of method. They are not of judgment. They are not of intention. Mr. Rowe is handicapped by a career. He began life as a jockey. Therein was his misfortune. By dint of intelligent effort he reached the distinction of a trainer. Therein was his fortune. In recognition of sterling qualities his ambition to wield the flag at the post was gratified. Therein was his undoing. For what reason? Simply that human nature is weak. Men and boys on the jockey plan of construction cannot lift themselves above the petty plane of jealousy. Whereas those on or above the same sphere as that to which a man may be elevated will honor him for success, those left behind, or who have not the spunk to emulate his efforts, will sulk and scoff and evince other signs of envy. Again it is a trait common among all classes of society, high or low, and, of course, more marked in the latter, to treat with contempt that which has grown familiar. These circumstances contribute to Mr. Rowe's failures with the starting flag. The jockeys all know that he was once a jockey himself. For the reasons mentioned this fact causes them to respect him not. Without their deferential submission the starter has no control over the jockeys. Fear of punishment alone is not conductive to good order. The jockeys obey when it suits their whim, or when they dread that oft-repeated and glaring deviltry may become a subject of reprehensive investigation. This could be changed by the appointment of a gentleman of high social position, which combined with superior intelligence and commanding presence, would exercise suasive influence over the jockeys. He should be paid for his services, so that he could afford to devote his entire time and attention to the undertaking. In England the leading starter of races is Lord Marcus Beresford, whose social status is of the best. If such a reform as we suggest should be instituted it would be appropriate and harmonious for the starter to appear as a horseman, and not as a farmer might when dressed for "Sunday meetin'." The patriarchal aspect of the judges at Sheepshead Bay going to their respective stations before a race wearing cheap straw hats and linen dusters in a depot ambulance suggests antiquated mentality and feeble physique. Let's be done with such old-fashioned practices, and introduce ourselves of the turf as quite up to date. Old fogyism is quite out of style. We must be "smart" as the English mean it, as well as "smart" in the Yankee sense.

A PLEASING PROSPECT.

Professional Baseball in Los Angeles Next Winter.

The latest number of the Sporting Life contains the following dispatch from St. Paul:

"Asked if he had completed arrangements for taking a hand in the winter baseball deal on the Coast, John S. Barnes reached into his inside pocket and hauled forth a formidable document saying as he did so: 'Here is the lease to Central Park, San Francisco.' It is hardly likely that John S. will demand any exhorbitant price from the managers of the other four teams which will take part in the tournament, because this evening he closed a deal with Comiskey, who wouldn't have closed had any 'squeezing' process been applied. He has, he says, a lease of all the parks in Los Angeles, and has an option on the ball park at Oakland. He will pick a team from the Western and National Leagues and locate in San Francisco. Comiskey and his team will locate at Oakland, and Manning very probably at Los Angeles. Manning and Barnes will confer today and settle their part of it one way or the other. Barnes is also negotiating to take two teams to England—one of white men and the other team colored."

Upon inquiry being made at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, a Times reporter was informed that a lease has been obtained by Mr. Barnes of Minneapolis, of the Athletic Park here, for a period of two months from October 13. As indicated in the dispatch quoted, a Coast League will probably be formed and a good club will undoubtedly be located in Los Angeles, and once again the people of this city will be given an opportunity to see what will doubtless prove to be good ball playing.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. A. P. St. John, a citizen of Oregon, Wis., in an interview had with D. E. Williams, of the Oregon Observer, on the 6th day of May, 1895, said: "For a long time I have been more or less troubled with dyspepsia. Having considerable hard work to do, if I followed the cravings of my appetite it was sure to result in those terrible distressing pains of the stomach. When in the most agony I would endeavor to obtain partial relief by some 'grandmother' treatment, which, if of any benefit, was to strengthen the imagination that the distress was a trifle less. At times I have suffered intensely. While visiting my sister Cora I was recommended to try Ripans Tabules, which I soon discovered were a blessing to mankind. Now I am never without them, and am pleased to recommend them as a Godsend to those troubled with dyspepsia."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail (if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

BACK FROM EUROPE.

"PAPA" SCHURTZ HAS RETURNED FROM A FLYING TRIP.

He Talks in a Breezy Way of How he Made Arrangements to Hold an Exhibition of Southern California Products.

Joseph Schurtz, better known in this city as "Papa" Schurtz, returned yesterday from a flying trip to Europe, where he went for the purpose of making ararngements for a grand exhibition of Southern California products.

Mr. Schurtz went as the general manager of the "Southern California Produce Exhibition." He was supplied with a quantity of stationery, with printing on it bearing that information and in his pocket were plenty of cards also having such an inscription. Mr. Schurtz was in Europe only sixteen days, but he must have kept a California "rustle" about him all the while, for he comes back with any amount of letters, options, contracts, and what not, printed and written in "Deutcher" style. His story of his travels is an interesting one to listen to, especially when related in his inimitable style and with his gestures.

He left Los Angeles June 25, and proceeded to New York, where he interviewed the agent of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company. He explained, as only "Papa" Schurtz can explain, how he was the general manager of the "Southern California Produce Exhibition," and was seeking to make arrangements for a "show" in Europe. The transportation of such an exhibit would probably mean a good deal for that company. Would the company have the kindness to give him a cabin passage to Europe?

The request was granted, and Mr. Schurtz proceeded at once to Bremen where is located the general office of the North German Lloyd Company. He succeeded in having one of the newspapers the day previous to his visit to the company's office say that the association of which he (Schurtz) was general manager had decided that that company was the one particularly deserving of confidence.

On presenting his card at the office he asked to see Dr. Wiegand, the general manager of the company. He was told that Wiegand was very busy and could not be seen or even interrupted. Mr. Schurtz noticed that telegrams and cablegrams were pouring in with great rapidity and learned that they were coming from all parts of the world where the company's steamer go. He asked the attendant to take his card in with one of these telegrams which was done. Dr. Wiegand quickly responded in person and greeted Mr. Schurtz most cordially. A contract was entered into whereby the company agreed to carry at very low rates produce for the proposed exhibit.

Mr. Schurtz next went to Hanover, where is the headquarters of the German railway systems which are under government control. He succeeded in getting good rates for transportation over these railways for produce for the exhibit. He had with him a number of extra large photographs of the Citrus Fair held in this city last March and was not backward about showing them.

While in Berlin he had a discussion with a committee of an organization known as a hygienic society. It was stated that there is lead in the California dried fruit. "Papa" Schurtz refuted the idea.

"I told them vot for we purn coal at $10 per ton to dry our fruit," he says, "ven we hat a bright sun the year rount. They said to me that the canned fruit vich we send dem haf lead in it. I say to dem, we haf four or five hundret men in row canning the fruit. Maype once in a vile von man trop a leetle lead in the can. Should our can fruit pe condemned pecause of that? I told dem some more apout dis country and I make dem all laf."

At Vienna he had a good opportunity to display the American custom of simplicity in dress. He desired to see the Minister of Commerce, and was advised he had better have some decorations, etc. He said no. He was dressed as an American citizen, and if the Minister did not care to see him in that attire it would be impossible for him to see him at all. He was dressed in black and wore a Prince Albert coat. When the Minister came into the room he greeted Mr. Schurtz with a warmth that surprised the nabobs in court costume. The Minister said he was in Los Angeles in 1893, and was much attached to the place.

During his stay in Europe Mr. Schurtz made optional contracts for three large buildings for use for the proposed exhibition. In Berlin he arranged to have the building which up to about three months ago was occupied by the Reichstag. The contract is for the use of this building from February 8 to March 15.

In Vienna from March 18 to April 15 the exhibition (if it is a "go") is to occupy the Gartenbau Sale. In Munich from April 25 to May 23 the Crystal Palace is to contain the exhibit of Southern California products. He also made an optional contract with the North German Lloyd Company to have the steamship Weimar at Hoboken on January 6 ready to be loaded with goods en route to the exhibit.

During his visit Mr. Schurtz says he kept the papers well supplied with information as to what he was doing and as a result he can show numerous clippings pertaining to his mission. He says he frankly told the people that there was no such organization as the "Southern California Produce Exhibition" but the name was used merely for convenience.

The people as a whole, he states, have very erroneous impressions as to Southern California. They look upon it with perhaps as little understanding of what it is as some people here have in looking upon Africa. If Southern California products were properly introduced in Germany he thinks millions of dollars worth of them could readily be sold there. They would "take" real well. As to the carrying out of his ambitious scheme to have the exhibit in Europe he says it depends on the people who are able to give it the proper financial backing. It is, he asserts, a golden opportunity.

Sydney Smith as a Physician.

(New York Times:) Sydney Smith, the world-renowned wit, was something more than a perpetrator of clever sayings, or even than a politician and agitator for reforms. He was celebrated in each country parish, where far the greater part of his life was spent, as doctor and magistrate, combining these offices with those of a faithful and hard-working clergyman. The home side of Sidney Smith is too little appreciated. While he still lived in Edinburg, before he had taken his second charge as minister, he studied medicine, so that he might be enabled to work upon body as well as soul in future livings. He was very proud of this knowledge of the art of healing, and not a little inclined to boast to his son-in-law, Dr. Henry Howland, of his cures. The following remedy for a common juvenile complaint was written to friends in London:

"We conquered here the whooping cough with a pennyworth of salt of tartar. What an odd thing that such a specific should not be more known."

FIELD OF ELECTRICITY.

SPECIAL FREIGHT CARS ON ELECTRIC RAILWAYS.

Electricity in Dentistry—Telegraph Experiences—Messenger Boys on the Wheel—Rejuvenating the Street Car.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12, 1895.—(Special Correspondence.) The annual meeting of the American Dental Association, which has just been held at Asbury Park, N. J., is notable from the fact that it gave a greater prominence to subjects involving the application of electricity than has been the custom in such gatherings. Probably the most remarkable paper read before the convention was that of Dr. H. W. Gillette, on the "Electrotherapeutics of Obtuding Sensitive Dentine." For a long time dentists have been trying to reach some method by which the tooth could be perfectly anaesthetized, or benumbed. In using cocaine there has been a difficulty in securing more than a surface deadening of the tissue, and when electricity was used to drive in the anaesthetic, the currents used were so heavy as to be distressing and painful to the patient, for the reason that no instrument had been made that was capable of administering a current sufficiently weak for the purpose. Even if a patient could be brought to bear the initial current, the passage from one step to another, as the voltage was increased to the point of becoming effective for anesthetic purposes, was accompanied by a jerking, jumping sensation, that few people had the nerve to endure. Dr. Gillette described a new instrument, in which this difficulty has been entirely overcome. It consists of a nickel-plated cylinder, sixteen inches high, and six inches in diameter at the base. On the top of the cylinder is a switch for turning the current on and off, and an index which enables the operator to have always under his eye the exact voltage with which he is operating. The delicacy of the instrument may be judged from the fact that a graduation of the current as fine as 1-1000 of a volt can be given. Supposing that it is intended to subject a tooth to excavation, a process the mere mention of which brings back the memory of moments of keenest torture to those who have undergone it. An electrode, shaped like a clam, is fitted at its approaching points with small rubber cups. These cups hold cotton, which has been saturated with cocaine. The electrode is inserted in the mouth, and the rubber cups close on either side of the gum in which the tooth to be influenced is set. The current is turned on so gradually that the patient cannot feel it. The strength is slowly increased; not by jerks, but with a smooth, wave-like action. From the 1-1000 of a volt, the register shows 1-50, 1-25, 1-10, 1 volt, and then on to 5, 10 and probably 12 volts. This takes from one to five minutes, according to the resistance of the patient, and the tooth is then ready for the operation. It can be extracted, excavated, or the nevre can be extirpated, without the patient feeling the slightest pain or inconvenience. The current has passed from one rubber cup through the gum, to the cup on the other side, and in passing has driven the cocaine through every fiber of the tissue and the dentine. The tooth is absolutely anaesthetized. This new application of catapheresis to dental work has been enthusiastically received by dentists, and it is most assuredly destined to revolutionize many departments of their work. Not only does it banish forever the horrors of the dental chair, but it opens up the possibility of many further utilizations. For instance, heretofore the bleaching of teeth has been done in a clumsy and insufficient manner by the use of peroxide of hydrogen. By the new catapheric process, instead of cocaine, pyrezene, a commercial form of hydrogen dioxid, is applied by the electrode to the cavity, and driven through the tooth by turning on the current.

TELEGRAPH EXPERIENCES.

In a work on many phases of telegraph life, a sad scene is related. A New Orleans operator was slowly dying of consumption at the home of his boyhood, in Franklin, Tenn. Summoning sufficient strength one day, and against the wishes of his devoted wife, he walked to the telegraph office there, and requested Memphis to place him in connection with New Orleans. Calling Taylor Adams, an old chum in the office, to the key, the operator requested him to gather around him all his old fellow laborers. Adams complied, and Taylor Brown, the operator, opened his key and sent the following message: "I am dying by inches and my worn out body will soon be returned to clay. I have come from my sick-bed to say good-bye"..... There was a pause of three minutes, when the key was again used. The sounder here ticked: "Taylor Brown has died in the chair." The hand that flashed this, however was not Brown's, but that of the regular operator. A prominent telegraph operator of many years experiance was asked what message of the many thousands that had passed through his hands, had made the most lasting impression on him. He replied that he should never forget a message that was mailed some eighteen years ago, at Jackson, Miss. The message was put in at 11:52 a.m., with the instructions: "This message must be delivered in the hands of the Sheriff of Wilkinson county, Woodville, Miss., before noon." The message was a respite from the Governor of the State on behalf of a poor wretch then standing on the gallows, awaiting the blow of the ax that would cut the rope. The receiving operator, who tells the story, was in an agony of nervousness, especially as he knew the jail was nearly a mile from the office. The manager of the office, however, was equal to the emergency. Mounting a horse standing in the front of the office, he arrived at the jail just as the last signal was about to be given, and delivered the message in time to stay the proceedings. The unfortunate whose life was thus spared was sent to the penitentiary at Jackson, Miss., and, after serving nine months, secured his liberty, it being proved that he had been unjustly imprisoned.

MESSENGER ACTS ON THE WHEEL.

A new spirit has come over the messenger boy. He no longer meanders leisurely and with thoughtful mien along the sidewalk, but makes excellent time as he goes on his rounds on a bicycle. This applies, at present, to the messenger staff of the Western Union Telegraph Company at Philadelphia, and some few other offices, but the innovation has proved such a success that the walking messenger boy will soon be out of date. In the West Philadelphia office, ten boys were formerly employed. The average distance a message had to be delivered was two miles. Each boy had about ten messages to deliver in the day, and by night he was utterly exhausted. The boy earned from 50 to 60 cents a day. Since the bicycle was introduced into the office, only one-third as many boys are employed, and they are paid so much for every message they deliver. The time for getting a message to its destination is reduced to about one-third, so that now a boy on his bicycle can deliver from twenty-seven to thirty messages a day, and instead of making 50 or 60 cents he makes from $1 to $1.50 a day. An excellent plan for enabling the boy to buy his wheel is adopted. The company buys the wheel, and continues to pay the boy for the work he does at the old rate of wages, putting the difference in his earnings to his credit. As soon as the wheel is paid for it becomes the boy's property. He gets the advantage of increased wages, and is not nearly so fatigued by his day's work as when he was continually walking.

REJUVENATING THE STREET CAR

What becomes of the old cars? The foreman of a car shop says that three or four old cars are generally used in the turning out of what is virtually a spick and span new car. A great number of the cars now running on street lines are composite cars, built up out of the cast-off plant of the line. One part of a car will be worn out more than the rest. It is put in the barn and kept there until another car gives way. The best parts of the two cars are taken, and possibly, with the aid of a little new material, a handsome car is constructed. Although there is a great deal of this composite work done on all lines, there are many cars now in use which first saw light when mules were the principal motive power on car lines. When a car has become hopelessly decrepit, it may drift into all sorts of uses, from a children's play-room, to a bath-house on the banks of a river, or, possibly, a fisherman's hut. At the corner of a street in Milwaukee, an old car was placed several years ago, as a station in which passengers who were being transferred from one car to another would wait in inclement weather during the interval between the departure and arrival of cars. This was such a welcome shelter to the passengers that surprise has been expressed that the same useful old age has not been given to more worn-out cars at the exposed points at the terminals of car lines.

SPECIAL FRIGHT CARS ON ELECTRIC RAILWAYS.

The freight traffic on electric railways had led to the construction of many new forms of freight cars. On one line a large quantity of whisky is handled, a large box car, which also carries general freight and supplies for local service, has been made for carrying to the station of a steam railway, the barrels of whisky from large distilleries in the district. The car is 28 feet long, and 10 feet 8 inches high from the rail to the top of the roof. It is also used as a locomotive, and hauls three loaded box cars between the railway and the distilleries. The car is mounted on a pair of four-wheel trucks, with a twenty-five horse-power motor on each axle, and weighs about fifteen tons empty. In Spokane, the electric cars which haul wheat and flour between the mills and the railway station have displaced the drays formerly used. The grain cars, which have been specially built for the service, are 20 feet long, and the grain compartment is 12 feet long, 6 feet wide and 5 feet 6 inches high, with a capacity of 12,000 pounds, or 200 bushels of wheat. At the freight station, the floor, which is hinged, and carries a steel hopper, is raised, and the car is loaded with grain from the main line cars. On reaching the mill the car is run over a chute, the gate of the hopper is opened, and the grain is dumped. The floor is then let down to cover the hopper and the car is loaded with bags or barrels of flour to go to the railway station. Whenever the streets along the line require macadamizing, the car is used for carrying and discharging the broken stone. It has an Edison double reduction motor on each axle.

Benefits of Cycling.

(London Daily News:) Of all the means of training the respiration, Dr. Fortescue Fox thinks cycling is the best. When a person first takes to cycling, he is troubled with shortness of breath, his heart beats uncomfortably, and his legs get tired, but after some training these discomforts all disappear. Why should not people liable to attacks of asthma also train their respiration by such a kind of exercise—of course, on condition of the heart and lungs being in perfect health? Cycling exercise, first of all, increases the depth of breathing, and that without fatigue, as the respiratory movements are automatic; at the same time it will accustom the rider instinctively to take in at each respiration the volume of air required to aerate the blood and to eliminate a fixed proportion of carbonic acid, leaving in the circulation the precise amount compatible with health.

OUR READERS.

The citizens of Los Angeles, young and old, and of all classes, are DEEPLY CONCERNED

In the announcement here made of a movement in their dearest interests that has just been entered into by

The Times.

The Matter is Briefly Stated.

The Great Problems of Society and Government, the most precious Secrets of Science, even the Mysteries of Life and Conduct, are all finally solved by The Simplest Means. What interest is more cherished by us, for example, than THE EDUCATION OF THIS PEOPLE? We regard it as the Basis of our National Prosperity. We behold in it the weapons of personal success and eminence. And, therefore, we make laws for it—we spend our millions on it—we provide stately buildings for it—we search the world over for improved methods—we banish our children from their homes every season to get a poor installment of it. Now comes the wand of Genius. Did you ever inquire:

Why not Educate Ourselves? and Why not do it in the Home?

THE ANSWER TO THESE BURNING QUESTIONS IS THE ESTABLISHMENT OF

THE HOME UNIVERSITY LEAGUE.

This is a movement for SELF-CULTURE now spreading over the land. THE TIMES has studied it well and fallen in with it on behalf of its readers. Both the plan and means are simplicity itself. ALL MAY JOIN. The studies are free and optional. The Youth may prepare for any calling or profession. The Artisan can perfect himself in the knowledge of his own handicraft. The Business man can master the secrets of prosperous trade. The Farmer may become a more thrifty agriculturist. The Professional man may crown his specialty with the wisdom of its grandest experts. These various classes will each receive guidance and suggestion, have their studies mapped out for them, and be PLACED IN TOUCH by correspondence with the best living authorities on the branches to which they devote themselves.

And all this at Home

And with the use of ONLY ONE BOOK—the famous and all-embracing ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA. Such is the outline of the HOME UNIVERSITY LEAGUE, in which THE TIMES hopes to enroll all its readers, and in connection with which it has made arrangements to provide them with the latest edition of Britannica (Ninth), supplemented with American matter to date, on terms which even a day-laborer could spare from his meager income.

The Age of Culture is Here! It is Now! Mere brawn is almost crowded off the stage. The indolent and unlettered are in the BACK SEATS. The men and women of Brains are everywhere Winning the Plums. All who approve the movement should immediately address the annexed Coupon to the office of The Times, E. B. Department.

IT COSTS NOTHING TO KNOW.

[RAILROAD RECORD.]

ILLEGAL AGREEMENTS.

A RAILROAD LAWYER WRITES TO THE COMMISSION.

Urges the United States Officers to Watch the Pools—Good Travel Southward by Steamer—More Passengers Are Coming from the East.

CONCORD (N. H.,) Aug. 18.—The following is a copy of a letter addressed by Hon. W. F. Chandler to the Interstate Commerce Commission:

CONCORD (N. H.,) Aug. 17, 1895.

To the Interstate Commerce Commission—Gentlemen: The New York Tribune of yesterday announces the meeting in that city of the "sixteen presidents appointed by the Trunk Line Association to formulate a means for maintaining eastbound and west-bound rates," and says that an agreement has been reached, to be finally considered in September, it being in the meantime an evident impropriety to make known the details of the arrangement.

These agreements to prevent low and to secure high rates of railroad transportation have been under consideration for several months. The combination will be the greatest association of capital which America—perhaps the world—has ever known. It embraces all the American lines between Chicago and the West and New York and the East, and also the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada; doubtless covering $3,000,000,000 of organized money.

The Canadian Pacific road is not included, fortunately for New England. The object is to abolish competition on freight and passenger rates, to guard against any possible lowering of prices, and to accomplish as soon as the traffic will bear it a raising of the present charges.

In view of the immense interests involved affecting the public who are to pay as well as the railroads which are to receive the sums charged for transportation by the different companies constituting this great combination, I desire to ask whether the Interstate Commerce Commission, as the appropriate and faithful guardian of the rights of the people, as against railroad exactions is watching and investigating the steps taken by the present combination for the purpose of discovering whether its proposed agreement would be in accordance with the common law and with the statutes of the United States against pooling and trusts, and with the view if they are illegal, to preventing, if possible, their consummation, instead of allowing them to enter, unresisted, in full operation.

The Tribune says the counsel for the companies will see that the agreement "complies with the laws of all the states, as well as those of the United States."

While the attorneys for the roads are working to this end it seems imperative that the officers of the United States should also labor to see that if the agreement is unlawful it shall be kept from going into effect. It seems to me that all laws against any kind of monopolies and trusts, whether enacted by state or nation, will be insignificant and worthless if this gigantic railroad trust cannot be defeated. Very Respectfully, WILLIAM F. CHANDLER.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

BEFORE and AFTER.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY.

News Received About Dr. Hearne—News Notes.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 19.—(Regular Correspondence.) The indictment of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Hearne for the murder of Mrs. Hearne's first husband, Amos J. Stillwell, at Hannibal, Mo., continues to be the leading topic of conversation among people in this city. The personal characteristics of Dr. Hearne point to a most ungovernable temper. In 1894 this terrible temper so overmastered the man that he smashed in the door of Mrs. Hearne's summer cottage with an ax and assaulted her. His wife swore to these facts in court and was granted a divorce in consequence. Much to the surprise of everybody cognizant of the matter, Mrs. Hearne was soon remarried to her divorced and abusive husband. Dr. Hearne, being displeased with the newspaper reports of the facts in the matter, threatened to kill two correspondents, assaulted one man whom he knew was physically unable to defend himself and threatened to shoot another peaceable citizen. He afterward made overtures for an apology to the correspondent he had assaulted in so cowardly a manner, but was emphatically scorned by the man he had attemped to coerce by tactics pursued by common-place toughs. Early in the year, when the recently indicted doctor was attempting to gain admittance to certain secret societies here, he exhibited affidavits from law officers in Missouri to prove that he was in no way implicated in the splitting open of Stillwell's skull with an ax. These affidavits do not appear to have had much weight with the grand jury at Hearne's old home.

The funeral of Mrs. Maria R. de Burton at St. Joseph's church on Sunday was conducted by the Rev. Father Ubach. The pall bearers were Judge J. Wade McDonald, Judge Pierce, H. L. Titus, J. W. Thompson, Dr. H. G. Burton, U. S. A., Maj. Henry Sweeney, U. S. A.

The valuation of the property in the city of Escondido has been increased $100,000 for the current year.

The report comes from Cuyamaca that Judge E. S. Torrance of the Superior Court suddenly encountered two fat deer in the woods near the lake and was so greatly overcome with "buck fever" as to forget to discharge his rifle at the animals who stood but a few feet away from him. The deer walked away while the Judge stood seemingly hypnotized by their presence.

E. Dehm of Bernardo, has secured 15 tons of honey from 130 stands of bees.

Packing houses in Sweetwater Valley are paying 2 to 2½ cents a pound for green lemons.

The building boom continues at Escondido. There is not an empty house in or about that flourishing city.

At the funeral of Mrs. Levinia Bruce on Sunday the Rev. H. B. Restarick officiated. The pall-bearers were Gen. Eli H. Murray, Joseph Surr, Jesse Gilmore, J. W. Stoker, J. D. Long, D. P. Hoyle.

Collections from the city letter boxes continue to be taken just after the departure of the mail trains.

Among the Hotel del Coronado arrivals are: Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Cox, Hollister; Delas S. Crane, Stockton; George W. Beck, Pasadena; Charles Brown, cashier California National Bank, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stimpson, Los Angeles.

Joe Stefani of Oakland, who committed suicide on Saturday in the Hotel Brewster by hanging himself to the chandelier with a strap, was impelled to the awful step by ill health.

The estate of Gilman P. Smith is appraised at $35,500.

The late G. A. Garrettson left property valued at about $1,000,000.

Dr. Dorothea Lummis of Los Angeles is at Hotel del Coronado; also H. P. Aldrich and W. A. Barney of the Atlantic and Pacific road; Mrs. J. P. Hooker, Los Angeles; R. W. A. Godfrey, Riverside.

BAD MAN ARRESTED.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 19.—Francisco Paderes, who escaped recently from the jail at Ensenada, Lower California, where he was confined pending trial on a charge of having murdered an old German couple named Lemcke, was arrested today at El Cajon by Constable Ruiz. Although a desperate character, he made no resistance. The charge on which Ruiz arrested him was stealing horses in this county, for which a warrant was issued for him two years ago. Paderes avoided arrest at that time by crossing the line. It is thought he will be tried here for horse-stealing and will not be given up to the Mexican authorities.

CHASING AMERICAN SCHOONERS.

The Mexican Government Endeavors to Stop Shipments.

SAN DIEGO, Aug 19.—The steamer Pacheco returned from the coast of Lower California this morning, after a chase for American schooners gathering guano. No vessels were caught, but 447 sacks of guano were found on San Martin Island, ready for shipment. The Mexican government is trying to stop the traffic, because schooners evade port duties at Ensenada. The Pacheco also brought to Ensenada this trip $300 worth of contraband merchandise found cached below San Quintin.

REDLANDS.

REDLANDS, Aug. 19,—(Regular Correspondence.) At 11 o'clock this morning W. S. Hadley, who was arrested in Stockton last Wednesday, on the charge of forgery, was arraigned before Judge Baker, and the date of defendant's preliminary examination was fixed for 10 o'clock Friday morning, August 30.

The warrant authorizing the arrest of Hadley was issued June 7. The exact amount of the draft which was cashed for him at the First National Bank of Redlands on March 26, 1895, and which he is alleged to have forged, was $625. It was drawn on the National Park Bank, New York, and issued to the order of J. S. West by the Hillsdale (Mich.,) Savings Bank, under date of February 14, 1895. The draft contained the signature of A. B. La Fleur, cashier, and the indorsements on said draft were as follows: J. S. West, pay W. S. Hadley or order; Joe Brown, W. S. Hadley.

The court placed defendant's bail at $1000, but at this writing it is not known if bondsmen were secured.

H. C. Rolfe, Deputy District Attorney, appeared for the State and George B. Cole, Esq., of San Bernardino for the defendant.

REDLANDS BREVITIES.

The death of Henry H. Wilshire, aged 39 years, occurred at his Eureka-street home Sunday afternoon. The deceased was a native of Utah, coming to Yucaipe Valley many years ago. Funeral services will be held at the Methodist Church at 2 o'clock p.m., tomorrow (Tuesday.)

Mrs. S. J. Hayes returned from Laguna Beach today.

Miss Nina Leonard is home from the Bay City.

Rev. Fred Smiley and family are in the city on their way to Highland Mills.

Two Minutes Overtime.

For once pigheadedness was a virtue. The obstinacy of James Dalzell's balky horse has won $25 for the faithful animal's owner. Mr. Dalzell bet $25 that Prof. Gleason could not in 30 minutes teach the beast the way he should go. The trainer worked his best and struggled until he was nearly as wet with perspiration as the horse, but it took him exactly 32 minutes to persuade the horse to obey him. The beast was an obstreporous bronco who seemed not only possessed of an evil spirit but was "locoed" and born contrary to begin with. Messrs. O. H. Lockhart, Staunton and Whittesey were the timekeepers. In addition to this wager contest Prof. Gleason gave lessons to three other horses, Mrs. Ball's Dick, a black horse from the Eureka stables and a bay horse belonging to Mr. Moody. The audience was large and enthusiastic.

PASADENA.

CITY TRUSTEES TAKE ACTION ON VARIOUS MATTERS.

Stolen Street and the Paving Question—A Charming Wedding—An Unruly Pig Raised a Row—The Daily Budget of Happenings.

PASADENA, Aug. 19.—(Regular Correspondence.) The City Trustees met as usual this afternoon, with Messrs. Weed, Washburn, Hamilton and President Cox present and Trustee Lukens absent. An ordinance was introduced changing the name of Terrace avenue to Hurlburt street, and the grade of Locust street was duly established in accordance with the recommendation of the City Engineer.

Attorney Arthur, upon being questioned by the board, said that he had no report ready in the matter of the franchise of the electric road, in relation to the short unnamed street between Columbia and Fair Oaks avenue, and that but for his absence from the city he should have instituted suit to determine the rights of the city in the matter. No reply of any kind has been received from the electric road. The report referred to was on the demand of the city, made some three weeks ago, that the Pasadena and Los Angeles Electric road be notified to remove its tracks from the street between Fair Oaks and Columbia, as it had no franchise over the street in question, and as its track there is a menace to life and property.

The petition of property-owners against the proposed paving of East Colorado street with crushed rock was presented. An aggregate of nearly five thousand feet of frontage, a majority of the property-owners, was represented, and the Council therefore granted the petition that further proceedings in the matter be abandoned. Judge Weed said that it was the intention of the Council to do what the property-owners desired in the matter. Justice Brockaway spoke against the crushed rock, and in favor of asphaltum, and Mr. McHarrie asked if a majority petition in favor of the regrading of the street would receive the notice of the Council, as he had been told by one member of the board that it would not be. Judge Weed said that he thought such a petition would receive consideration. Mr. McHarrie then stated that he knew from experience that if the soil on East Colorado street should be worked wet the street well rolled with a ten-ton roller while moist and well crowned in the grading that a roadway could be made of the natural soil that would be almost as hard as cement. Mr. Gibbs said that he thought all the streets of Pasadena were improperly crowned, and that there were few where the crown was really sufficient to give the proper drainage for storm water in the heavy rains. Mr. Brockaway asked that the Trustees, in putting down the gutter on Colorado street, between Marengo avenue and Little avenue, should consider the merits of granite blocks, as they had been used elsewhere with success.

A petition from property-owners regarding the disposition of storm water on Broadway was received and filed. A petition for the vacation of Aliso Place as an alley was also received and granted, and a resolution of intention drawn in the mater.

The City Clerk reported that all of the changes recommended by the Trustees as a Board of Equalization had been made, and offered the assessment books in evidence of the same. He also presented his report of the running expenses of the fiscal year ending February 1, 1895, and his estimates for the coming year. The rate of assessment will be the same as last year, $1 on every $100, and it will be apportioned among the several funds. The estimates are such that the legal rate of tax for the general fund will be entirely inadequate for the purpose, and it will be necessary to borrow from the several surplusages of the separate funds to apply to the same. It is estimated that the street department for the ensuing year will cost the city $8000; street sprinkling, $9500; street lighting, $10,000; police, $4700; engineering, $2800; interest on deferred payments, $1250; library, $1339; redemption of bonds, $9800; interest on bonds, $15,840.

Judge Weed spoke of the advisability of enforcing the ordinance against allowing horses to stand for hours on the public streets, but nothing was done in the matter. Nor did the subject of amending the franchise of the Southern Pacific road come up today, although there was a report that some such action was contemplated by the Trustees.

LELAND-DAVIDSON.

At 10 o'clock this morning Miss Winifred, third daughter of Mrs. Dora Davidson, was married to B. Leland of Los Angeles. The ceremony was at the Episcopalian Church, Rev. Wyllis Hall officiating. The bride, who is one of Pasadena's loveliest girls, loked very sweet in a simple traveling gown of brown cheviot, and she was attended by her pretty sister, Miss Grace Davidson, as maid of honor. Mr. Perry was best man, Miss Mary Ward bridesmaid and Charles S. Ward acted as groomsman. After a dainty wedding-breakfast the bridal party departed for Santa Monica, whence they will take steamer for Honolulu, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will make Pasadena their home for some months, joining Mrs. Davidson, mother of the bride, in Europe in the spring. Mrs. Davidson expects to leave Pasadena about September 1 to visit her daughter, the Baroness von Webber, in Denmark. She expects to remain abroad about three years, a long yachting trip in Mediterranean waters with the Baroness von Webber and her husband being one of the pleasures in store for her.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

Biedebach and Campbell, who are at outs on the subject of porkers, aired their grievances in Judge Merriam's court this morning, and a jury decided that Mr. Campbell did not exhibit a deadly weapon with intent to do Mr. Biedebach bodily harm, as was charged, although he did throw an axe at a visiting porker, to whose attentions he objected, and killed the animal. Next Monday there will be another suit between the contestants, Mr. Biedebach endeavoring to recover damages for the porker that was converted into pork by the deadly swipe of Mr. Campbell's snicker-snee.

H. B. Johnson deposited $2 with Recorder Rossiter today as a fine for a Sunday spree, and will spend three days in jail in default of the other $3 of his fine.

The Columbia Hill Tennis Club will hold an open tournament Friday and Saturday of this week, to which all Southern California tennis players are invited. The play will begin at 1:30 p.m. Friday, and will continue the rest of the day, and all day Saturday. On Saturday luncheon will be served on the grounds, which are on Mr. Daggett's residence property.

Miss Agnes Elliott, a teacher in the Los Angeles public schools, has been granted a year's leave of absence that she may take a post-graduate course at Stanford University. She will leave Tuesday, accompanied by Miss Marie Markham, who will also enter Stanford.

Fred Fishbeck and Miss Minerva Prins of North Los Robles avenue will be married Saturday night at the home of the bride. The young couple will make their home on Carlton Place.

H. C. Galbraith, a barber, addicted to the morphine habit, was before the Recorder this morning, charged with disturbing the peace. He was sent to jail in default of $5 fine.

George J. Hopkins will build on Orange Grove avenue in the near future a $6000 residence. Among other novel features will be an inclosed patio 18x30 feet in size.

M. V. Biscailuz appeared before Recorder Rossiter today, and his case was set for August 27. He is accused of securing money by false representations.

Harley D. Nichols has returned from a sketching trip to La Jolla, and expects to go to Long Beach soon for a brief outing.

Miss Edna Larkin arrived from Chicago today, and is visiting her father's family in South Pasadena.

D. T. Gilmore and Dr. C. A. Davis went to Boston today over the Southern Pacific road.

CHINO.

CHINO, Aug. 17.—(Regular Correspondence.) Few of those even upon the ground appreciate the magnitude of the sugar-beet industry here. A fair conception may be obtained of it when the fact is known that 850 tons of sugar beets are daily transformed into the lightest grade of granulated sugar. Of this amount Anaheim contributes about 400 tons daily. The Champion reports 22,458 tons of beets have been worked up thus far for the season.

There are no sensational developments in the railroad situation. A party of Southern Pacific magnates, including such notables as H. E. Huntington, Col. C. F. Crocker, William Hood and J. A. Muir, were here the first of the week, but as the Champion aptly remarks, "section bosses generally know more" than any of these. The Southern Pacific engineering corps is in South Riverside, evidently headed this way. The survey for the line from Bloomington to the limestone mountain has been completed, but the work of construction will be delayed for some time. In the meantime Pomona and Ontario are watching each other with distended optics in a vain endeavor to figure out which town is to be sidetracked. Ontario's hopes are a bit the larger at present, but those best calculated to know affirm that Pomona will be the junction city.

The fact that the winery was again doing business at the old stand became apparent as soon as the Chino contingent returned from San Bernardino after the decision had been rendered.

It is to be regretted that the County Supervisors have taken no action on the waste-water nuisance. Our Rincon neighbors are getting decidedly wrathy over the alleged neglect. No feasible remedy has been suggested for the disposal of the 3,500,000 gallons of water which are daily turned loose at the sugar factory. An alfalfa grower recommends that it be run into a gopher hole.

The ladies of the Baptist church gave an icecream social at the church Friday night.

A dramatic entertainment will be given for the benefit of the public library next Friday night. The comedy "A Box of Monkeys," will be the leading feature of the programme. Pomona talent assists in its production.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gird are expected to return from San Francisco Monday.

ONTARIO.

ONTARIO, Aug. 19.—(Regular Correspondence.) There will be a grand excursion and basket picnic to Santa Monica Saturday, August 24, under the auspices of the I.O.O.F. and Rebekah lodges, via the Southern Pacific. Tickets, round trip, $1.70, good for return until Sunday, August 25. Free side trips to Soldiers' Home, Santa Monica Canyon and Ocean Pier. Lunch at Grand Pavilion Bath-house at 12m. Through car service, without change, both going and returning.

John McClintock is laid up with a mutilated foot, the result of lack of attention to detail in chopping wood.

About seventy-five tons of fruit are daily disposed of at the North Ontario evaporator.

The lemon market is in a most wholesome condition, and from $1000 to $1200 per car is received for a choice Ontario product.

The local prune crop is a large and glistening success. Nearly all growers are drying their product themselves.

Mrs. Ella M. Cotton has been chosen principal of the Ontario public schools for the ensuing year. All the other teachers will be of the gentle sex.

It cost $8527.91 to run the public schools for the past year.

Miss Mamie Bradley, who has been visiting friends in the East for the past year, returned home last week.

Dean Randall of Chaffey College is expected to return from his visit to Maine in a few days.

ORANGE COUNTY.

BLANCH WITT OF ALAMITOS WAS FOUND IN NEW YORK.

But She Refuses to See Her Mother—A Strange Tale—The Brunswick Hotel Flooded—The New County Jail—News Notes and Personals.

SANTA ANA, Aug. 19.—(Regular Correspondence.) The Supervisors met today (Monday) all members, except Chairman Nickey, present.

The petition to establish a drainage ditch out in the Bolsa neighborhood near the location and parallel with the old ditch, to empty into the bay, accompanied by a good and sufficient bond was received, and upon motion hearing upon the same was set for Monday, September 2, 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m. The ditch is to begin at the northwest corner of sec. 22, T 5 S, R 11 W, and continue westerly to tide water.

Two gentlemen from Los Angeles, Messrs. Nettleton, representing the Hall Safe and Lock Company, and Preston, representing another firm, were before the board in reference to plans and specifications for a new County Jail, each gentleman agreeing to make a low bid on the same.

The clerk was instructed to give notification that the board would entertain propositions to purchase a piece of land east of the city over by the foothills upon which there is a large amount of gravel and adobe mixture to be used on the different public highways. The bids are to be opened Tuesday, September 3.

The clerk was also instructed to advertise for bids on plans and specifications for a new County Jail to cost not to exceed $20,000.

The board adjourned to meet the first Monday in September.

BLANCH WITT'S MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

A month or more ago The Times printed an account of a mysterious disappearance from Anaheim, the person in question being little Miss Blanch Witt, the fourteen-year-old stepdaughter of Mr. Witt, the blacksmith at Alamitos, a very quiet locality in the western portion of the county.

It will be remembered by The Times readers that Miss Witt went to Anaheim with her mother on or about the 27th day of last May, to do some trading and to incidentally visit a friend. While Mrs. Witt was down town, Miss Blanch, supposedly, visited her friend, but when her mother went for her in the evening, it was found that she had not been there at all. Search was at once instituted for her. Officers were told about the disappearance of the girl and a systematic investigation was begun, with the result that it was ascertained she had gone to the depot in that city and purchased a ticket for Los Angeles. Nothing more could be learned of her.

A few weeks ago, however, the girl made her whereabouts known. She wrote to her mother, telling her she was in the State of New York. The mother hurriedly got ready and started across the mountains and plains for the locality of her child, only to find upon her arrival that the daughter would not see her.

A letter has just been received here from a friend of the family, in which the mother relates the experiences she has had in trying to see her daughter. The mother avers there never has been any trouble between herself and daughter, and how the girl could ever get as far away as New York without assistance, as she had no money of her own, is a question that is puzzling the people in the Alamitos neighborhood, who are interesting themselves in the girl's behalf.

A story is told this evening of the probable connection of a prominent resident of the neighborhood with the disappearance of the girl, and there may yet be some very sensational developments in the case.

The girl still refuses to see her mother.

BRUNSWICK HOTEL FLOODED.

About 1 o'clock today the water pipe bursted in the bath-room of the Brunswick Hotel on the third floor and before the water could be shut off the dining-room on the first floor was flooded, the rush of water bringing down considerable plastering and decoration with it. The damage, however, is not very heavy, and it is fortunate it was no worse.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

President Monaghan of the Orange County Wheelmen has appointed the committees who will see to it that the opening of the athletic grounds on North Main street Wednesday, September 18, is attended with the proper amount of pomp and splendor. They are as follows: Advertising—J. F. Kendall, Ben Davis, C. H. Olney, C. E. Torrey, C. C. Monaghan; Prizes—A. J. Padgham, H. E. Bundy, E. W. Dean, V. V. Tubbs, J. P. Browne; Reception—A. F. Wright, J. A. Hankey, E. S. Wallace, J. P. Boring, Perry Lewis; Races—C. C. Monaghan, C. H. Olney, V. V. Tubbs, Ed Mosbaugh, Ben Davis.

The various committees will begin at once in taking up the preliminary work of arranging for the coming event.

A THEOSOPHICAL LECTURE.

Abbott Clark of San Francisco delivered an interesting lecture in Unity Hall, Santa Ana, Sunday evening on "Discontent in Society, Politics and Religion." The hall was well filled and the lecture proved to be an unusually interesting one. Mr. Clark is an old Orange county boy, his parents now living in the Villa Park neighborhood over by the foothills, where they are well and favorably known. Mr. Clark is a young man but has ideas that would do credit to one many years his senior. The lecture Sunday evening is one of a series which the young gentleman proposes to give. The next one will be given in the same hall next Wednesday evening.

ORANGE COUNTY BREVITIES.

(Orange Post:) On Tuesday night a couple of local sports went on a still hunt for watermelons. Hastily filling their sacks in the darkness, they carried their plunder half a mile, but upon examination they were disgusted to find they had gathered a lot of superannuated cucumbers and one solitary muskmelon, which only lacked two months of being ripe. Considering the size of Orange county cucumbers the mistake is perhaps excusable but disappointing to its victims.

Alfred Gibson, a prominent young business man of Edinburg, Scotland, was in Santa Ana a few days ago, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson and family of North Main street. The young man was on his way to Australia to join the Chaffeys, who founded Chaffey College in Ontario about twelve years ago. Mr. Gibson was pleased with Santa Ana and Orange county.

Philip B. Sitton of Elsinore made a brief visit with friends in Santa Ana Monday, on the way to his former home at Westminster, where he expects to spend a few days with relatives and with them attend the sixtieth wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Sitton of Norwalk.

(Anaheim Independent:) Within a short time our local military company will be in possession of the new regulation rifles, which are now being furnished by the government. California is the third State in the Union to be supplied with these new firearms.

L. C. McKnight and family of Buena Park have returned from their outing at Santa Monica and Mr. and Mrs. Sloan of the same town have returned from a like vacation which they had been taking at Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. John Allen and daughter, Miss Rose, of Pasadena, have returned to their home in the Crown City, after a brief visit in Santa Ana, the guests of Cary R. Smith and family.

The Misses Elizabeth Sargent and Hettie Davis, who have been the guests of Miss Bertha Gallup of Santa Ana for the past several months, departed today (Monday) for Milwaukee.

Mrs. Charles G. Shipman of Ely, Minn., arrived in Santa Ana Saturday on a visit to her mother, Mrs. E. E. Burton, who has been very ill for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Foster of Tustin have gone to Long Beach for a few weeks. They are taking life easy in their portable house, the "Mayflower."

Up to the present time there have been almost 1200 tons of sugar-beets shipped from this county to Chino and many more are to follow.

Mrs. Eva French, department president of the G.A.R., will visit Shiloh Circle No. 21 tomorrow (Tuesday) afternoon, in Santa Ana.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Santiago Orange Growers' Association will be held Wednesday, September 11, 1895.

Miss Whiteman of Carlsbad, San Diego county, who has been visiting friends at Olive, this county, has returned to her home.

Misses Jeannette and Edith Johnson and Myra Cleaver of Santa Ana have returned from a ten days' outing at Long Beach.

C. C. Monaghan and wife of Santa Ana will leave Tuesday for San Juan Hot Springs, to be absent for about two weeks.

Mrs. J. R. Medlock and little daughter have returned to Santa Ana from a pleasant outing at Newport Beach.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Sproul of Orange, Saturday, August 10, a daughter.

The public schools of Orange will open Monday, September 16.

SANTA MONICA.

Boy Killed by the Engine at the Canyon Yesterday.

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 19.—(Regular Correspondence.) At 3 o'clock this afternoon Fernando Pico, of Spanish parentage, and a lad of 11 years, was run down and instantly killed by the switch engine at the Old Canyon stopping point on the Southern Pacific Railroad. It seems that the boy was deaf and dumb, and was walking toward the wharf when the engine approached from behind him. Not being able to hear the warning whistle, he was soon under the wheels. The top of his head was crushed and he was otherwise bruised. The body was removed from the track and the coroner notified. The father of the boy is also Fernando Pico, and is at present in Los Angeles, where he has work. The mother and one other child, a girl of 5, live at the canyon.

The School Board opened bids today for the building of the South Side schoolhouse, and the contract went to C. H. Thomas at $1015. The building is to be generally like the house built last year in the Canyon, except that it will be six feet longer. The building is to be ready for occupancy October 28 next. The contract for moving the old building back, where it will be used until the new is ready, went to William Flores for $20. The other bids for the new structure were H. X. Goetz at $1065, and J. I. Comstock at $1090.

The trouble Capt. Jones has been having with his sailors on the Lady Isabella seems not yet ended. It is now surmised that three of the men, Bernston, Fillesner and Ollenberg, sailed in the Eclipse. Two others—Danielson and Olden—have deserted, and the others have been more or less mutinous—so much so that it has been necessary to put wharfmen on the ship to carry on the work of discharging. The matter of the men who went away on the Eclipse has been submitted to Vice-Consul Mortimer, who was down today to investigate. The crew of the Lady Isabella were signed for a three years' cruise at Cuchaven, Germany.

The surface of the new bicycle track is to be of Tehachepi decomposed granite, carloads of which are now arriving and being put into place. The grade of the track cannot be fully completed until after the 1st of the month for the reason that the Santa Monica Stables corner into the course, and they cannot be removed until that date. It will not take long for the work to be completed after this obstruction is out of the way.

The Monday morning round-up from yesterday's imbibing was three plain drunks, each of whom was taxed $5 by Recorder Wells.

CUCAMONGA.

CUCAMONGA, Aug. 19.—(Regular Correspondence.) Grapes are being shipped in large quantities from North Cucamonga.

Two carloads of fruit, peaches mainly, were shipped from North Cucamonga one day last week.

J. A. Caldwell has a large crew at work drying fruit. He has purchased the crops from several orchards and is turning out a fine product.

A party of Cucamonga gentlemen, including Ross Kincaid, S. P. Kincaid, H. Williams and Charles Motsinger, are camping in Bear Valley.

Mrs. I. W. Lord has returned from San Francisco, accompanied by her friend, Mrs. George Brundle. Mrs. Brundle will remain here for some time.

J. S. Motsinger and family, Mrs. Kincaid and children and J. W. Keefer and family have returned from their various outings.

John A Maddock has a baby boy at his house.

The Misses Wagner of Pasadena are the guests of Miss Wilmer.

Mrs. E. N. Reed entertained the members of the W.C.T.U. at her home on Central avenue recently.

Jasper A. Jensen left last week for Joannesburg, South Africa. He has fitted himself for civil engineering, and hopes to be able to follow his profession there.

Dr. W. A. Lilly has let the contract for a handsome cottage on his Cucamonga property.

Oscar Williams is a recent arrival in Cucamonga.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

CRUSADE INAUGURATED AGAINST THE SOCIAL EVIL.

The Death of a Pioneer—The Claim of the County Against the Government—More Skirmishing for Water—To Revive the Fiesta.

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 19.—Regular Correspondence.) Los Angeles is not alone in fighting the social evil, and its general spread through the effort in this city has been to confine it to a given locality, and prevent its spread throughout the city.

The Board of City Trustees have taken up the question of disreputable houses in the upper part of the city, and have decreed that the city ordinance must be enforced and First street be observed as a dead line.

The Trustees were in session as a board of equalization this morning, but during a lull President Lawson intimated that some of his constituents in the Second Ward were kicking at the encroachments which have been made by the sporting houses in that part of town, and he suggested that something ought to be done. The city ordinance draws the line at the middle of First street, but gradually they have crossed that thoroughfare, established themselves along the north line of the street, and then began to populate D street toward Second.

But when he had suggested the question, some of the other members of the board added that there were localities away up town that needed attention quite as much, and pointed out that the city ordinance is general and that there was no good reason for not making a general "cleaning out," and letting it apply to uptown hotels and lodging-houses as well.

It was, therefore, agreed that at the regular meeting tomorrow night City Attorney Allison should be instructed to notify all property-owners that they were liable to prosecution for renting houses for such purposes, and that the Board of City Trustees would see that prosecution was begun in all cases where there was any delay in complying with the order of the city.

Whether the order will be complied with, or will be followed up vigorously remains to be seen, but a queer situation of affairs will be met in one or two places north of First street, which are popularly supposed to be houses of this character. They are owned by the occupants, and whether they will move at the instance of the city authorities is doubtful.

DEATH OF M. E. BUTTON.

M. E. Button, one of the pioneers of the county, died at his residence in this city yesterday and was buried in Old Cemetery this afternoon. He was born in Onondaga county, N. Y., in 1813, and was a veteran of the Mexican war.

UNCLE SAM WONT PAY.

Supervisor Holbrook has been authorized by the board to proceed at once to Los Angeles and, if possible, effect a settlement with United States Marshal Covarrubias of the claim held by this county against the government.

The debt grows out of the keeping of United States prisoners in the county jail. A number of strikers and common-wealers were held here, serving out sentences for contempt of court, and during their detention it was thought necessary to purchase new clothing for some of them. The items appear on the bill in the shape of suits variously priced at from $10.50 to $14, and at the thought of paying $14 for a suit for a United States prisoner, Marshal Covarrubias almost succumbed, but rallied enough to dispute the bill, and it has been in dispute for several months.

The total amount is nearly $700, and Mr. Holbrook will make the best settlement possible, but the Board of Supervisors do not care for any more United States prisoners.

AFTER WATER POWER.

Rev. Boren, Jr., and H. T. Shirley this morning filed a water-location notice appropriating 7000 inches of water of the Santa Ana River for the purpose of developing power.

The location is posted at a point between the upper end of the Alessandro flume in the Santa Ana Canyon, and the diverting point for the North and South Fork companies' ditch.

These two points are nearly three miles apart, and it is evidently the plan to take the water out of the river just below the Alessandro ditch and convey it down the canyon to the power-house, develop electricity and then turn the water back into the stream, so that it will still find its way into the North and South Fork flumes.

This location notice is the second one which has been filed. A similar location was made sixty days ago, and the new notice is filed, of course, to keep alive the right to the water. The notice states in a general way that the water is to be used to develop power, which shall be used in Redlands, Riverside, San Bernardino and other places. It is understood that Boren and Shirley are acting for some eastern capitalist who has his eye out for a big power plant.

SAN BERNARDINO BREVITIES.

The Board of Supesrvisors has been petitioned to appoint R. T. Curtis a member of the Board of Horticultural Commissioners in the place of Dr. J. H. Pierson of Idlewild. It is claimed that the doctor is in poor health. He has lots of energy, however, and in an educational way is well qualified. He was for eight years United States botanist for Arizona; and, besides fine fruit, has on his place at Idlewild some of the rarest plants in the valley, if not in the State. It is not thought that the Board of Supervisors will consider it wise to make any change at the present time, when the horticultural interests of this section are threatened with so many insect pests. The case will come up for hearing October 9.

An effort will be made to revive the fiesta business with a new committee to solicit subscriptions to the guarantee fund, but it is hardly likely to accomplish anything unless the bull-fight feature is abandoned.

Joseph Brown and John Simmons have returned from the Bill McKinley mining district, north of Salton, on the desert. They report a number of promising gold leeds in process of development.

W. S. Hadley was taken to Redlands this morning and arraigned in the Justice Court for negotiating a draft with a forged indorsement. The preliminary examination was set for August 30.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Garner, Mrs. W. A. McFarlane and her niece, Miss Pearl Kendall of North Bend, Neb., will go to San Diego tomorrow for a few days' outing.

Rev. R. C. Westenburg will preach at Del Rosa and Idlewild until the next annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

A marriage license was issued this morning to John T. Horseley and Hattie Robertson, both of Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wiggins left yesterday for a visit to various coast resorts.

Mrs. J. L. Jonas has returned from a protracted visit to Los Angeles.

E. W. Nish, formerly teacher in the St. Elmo school district, has been elected to teach the school in North San Bernardino district for the ensuing year.

Miss Lulu Bahr has returned from a month's sojourn at Los Angeles and Catalina.

Miss Ella Lawson, city librarian, spent Sunday at Camp Indolence.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

Pinning Down the Contractors—With the Wheelmen.

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 19.—(Regular Correspondence.) The City Trustees this afternoon passed to a second reading an ordinance prescribing general rules directing the Superintendent of Streets and the contractor as to the material to be used and the mode of executing the work under all contracts hereafter made with the city of Riverside for street paving with asphalt surface on natural earth foundation, cement curbing and sidewalks, natural stone curbing and stone block gutters.

SPOKES OF THE WHEEL.

W. D. Newerf has returned to his home in Perris from a trip to Santa Barbara and other coast points.

Lawence Mills and J. W. Ellis of the East Los Angeles Cycling Club were in the city for a couple of days last week.

A number of Riverside wheelmen visited Redondo Sunday on their wheels to "take in" the U.S.S. Monterey.

W. H. Stuhlman, who visited Winchester Friday, says the roads out that way are bad for wheeling.

E. H. Hess, clerk of the Natick House, Los Angeles, one of the Riverside wheelmen, will be at the meet on September 9.

The work on the grandstand and fencing of the new park is progressing rapidly. Everything, including the one-third-mile track, will be in readiness for the Admission day meet.

The Cycling Life, published in Chicago, pays Riverside the following compliment through a correspondent: "Our best cycling centers are Riverside, San Diego and Los Angeles. Riverside has the largest club in this part of the State. Its new track is kite-shaped, a third of a mile, and with a natural cement surface. Riverside is the greatest orange center in the world, and is fourteen miles long and three miles wide, with wonderful avenues like Magnolia, Palm and Jurufa, which are world famous. It has about one thousand wheelmen and a population of less than ten thousand. It has developed and turned out nearly all the best racing men of the southwest, and now claims the three best men in this part of the world, McCrea, Castleman and Burke."

RIVERSIDE BREVITIES.

The contract was let to J. W. Carroll today for the construction of the new brick building on main street for P. T. Evans and Mrs. Bettner. No figures are given. The work will commence tomorrow and the building is to be ready for occupancy October 15. McBean & Co. are moving across the street today, temporarily. The jeweler, Mr. Miller, has already moved out and is occupying the room formerly occupied by M. S. Bowman.

Miss Wright, the milliner, went to Los Angeles Monday, to visit a brother for a few days. She will then go on by rail to San Francisco, where she will be joined by Miss Strock, who will go by water. Miss Grace Murray will accompany Miss Strock to San Francisco, and from there will go on to Indianapolis, where she intends to teach school.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the insane asylum held August 12, resolutions were adopted expressing the sorrow of all for the death of Mrs. A. S. Dolan, wife of the assistant physician of the institution.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary J. Miller occurred from the Glenwood College Saturday, and was well attended by relatives, it having been previously announced that the funeral would be private.

An interesting musicale was given in the parlors of the Holyrood Hotel Saturday evening. The occasion was the departure of Dr. Robat Dunze of Prussia, who has been spending two months in Riverside.

Silas Masters went to Long Beach Saturday to spend Sunday. Mrs. Masters and the family are spending the summer there. Mr. Masters was accompanied by his sister, Jennie.

J. E. Kearns turned up in the prisoner's dock in Recorder Chamber's court this morning, pleaded guilty of being intoxicated and paid his $5. He was hauled in Sunday evening.

Miss Winnie Brough has returned from Santa Monica, where she and Miss Marcia Brough have been spending two or three weeks with the family of Hon. E. W. Holmes of the Press.

Mrs. Dr. Deere, who returned to the city quite ill Wednesday from Santa Monica, is much better and will return to the beach in a few days, accompanied by the doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stibbins gave a very pleasant whist party Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lacy carried off the prizes.

George F. Seger has traded his 20-acre organge ranch in Castleman's addition for a cottage and other property at Santa Monica.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Loud have returned from their visit to San Diego very well pleased with the city of "bay 'n' climate."

Dr. Lucy Gardner left for Los Angeles this morning for a visit of a few days. She will also visit friends at Whittier.

Frank A. Miller and family of the Glenwood were registered at the Westminster Hotel, Los Angeles, Saturday.

The Independent Order of Foresters of Riverside have arranged for an excursion to Santa Monica August 28.

Orrin and W. H. Bakus went to Santa Monica Saturday to visit with their family who are summering there.

Tickets are going off rapidly for the Independent Order of Foresters' picnic at Santa Monica, August 28.

Mrs. Urban Alguire is going to Los Angeles and Pasadena for a two-weeks' vacation.

Mrs. W. W. Kirk and her son, Ray, of Hemet started for a trip East today.

C. H. Scott and wife left Saturday for Catalina for a couple of days' visit.

C. F. Anderson has returned from his outing in Strawberry Valley.

W. D. Polcene returned today from a trip to Los Angeles.

Mrs. J. W. Reily and child are at Newport Beach.

Reasons for Disinheriting.

(Temple Bar:) It has been remarked that the disinheriting of relations is mostly for venial offenses and not for base actions. The last Irish Lord Fitzwilliam left his property to Lord Onslow; but one morning at breakfast the intended heir, after helping himself to cream, caught the last drop upon the rim of his cup, which was thus brought into contact with the edge of the cream jug. Lord Fitzwilliam contended that this was an ill-bred action, and as the offender persisted in ridiculing the objection, his name was forthwith erased from the will. Isaac Casaubon left no part of his goods to his son, who had joined the Church of Rome, but "onlye one cup of the value of 30 crowns."

The Beauty of Health

Features don't matter so much. Most any features will do if the complexion is clear, the eyes bright and the lips rosy. Hearty, healthy wholesomeness is better than mere beauty of features. A face full of the glow of good health—full of the kindliness and good humor that health brings, is bound to be an attractive face—a face that will make friends. The face tells the story of the whole body. "Murder will out"—and so will "female weakness" and nervousness and other disorders peculiar to women.

If there is a drain on the system and strength, the record of it will show in the face. If there is nerve nagging "bearing-down" pains, dragging and pulling at the most sensitive organs in a woman's body, the face will show it. Abused nerves draw lines of care and worry on the face. Nervous prostration writes its warning on the face long before it comes. Sleeplessness, nervousness and debilitating drains make more wrinkles than age.

Nine-tenths of the sickness of women comes from some derangement of organs distinctly feminine. Nine-tenths of this sickness can be cured and avoided by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is nothing miraculous about the "Favorite Prescription"—nothing supernatural.

It is the result of rational thought and study applied to medicine.

It has been prescribed by Dr. Pierce for over 30 years. It has made thousands of women healthy and happy, and has brought joy to thousands of homes.

In "female weakness" it acts directly and strongly in healing and strengthening the parts that are most severely tried. It clears out impurities and promotes regularity at all times.

POMONA.

POMONA, Aug. 19.—(Regular Correspondence.) Of all the religious organizations in this city that of the Salvation Army was about the only one which collected anything like its full attending and participating force in its usual Sunday services today—accounted for, perhaps, by the fact that a goodly number of all the other societies are off to this or that resort for their customary summer outing, while all the army contingent are still found at their post.

Pomona has on this sacred day of rest for man, furnished two or three high contracting parties, who have bowed themselves at Hymen's altar and heard the solemn, impressive words of the officiating divine that made them man and wife—the pronunciamento "ye twain shall be one flesh"—Among them George A. Barker and Mary A. Farrel, and Eva E. Ashley to Arlington O. Kent of Chino.

Among the many that took the early morning trains for the seaside were Dr. A. Howeth and wife, the fact is the coast-cruiser warship Monterey and other attractions drew well from the country towns.

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Gothard left Saturday for Santa Barbara where they expect to meet their two daughters who are members of the Cassius C. Johnson Company from Pomona to the Yosemite Valley, and who have reached that point on their return home. Several days will be spent in that vicinity.

Miss Mamie, daughter of Mrs. Ed Phelan of this city, has arrived home after a pleasant outing of several days.

If old "Sol" holds his present grip for a few days more another exodus to the coast resorts may be reasonably expected.

Postal Clerk H. Clyde Brasher, a recent benedict, has bought a residence lot on Pearl street between those of S. C. Pitzer and I. N. Sanborn and will have a neat $1000 cottage erected thereon.

I. C. Lorbeer says that the "Building and Loan Association of Pomona" is now in a prosperous and growing condition. This speaks well for better times ahead.

An immense shed is being erected for the Phil Stein Company, immediately east of their fine two-story brick block, just completed; also, quite an addition to the frame building on the southeast corner of First street and Garez avenue, is under process of construction.

The Avis two-story brick is progressing rapidly in the hands of the contractor, and will soon give Pomona another creditable business front.

Let every Pomonan arrange his business so that he can attend the water meeting Tuesday night.

The patrons and friends of The Times in Pomona and this valley should remember that the Midsummer Number, aside from being, upon the whole, one of the finest editions ever issued from the Times office, also contains an interesting article of nearly two columns' length upon the Pomona Valley, entitled, "In a Typical Fruit Section," and is, therefore, most suitable in every respect for sending to friends in the East. Copies can be had in any number desired at this agency's office, First National Bank building, Second street, on the lower floor.

The people of Pomona should not forget the mass meeting Tuesday night on the "water question."

Miss Hattie Smith of Azusa, who has been visiting Miss Lorena Casey in this city for the past week or two, returned home this morning.

Miss Anna Gould left on the 8:56 a.m. Southern Pacific train for Berkeley College today.

P. J. Hart, who now has charge of the Santa Fe office here, and Hal Hamner went to Chino yesterday afternoon, taking a look through the really wonderful sugar factory and its ponderous machinery, but as it had on its "Sunday clothes" it was not running, but still and quiet as a mouse.

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Paine of this city have been enjoying an outing at Redlands.

Wint B. Ross has left for New York and other points east. It is stated that he will not return alone.

(Florida Times-Union:) Most of us only believe in a just God when we see Him punish the other fellow.

Chief Detective Moffitt has returned from his vacation and is again at his desk keeping tab on the criminal element.

A party consisting of H. J. Wollacott, I. L. Lowman, S. Polaski and A. Jacoby have left for Lake Tahoe to be absent two weeks.

Mr. Lammotte, the manager of the cloak department at A. Hamburger & Sons, has returned from his vacation. He did Catalina Island.

Recent arrivals at the Hotel Ramona include George K. Bettinger, Rochester, N. Y.; N. C. Wilson, Phoenix, Ariz.; R. J. Boyer, Oakland; M. C. Mansfield, Pittsburgh.

Boy Burglars.

Two very small boys named Pedro Molay and George Sepulveda, were arrested yesterday evening by Officers Steele and Richardson on the charge of burglary. They stole two watches from a lodging-house at the corner of New Main and Elmyra streets yesterday afternoon, and had already disposed of one of the time-pieces to an Italian fruit merchant for 25 cents, when arrested.

Threatened to Shoot.

William Handel, an impecunious but somewhat ferocious young man, was brought to the County Jail yesterday evening by Officer Slater of Pasadena, and locked up on the charge of threatening to kill by shooting.

Ex-Speaker Crisp.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Charles F. Crisp, ex-Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, has returned from Paris, greatly improved in health. He leaves this city again today on a four days' tour of Scotland.

Important to Lumbermen, Contractors, Etc.

The directors of the Merchants' Association, at a meeting held August 15, decided to sell the entire seating capacity which was built around Sixth-street Park during 1st La Fiesta, to the highest bidder. ABSOLUTELY PURE

MAY PROVE FATAL.

A MURDEROUS AFFRAY REPORTED FROM INGLEWOOD.

Charles S. Lidden's Skull Fractured by an Iron Bar in the Hands of A. S. Guest, Station Agent for the Santa Fe Railroad.

What may prove a fatal altercation occurred at Houlahan & Griffith's brickyard at Inglewood yesterday morning. There are several versions of the affair, the one told by Mr. Houlahan making it appear that it was a deliberate assault to murder. Whether such is the case or not, the fact remains that Charles S. Lidden, foreman of the brick-yard lies in a hospital in Pasadena with a badly fractured skull and with the chances for recovery against him. The man charged with the murderous assault on Mr. Lidden is S. A. Guest, station agent of the California Southern Railroad at Inglewood. Mr. Houlahan's story is, in substance, as follows:

A short time ago S. A. Guest asked Mr. Houlahan to give his brother, Erasmus Guest, a brawny young man about 24 years of age, a position in the brickyard. Mr. Houlahan put the young man to work about a week ago, but soon discovered that he was extremely quarrelsome. He had not been employed there long before he threatened to shoot a Mexican who was also an employee. About three days ago young Guest was again quarreling with some of the employees, and blows were being struck when Foreman Lidden interfered and, in separating the combatants and under extreme provocation, struck Guest with his open hand.

Seeing that Guest was in constant trouble with the other brickmakers, Mr. Houlahan changed his work and put him to hauling sand. This change in his work and the blow he had received evidently rankled in young Guest's breast and he probably carried his grievance to his brother, who took up his quarrel for him as later developments show.

A MURDEROUS BLOW.

According to Mr. Houlahan's statement, S. A. Guest, the station agent, approached Mr. Lidden in the brickyard, and handed him a letter, purporting to be about some cars. As Lidden was opening the letter, the station agent struck him over the right eye with an iron bar, wrapped in a newspaper, felling him to the ground. As he fell, Erasmus Guest, who was close by, also struck him and kicked him.

Before any further assault could be committed, N. O. Calkins and Mr. Call, two brickmakers, rushed to Lidden's assistance. Call grabed a singletree and brandished it over S. A. Guest's head. The latter begged him not to strike, and backed away, but as he did so he drew a revolver. Erasmus Guest also drew a revolver, and the two brothers, holding the workmen at bay with their guns, backed out of the yard and went down the railroad track.

Mr. Houlahan was not an eye-witness, but related the facts as reported to him by Lidden and others. Houlahan went to the scene of trouble as soon as he heard of it, but found that Lidden had gone to Los Angeles.

HIS SKULL FRACTURED.

Lidden, on reaching the city, did not call a doctor, but had his head bandaged by friends. He then went to his home in Pasadena, where Houlahan found him in such a bad condition that he had him removed to Dr. Hodge's hospital. An examination showed that his skull was badly fractured over the right eye. A portion of the bone had to be removed, leaving the brain exposed. At a late hour Lidden was resting comfortably, but the doctor is afraid a hemorrhage or inflammation may occur and prove fatal.

Lidden is 32 years old and married. He was formerly in the navy, and has been in Houlahan & Griffith's employ for several years, being considered by them a faithful and efficient employee, and not at all quarrelsome.

A warrant for S. A. Guest's arrest was served on him by the constable of Ballona township yesterday afternoon, returnable before Justice Willard today. Erasmus Guest came to Los Angeles and has not been apprehended, although it is not certain that a warrant for him has been issued.

S. A. GUEST'S STORY.

Station Agent Guest telephoned his version of the affray to The Times substantially as follows:

"It seems that on Thursday last a foreman of Houlahan & Grimth, brick manufacturers at Inglewood, whose surname is unknown but whose given name is Charles, refused to allow E. F. Guest to go on a certain place where he (Guest) had been by Mr. Houlahan given permisison to go. Heated words followed in the course of which the foreman started at Guest and, without warning, knocked him down with his fist. The foreman is said to have formerly occupied a position as physical director of some gymnasium and it is stated that the way he handled himself in this instance made it evident that this was a fact.

Mr. Houlahan, when he discovered the situation, came to where the men were and put an end to the hostilities.

Yesterday morning S. A. Guest, the agent of the Southern California Railway at Inglewood, started to give some directions about the loading of certain cars. While he was doing this the foreman named Charles came to Guest's brother and said he was going to "lick" him. He thereupon turned and hit Guest upon the head with a car sealer which it was not known he had, knocking Guest partly down. Agent Guest took away the seal whereupon the foreman commenced hitting him with his fists.

A crowd then rushed toward Agent Guest, according to his statement, tearing his shirt nearly off and blinding him by striking him on the head with a brick. He was unconscious for a time and when he recovered his senses saw the crowd rushing toward him with whiffletrees and brickbats. Someone had hold of him and when he turned about somebody grabbed him from behind. He saw one of the crowd holding a whiffletree aover his head and observing it was in motion he dodged the blow. He then took the car sealer which he had put into his pocket, and drew it as if it were a gun. The effect was the same as if it had been a gun and he was able to take advantage of this temporary diversion and run away.

Fire on Maple Avenue.

The fire department was called out at 7 o'clock last evening by an alarm from box No. 85. The fire was at the house of J. Levy, on the east side of Maple avenue, between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets, and was started by the explosion of a lamp. The damage was about $600.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The Preparations for Atlanta Are Advancing Rapidly.

"It looks as if we were getting ready to move, doesn't it?" said the turtle. "The effect on our peace of mind is just about the same." He gazed reflectively at the pyramids of packing cases, the heaps of excelsior, the dismantled revolving album, and the piles of boards. "You see we have such a lot of things here to pack, and more coming all the time. The Azusa Chamber of Commerce has just sent us two boxes of oranges, one of lemons, and fifty bags of dried fruit. Then J. L. Howland sends us two cases of olive oil, made in Pomona, and the Catalina Company some big photographs of picturesque scenes on the pretty little island, and the Los Angeles Pressed-brick Company, a handsome display of its product. All those things will be forwarded to Georgia.

"Here's something curious: When A. W. Harrison cut that lemon open he found that it had sprouted." The reporter examined the lemon, and, sure enough, from two or three of the seeds were sprouts, curling around the inside of the fruit. "That will be a good story to tell at Atlanta, that California is so fertile that the seeds begin to grow while the fruit is still on the tree.

"There weren't many donations today, only some orange-cling peaches, thirteen inches in circumference, from S. T. Davison, Pasadena; samples of alfalfa, raised on the Compton Rancho, Conant & Johnson, Los Angeles; dent and Kentucky calico corn, S. W. Barton, Whittier; and some very fine comb honey, G. W. Brodbeck, city."

A Distressing Case.

PASADENA (Cal.,) Aug. 19.—One of the most distressing diseases one can be afflicted with is asthma. Large doses of Tip Top Cough Syrup taken at the beginning of the attack will eventually check it. Tip Top has been wonderfully successful in a large number of very severe cases. The price of Tip Top is only 50 cents a bottle.

They Do Say

That we sell Canadian Club Whisky for 95c a bottle.

That's True And Easily Explained.

Why, we sell Hoff Extract Malt for $2.80 per dozen.

A Well Known Fact

That we sell Woodbury's Facial Soap for 20c cake.

Pears' Soap, 12½c.

There are two things we wish to tell you:

First—We are cut-rate druggists from start to finish, and when we start to cut there's no stopping us, nor any let up to us. We must be the lowest priced drug house in Los Angeles, and that's all there's to it.

Second—We guarantee the purity and quality of every bit of drugs used in the department. That's our standard, "PURITY AND QUALITY." Price or cost but a secondary consideration.

Our Great Success

In the drug business for the past years was due simply to the fact that we used none but the purest drugs and yet were always the lowest in our charges.

Baby Foods

And foods for invalids. None but those made by the most reliable standard manufacturers of the world are sold by us.
